British, French Approve Warning To Chinese Reds

By Preston Grover

Paris, Feb. 2. —(AP)—France and Britain have agreed they will join the United States in warning Red China against violating any Korean armistice and — if such a violation develops — will join in asking the United Nations for punitive action, a highly placed informant said tonight.

There was no indication of the extent of the punitive action the three powers might ask — a full scale attack, an air - sea war or more limited measures. Responsible authorities in Washington said three weeks ago America's Allies in Korea had substantially agreed to a United States proposal to back up any truce pact with a warning of military action directly against Communist China if the pact was broken.

The Paris informant said Britain and France also agreed to put the brakes on what they consider a "soft" American approach to West Germany as a means of bringing German divisions into the western camp.

The parallel views were reported established by two days of talks in Paris between British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Eden announced upon his return to London tonight that he, Schuman and U. S. Secretary of State Acheson will confer in the British capital Feb. 13 and 14. That meeting is expected to be mainly concerned with German problems.

The reported British - French agreement on a Korean stand came three days after Prime Minister Churchill told a divided British house of commons he had made no "definite or formal commitments" to President Truman on what action Britain would take against Communist China if a Korean truce was ruptured.

Churchill was under some domestic fire at the time for a declaration before congress Jan. 17 that "our two countries are agreed that if the truce we seek is reached only to be broken our response will be prompt, resolute and effective."

"Those words 'prompt, resolute and effective' did not represent any new designs arrived at during our visit," Churchill said. "They do express fully and frank-

CAIRO REPORTED QUIET FOR WEEK

No Violence Reported Since Egyptian Army Took Over

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 2.—(AP)—This middle east capital completed a week of quiet today after three months of tension.

Not since the Egyptian army took over to quell the great fire riots of last Saturday has there been a major incident of violence anywhere in the city. The Suez Canal Zone likewise has been devoid of any major guerrilla clashes with the British garrison since the Wafdist government of Mustapha Hahas Pasha resigned.

The quiet reinforced reports, such as that published by the widely circulated weekly, Akbar Alyom, that the new all - independent government of Aly Maher Pasha had ordered the cessation of all activity by the so-called liberation battalions in the Canal Zone.

Maher Pasha, who took over last Sunday night when King Farouk asked for Nahas Pasha's resignation because of failure to maintain order, was reported doing all possible to restore order and quiet for settling issues with the British, sovereignty over the Sudan and some form of collective security to replace Britain's lone - handed role in defense of the Canal.

Maher Pasha appeared to be concentrating at one of the roots of Egyptian discontent — high living costs. Observers said they believed the new government would shortly launch a program to drive

U. N. Considers Giving Communists Fresh Draft On Details

Munsan, Korea, Sunday, Feb. 3. —(AP)—Allied truce negotiators considered giving the Communists a fresh draft of armistice policing details today to embrace laboriously-won agreements — but the big hurdles still remained.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, United Nations command spokesman, said staff officers from each side would "get into the meat of the differences" at today's panmunjom sessions at 11 a. m., (9 p. m., E. S. T., Saturday).

The staff officers reviewed again Saturday the Allied proposal on ground rules for an armistice. They had spent nearly a week on the 54-paragraph document. The Reds still hedged, but the differences were regarded by Nuckols as "minor."

Even if all those differences were ironed out, the truce teams would have to see eye-to-eye on the question of prisoner exchange and the Allied demand for a ban on new Communist airfields.—and no agreement was in sight on either matter.

At the staff officers' talks, a dispute centered Saturday on Red efforts to forbid neutral inspection teams in most of North Korea.

The Communists insist that the proposed inspection system apply only to three scattered ports of entry in North Korea and three in the south.

Nuckols said this was "entirely inadequate."

The U. N. negotiators propose neutral inspections at 12 places in the north and 12 in the south.

The controversy over fixing a number of ports of entry is one of the barriers to settlement of item three. Other disagreements include: Fixing a ceiling for postwar troop rotation; deciding on how many neutral nations teams will operate in Korea; finding an agreeable definition for coastal waters and determining who will control five Allied held islands lying off the west coast south of parallel 38.

The hotly contested U. N. demand for a clamp on military air field construction during an armistice is being skirted by the staff officers.

The Allies came up with two minor concessions Saturday in the 4-hour, 10-minute staff officers session. The U. N. dropped its proposal to allow neutral inspectors to roam within a 30-mile radius

Government Prober Rapped, Labelled Phony By Senator

Newbold Morris' Appointment To Investigate Corruption In Government Comes Under Fire Of Republican Senator

Washington, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Senator Nixon (R.- Calif.) today assailed the selection of Newbold Morris to head the search for wrongdoers in the government as "a complete phony by the White House."

Morris, New York attorney and a Republican — although an independent one politically, was named by Attorney General McGrath yesterday to head up the administration's long - heralded government housecleaning drive.

"Morris took over with a statement praising Attorney General McGrath, issued before he had even started his investigation," Nixon told a reporter, "and thereby prejudiced himself in any investigation of McGrath.

"Yet he says he is going to start out investigating the justice department."

At Louisville, Ky., Senator Taft of Ohio told reporters he had no confidence in an investigation of corruption "under the aegis of the department of justice."

Nixon and Representative Hillings (R.-Calif.), meanwhile, demanded that a special house investigating committee look into a California judge's order for a grand jury probe of the San Francisco Call - Bulletin.

Nixon said the action will be widely regarded as "retaliation for the newspaper's embarrassing disclosures about the administra-

U. N. Group Votes To Delay Considering Korean Issue

By Francis W. Carpenter

Paris, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Despite violent Russian opposition, a U. N. committee voted tonight to postpone all consideration of the Korean issue until an armistice is reached or a breakdown at Panmunjom forces the U. N. to discuss stronger action.

The general assembly's political, economic and social committees, acting jointly, voted 51 to 5 (Soviet bloc) for a resolution to this effect put up by the United States, Britain and France.

The resolution provides for calling a special or emergency session of the assembly when ever Korean developments warrant, one way or the other. The full assembly is expected to give final approval early next week.

The vote came after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Mal-

MEDICAL GROUP ASKED FOR AID

Doctors Told By Hospital To Quit Birth Control Organization

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP) — The American Medical Association was asked today for action in behalf of seven doctors ordered by a Roman Catholic hospital to quit a birth - control group or leave the hospital staff.

As four of the doctors expressed determination to defy the ultimatum, the planned parenthood federation of America sent the appeal to the AMA, calling the order an "infringement upon medical rights."

The action by St. Francis hospital, the federation said, "not only inflicts grave injustice on the doctors and hardships on their patients but is a dangerous unethical act against the entire medical profession."

Faced with the hospital edict, two doctors have resigned from the Dutchess county planned parenthood league. A third withdrew his services to the league. Four said they will remain in it.

All the doctors are non - Catholics.

The Catholic Church doctrine forbids use of contraceptives or other mechanical means of birth control.

William Vogt, of New York City, national director of the planned parenthood federation, wired the appeal to the AMA.

He told a reporter his organization has "no objection to the Catholics' refusal to use planned parenthood," adding:

"The thing we object to is their trying to force their beliefs on non-Catholics."

The hospital has an announced policy of receiving patients of all faiths.

In the telegram to the AMA, vogt said: "The coercion of physicians in Poughkeepsie is an example of the extreme to which opponents of planned parenthood. . . are sometimes carried by their own dogma."

"Any restrictions placed on physicians who support a program of preventive medicine is invoking a censorship contrary to American tradition and an infringement upon medical rights. . .," the message said.

LONG SPEAKS AT RALLY IN W. M.

Governor Takes Stump For Administration-Backed Carlos Spaht

Assailing Gubernatorial Candidate Robert F. Kennon as the "chief deadhead of them all", Gov. Earl K. Long told a large gathering in West Monroe yesterday that "all of this clap - clap and rabble - rousing which the Kennon ticket is carrying on around the state won't get him into Baton Rouge."

Long, who joined part of the Spaht - McKeithen ticket in Harrisonburg on its tour of the northeastern section of the state, said he had kept the promises he made to the poeple and was not swayed by any of the big oil or newspaper interests. He appealed to the people of the state by saying they had "better keep your government in the hands of the people who are responsible to you and not to the privileged classes."

Turning his wrath on the Minden jurist, the governor said he was "the silliest, nuttiest man I have ever known in my life. Every boy and girl 15 years of age has as much gumption as he does." Long said he would like to have Kennon on the same platform so that he could debate with him the question of the proposed income tax reduction and the homestead exemption, which, Long said, are tied in completely with each other. "If he reduces the income tax, who do you think he is going to help," Long asked, adding that the reduction here would "aid the men who make over $10,000 a year and there are very few of those men."

The governor, who left Baton Rouge yesterday morning to join the tour, expressed confidence that Carlos Spaht, administration - backed candidate, would sweep the state on the February 19 election when he said "just as sure as there is a God in Heaven, they, (Spaht ticket) are going to beat Bob Kennon in Webster parish (Kennon's home parish) and the rest as well."

Also speaking at the meeting in West Monroe were Mary Evelyn Dickerson, John McKeithen, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Spaht ticket, who asserted that Kennon had "been on the public payroll every day of his adult life, yet he was advising the people to rid the state of the 'professional politicians.'"

McKeithen said his opponent, Sen. C. E. 'Cap' Barham, fought the bill which made Northeast Junior College into a full-fledged four-year college, but was now saying he was for the college. He scored a local state representative who last night said Barham did not work against the local school.

Miss Dickerson, candidate for register of state lands, told the large crowd that "for as long as I can remember, every four years we are confronted with the same issues that we are today." These she listed as the old age pension,

KEFAUVER STARTS NOMINATION BID

Senator Calls Republicans People Who Stand For Yesterday

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Senator Estes Kefauver kicked off his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination here tonight with a foreign policy speech calling Republicans people who "stand for yesterday."

In an address prepared for a "Democratic keynote day" gathering, Kefauver also warned that "we live in deadly peril, but we have known peril before."

Kefauver outlined his program for stopping communism, rejecting any contentions that war is inevitable to do it. He said it is a struggle "more than military," involving also "a struggle for the minds and souls of hundreds of millions of people all over the world."

"We of course must hold the line through our armed strength," he declared. "Then we must persuade men that whereas communism offers them only bread, our system offers them both bread and freedom."

The tall Tennesseean urged home front unity in which we are neither labor nor management, Jew or Gentile, White nor Negro."

Kefauver's text made no mention of the senate crime investigating committee as head of which he rose to fame, nor of the scandals in government which have become a major campaign issue.

He did not mention in his text the name of President Truman, whose political plans remain a conundrum. Kefauver has announced he will stay in the race even if Truman seeks another term.

One Killed, Ten Hurt In Car Crashes Here

Three accidents on local highways late yesterday killed a Negro infant and injured ten other persons, two of them seriously.

All three accidents occurred between 6:10 p.m. and 7:10 p.m. State police said they received a report of an accident 12.7 miles north of Monroe on highway 165 at 6:10 p.m., another report of a wreck on highway 165 near Sterlington at 6:15 p.m., and the third on highway 80, nine miles east of Monroe at 7:10 p.m.

Unidentified Planes Bomb Allied Troops

Seoul, Korea, Sunday, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Six unidentified planes bombed and strafed Allied troops on the central Korean front Saturday.

The battlefront otherwise was quiet Saturday, except for brief patrol contacts. In northwest Korea, F-86 Sabre jet pilots reported three Communist MIGs hit in a 30-minute air battle.

Truck Strikc Hurting Many Southern Towns

A. E. Green, Sr., of Kingsport, Tenn., chairman of the negotiating committee for southeastern carriers, said in Memphis that "more than 10,000 small communities in the south that do not have rail service, will get no shipments until the strike ends."

However, M. W. Miller, southern chairman for the Teamsters Union, denied there is any public inconvenience. "I don't think there will be a shortage of anything," he said.

Phantom Driver Will Roam Monroe, W. Monroe Streets

By Yvonne Brett

Who is the Phantom Driver?

The Monroe-News-Star — World in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies, civic and business organizations has laid plans for a safety driver campaign, to be called "The Phantom Driver" to roam the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and pick a driver each week, who in their estimation observes all traffic rules.

All drivers in the Twin Cities will be eligible to participate in the contest. Tentative plans are for the campaign to get underway on February 12.

A 10-day, all expense paid trip to Nassau, will be the grand award for the person selected from all weekly winners as the safest driver. The trip will be made possible through advertising being sold at the present time by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the West Monroe Business Men's Association will donate a prize each week to the persons receiving the honor. The Monroe-News-Star — World will also make a contribution to the award. Many local business men in the Twin Cities who are not associated with the organized merchants have announced that they would like to donate to the worthy award.

Pictures of the two persons receiving the award will be made each week and will appear in the News-Star.

The Louisiana state police, Ouachita parish sheriff's department, and the Monroe and West Monroe police departments in an effort to stop useless deaths on the highways instituted a safety campaign on January 1.

Figures compiled by the four law enforcement agencies showed that 66 deaths occurred in northeast Louisiana in 1951 with 57 being outside the city, eight in Monroe and one in West Monroe. Four of these deaths occurred in 24 hours on December 19.

The year 1952 has already seen five lives taken due to automobile accidents. Three of these were in Monroe and two outside the city limits.

Groundhog Didn't See His Shadow Here Yesterday

Punxsutawney, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—If you believe in groundhogs as weather prophets it's going to be a long winter.

Pennsylvania's two famous groundhog societies both reported today that their groundhog saw its shadow. That's supposed to portend six more weeks of winter.

One of the little animals saw its likeness in the rain on Gobbler's Knob in Punxsutawney.

The other appeared to be a little smarter, waiting for the rain to stop and the sun to peek through cloudy skies before coming out to see his likeness at Quarryville in southern Lancaster county. No sooner had the groundhog scurried back to its burrow than the rains came again.

The Punxsutawney groundhog club was the first to report this annual early morning activity.

"At 7:52 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) the groundhog came out, saw his shadow and crawled back into his burrow, indicating six more weeks of winter," the club reported.

An hour or so later, the slumbering lodge of groundhogs in Quarryville came forth with the announcement its groundhog had seen its shadow. Hibernating Governor Charles F. Hess reported the time as 9:08:46 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Hess said his group had gone scientific in this year's ceremony. They used an instrument called a "shadow-scope." This instrument is so sensitive, said Hess, that when the groundhog comes out, its shadow is immediately registered on a television-like screen.

Hess said that about 100 members of the lodge, dressed in their

The Monroe-News-Star — World in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies, civic and business organizations has laid plans for a safety driver campaign, to be called "The Phantom Driver" to roam the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and pick a driver each week, who in their estimation observes all traffic rules.

All drivers in the Twin Cities will be eligible to participate in the contest. Tentative plans are for the campaign to get underway on February 12.

A 10-day, all expense paid trip to Nassau, will be the grand award for the person selected from all weekly winners as the safest driver. The trip will be made possible through advertising being sold at the present time by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the West Monroe Business Men's Association will donate a prize each week to the persons receiving the honor. The Monroe-News-Star — World will also make a contribution to the award. Many local business men in the Twin Cities who are not associated with the organized merchants have announced that they would like to donate to the worthy award.

Pictures of the two persons receiving the award will be made each week and will appear in the News-Star.

The Louisiana state police, Ouachita parish sheriff's department, and the Monroe and West Monroe police departments in an effort to stop useless deaths on the highways instituted a safety campaign on January 1.

Figures compiled by the four law enforcement agencies showed that 66 deaths occurred in northeast Louisiana in 1951 with 57 being outside the city, eight in Monroe and one in West Monroe. Four of these deaths occurred in 24 hours on December 19.

The year 1952 has already seen five lives taken due to automobile accidents. Three of these were in Monroe and two outside the city limits.

Government Prober Rapped, Labelled Phony By Senator

Newbold Morris' Appointment To Investigate Corruption In Government Comes Under Fire Of Republican Senator

Washington, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Senator Nixon (R.- Calif.) today assailed the selection of Newbold Morris to head the search for wrongdoers in the government as "a complete phony by the White House."

Morris, New York attorney and a Republican — although an independent one politically, was named by Attorney General McGrath yesterday to head up the administration's long - heralded government housecleaning drive.

"Morris took over with a statement praising Attorney General McGrath, issued before he had even started his investigation," Nixon told a reporter, "and thereby prejudiced himself in any investigation of McGrath.

"Yet he says he is going to start out investigating the justice department."

At Louisville, Ky., Senator Taft of Ohio told reporters he had no confidence in an investigation of corruption "under the aegis of the department of justice."

Nixon and Representative Hillings (R.-Calif.), meanwhile, demanded that a special house investigating committee look into a California judge's order for a grand jury probe of the San Francisco Call - Bulletin.

Nixon said the action will be widely regarded as "retaliation for the newspaper's embarrassing disclosures about the administra-

U. N. Group Votes To Delay Considering Korean Issue

By Francis W. Carpenter

Paris, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Despite violent Russian opposition, a U. N. committee voted tonight to postpone all consideration of the Korean issue until an armistice is reached or a breakdown at Panmunjom forces the U. N. to discuss stronger action.

The general assembly's political, economic and social committees, acting jointly, voted 51 to 5 (Soviet bloc) for a resolution to this effect put up by the United States, Britain and France.

The resolution provides for calling a special or emergency session of the assembly when ever Korean developments warrant, one way or the other. The full assembly is expected to give final approval early next week.

The vote came after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Mal-

MEDICAL GROUP ASKED FOR AID

Doctors Told By Hospital To Quit Birth Control Organization

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP) — The American Medical Association was asked today for action in behalf of seven doctors ordered by a Roman Catholic hospital to quit a birth - control group or leave the hospital staff.

As four of the doctors expressed determination to defy the ultimatum, the planned parenthood federation of America sent the appeal to the AMA, calling the order an "infringement upon medical rights."

The action by St. Francis hospital, the federation said, "not only inflicts grave injustice on the doctors and hardships on their patients but is a dangerous unethical act against the entire medical profession."

Faced with the hospital edict, two doctors have resigned from the Dutchess county planned parenthood league. A third withdrew his services to the league. Four said they will remain in it.

All the doctors are non - Catholics.

The Catholic Church doctrine forbids use of contraceptives or other mechanical means of birth control.

William Vogt, of New York City, national director of the planned parenthood federation, wired the appeal to the AMA.

He told a reporter his organization has "no objection to the Catholics' refusal to use planned parenthood," adding:

"The thing we object to is their trying to force their beliefs on non-Catholics."

The hospital has an announced policy of receiving patients of all faiths.

In the telegram to the AMA, vogt said: "The coercion of physicians in Poughkeepsie is an example of the extreme to which opponents of planned parenthood. . . are sometimes carried by their own dogma."

"Any restrictions placed on physicians who support a program of preventive medicine is invoking a censorship contrary to American tradition and an infringement upon medical rights. . .," the message said.

Warn Light Shooters In West Monroe

Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell yesterday warned that persons who have been shooting out street lights in West Monroe — regardless of who it is—will have charges filed against them if they are caught.

Chief Caldwell pointed out that the shootings were strictly against the law and that violators would be prosecuted. He said that the person or persons had used a .22 rifle to shoot out some of the lights and that shootings of this nature had occurred frequently in the past two weeks.

"Such shootings are extremely dangerous," said Caldwell, "espe-

Truck Strike Hurting Many Southern Towns

A management representative said Saturday the strike of AFL truck drivers left 10,000 southern communities without freight service.

Highway frieght movements in 11 southern and southwestern and one midwestern state are tied up by the walkout of about 16,000 members of the A. F. L. Teamsters Union.

A. E. Green, Sr., of Kingsport, Tenn., chairman of the negotiating committee for southeastern carriers, said in Memphis that "more than 10,000 small communities in the south that do not have rail service, will get no shipments until the strike ends."

However, M. W. Miller, southern chairman for the Teamsters Union, denied there is any public inconvenience. "I don't think there will be a shortage of anything," he said.

But in Birmingham, the Interstate Commerce Commission office gave truck lines not affected by the strike emergency authority to serve areas outside their licensed routes. In Washington, the I. C. C. said regional offices have

Groundhog Didn't See His Shadow Here Yesterday

Punxsutawney, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—If you believe in groundhogs as weather prophets it's going to be a long winter.

Pennsylvania's two famous groundhog societies both reported today that their groundhog saw its shadow. That's supposed to portend six more weeks of winter.

Spring here is just around the corner, if you believe in groundhog predictions.

According to the superstition, if the little animal sees his shadow, it means six more weeks of winter. If he doesn't, it will be an early spring.

C. A. A. attendants at Selman Field said the groundhog didn't see his shadow yesterday. The sun failed to break through a day-long, heavy overcast.

One of the little animals saw its likeness in the rain on Gobbler's Knob in Punxsutawney.

The other appeared to be a little smarter, waiting for the rain to stop and the sun to peak through cloudy skies before coming out to see its likeness at Quarryville in southern Lancaster county. No sooner had the groundhog scurried back to its burrow than the rains came again.

The Punxsutawney groundhog club was the first to report this annual early morning activity.

"At 7:52 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) the groundhog came out, saw his shadow and crawled back into his burrow, indicating six more weeks of winter," the club reported.

An hour or so later, the slumbering lodge of groundhogs in Quarryville came forth with the announcement its groundhog had seen its shadow. Hibernating Governor Charles F. Hess reported the time as 9:03:46 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Hess said his group had gone scientific in this year's ceremony. They used an instrument called a "shadow-scope." This instrument is so sensitive, said Hess, that when the groundhog comes out, its shadow is immediately registered on a television-like screen.

Hess said that about 100 members of the lodge, dressed in their

Governor Takes Stump For Administration-Backed Carlos Spaht

Assailing Gubernatorial Candidate Robert F. Kennon as the "chief deadhead of them all', Gov. Earl K. Long told a large gathering in West Monroe yesterday that "all of this clap - clap and rabble - rousing which the Kennon ticket is carrying on around the state won't get him into Baton Rouge."

Long, who joined part of the Spaht - McKeithen ticket in Harrisonburg on its tour of the northeastern section of the state, said he had kept the promises he made to the poeple and was not swayed by any of the big oil or newspaper interests. He appealed to the people of the state by saying they had "better keep your government in the hands of the people who are responsible to you and not to the privileged classes."

Turning his wrath on the Minden jurist, the governor said he was "the silliest, nuttiest man I have ever known in my life. Every boy and girl 15 years of age has as much gumption as he does." Long said he would like to have Kennon on the same platform so that he could debate with him the question of the proposed income tax reduction and the homestead exemption, which, Long said, are tied in completely with each other. "If he reduces the income tax, who do you think he is going to help," Long asked, adding that the reduction here would "aid the men who make over $10,000 a year and there are very few of those men."

The governor, who left Baton Rouge yesterday morning to join the tour, expressed confidence that Carlos Spaht, administration - backed candidate, would sweep the state on the February 19 election when he said "just as sure as there is a God in Heaven, they, (Spaht ticket) are going to beat Bob Kennon in Webster parish (Kennon's home parish) and the rest as well."

Also speaking at the meeting in West Monroe were Mary Evelyn Dickerson, John McKeithen, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Spaht ticket, who asserted that Kennon had "been on the public payroll every day of his adult life, yet he was advising the people to rid the state of the 'professional politicians."

McKeithen said his opponent, Sen. C. E. 'Cap' Barham, fought the bill which made Northeast Junior College into a full-fledged four-year college, but was now saying he was for the college. He scored a local state representative who last night said Barham did not work against the local school.

Miss Dickerson, candidate for register of state lands, told the large crowd that "for as long as I can remember, every four years we are confronted with the same issues that we are today." These she listed as the old age pension,

KEFAUVER STARTS NOMINATION BID

Senator Calls Republicans People Who Stand For Yesterday

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Senator Estes Kefauver kicked off his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination here tonight with a foreign policy speech calling Republicans people who "stand for yesterday."

In an address prepared for a "Democratic keynote day" gathering, Kefauver also warned that "we live in deadly peril, but we have known peril before."

Kefauver outlined his program for stopping communism, rejecting any contentions that war is inevitable to do it. He said it is a struggle "more than military," involving also "a struggle for the minds and souls of hundreds of millions of people all over the world."

"We of course must hold the line through our armed strength," he declared. "Then we must persuade men that whereas communism offers them only bread, our system offers them both bread and freedom."

The tall Tennesseean urged home front unity in which we are neither labor nor management, Jew or Gentile, White nor Negro."

Kefauver's text made no mention of the senate crime investigating committee as head of which he rose to fame, nor of the scandals in government which have become a major campaign issue.

He did not mention in his text the name of President Truman, whose political plans remain a conundrum. Kefauver has announced he will stay in the race even if Truman seeks another term.

SEMI-TROPICAL LA. GREENEST

Climate Makes Possible Plant Life For 12 Months Of Year

In behalf of farmers, a Louisiana official this week described his state as probably the "greenest" in the union—but hastoned to add that he was speaking strictly from the "growing-plant" standpoint.

The statement was in an invitation by Joseph Hebert, commerce and industry director, to a toothpaste manufacturer (Lever Bros.) to buy raw material in Louisiana.

The material is chlorophyll, a substance which makes plants green and which kills odors as well as bacteria. It comes largely from alfalfa and similar plants.

"Because of our semi-tropical climate," Hebert wrote, "our great outdoors is green practically all year, including periods when most other states are gray brown or white.

As to alfalfa, he reported, Louisiana grows up to 50,000 tons of the stuff a year, most of which simply becomes hay. He said, many times that amount can be raised.

Hebert suggested that the manufacturer also considered establishing a chlorophyll extraction plant in Louisiana and also build a plant here to make the chlorophyll toothpaste.

"Louisiana offers," he wrote, "a growing market and easy access to the great Mississippi Valley region of the Caribbean," as well as mild climate, good labor supply, cheap power and raw materials and tax exemptions for new industries.

Citing the new aluminum, carbon black, cordage and other plants that came to Louisiana last year, Hebert assured the toothpaste maker he would be "among good neighbors" in this state.

CIVITANS GIVE 'PIGGY' HOARD

Bank's Contents Turned Over To 'Mothers March Of Dimes'

Members of the Civitan Club had been carefully nourishing their "piggy bank" with nickels, dimes, quarters and an occasional half dollar. Money was extracted from luckless members who were penalized for such misdeeds as failure to arrive on time, being absent at a meeting, lacking the wearing of the Civitan pin and similar delinquencies. The "bank" was quite well fed and its contents voted to the cause of the "March of Dimes."

On Thursday evening the meeting of the club was coincident with the "Mothers' March of Dimes" and as the club members responded to the call of Miss Mary Louise Farr, from "March of Dimes," they grouped themselves on the lighted porch for a picture as the transfer of "piggy" and its contents were made to Miss Farr.

Club President Harold Riggs received the "bank" from Civitan Treasurer Lea Thompson and Miss Farr was the ultimate recipient.

So far as made known the exact sum of money involved was not made public, but it is said to have been upwards (we hope it was upwards) of fifteen dollars.

The "bank" was quite well fed and its contents voted to the cause of the "March of Dimes."

On Thursday evening the meeting of the club was coincident with the "Mothers' March of Dimes" and as the club members responded to the call of Miss Mary Louise Farr, from "March of Dimes," they grouped themselves on the lighted porch for a picture as the transfer of "piggy" and its contents were made to Miss Farr.

Club President Harold Riggs received the "bank" from Civitan Treasurer Lea Thompson and Miss Farr was the ultimate recipient.

So far as made known the exact sum of money involved was not made public, but it is said to have been upwards (we hope it was upwards) of fifteen dollars.

The Most Reverend Charles Paschal Greco, bishop of Alexandria, will preside and officiate at the opening Pontificial high mass in St. Matthew's Church on Saturday morning.

The Right Reverend J. C. Marsh, pastor and director of St. Matthew's Church, and school is general chairman of the convention, and the Reverend H. Sheldon is director of the local Sodality. Miss Sally Hays, prefect, is in charge of the committees that are preparing for this major event. According to the Reverend A. B. Kearns, S. J. Dioscesan director of Sodalities, an approximate 700 delegates are expected to be in session during the convention to hear the Reverend Joseph Shinners, S. J. of St. Louis who will lead the discussions.

Carnival plans are still underway with much progress made in the line of program preparation and auditorium decoration. Contestants for queen are Evy Lee Ritter, Phyllis JoNastasi, Anna Marie Danna, Miriam Biggar, and Wanda Factor. Second run-off for highest honors in the court will take place on February 11, and on February 22, final votes will be cast for queen of the carnival. The name of the queen will be announced the night of the Mardi Gras Ball, February 26.

Two beautiful vocation panels are in the making up in the high school department. One will contain photos and biographies of all boys of St. Matthew's who entered the priesthood or religious life, and the other all girls. Senior and junior boys and girls are in charge of this project.

Defense Of Intoxication

Aside from the usual keen interest attached to a murder case, there were several phases of the trial of "Buck" Evans for the killing of Mrs. Amanda Solomon that are well worthy of mention.

Among these were the unusual defense by reason of intoxication, the conscientious service rendered by members of the jury and the capable way in which the prosecution was handled by District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., and Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown. Also unusual was the fact that quite a large number of prospective jurors disqualified themselves because of their unwillingness to concede that intoxication could in any way mitigate a man's responsibility for his crime, although the law provides a way of possible mitigation for this reason.

General expressions were that the verdict was a victory for the prosecution, since most guessers appeared to be predicting that the jury would not go stronger than a manslaughter verdict.

Judge Frank Voelker, who presided at the trial, thanked the jurors for having done a competent and conscientious job and this expression seemed to be well deserved.

It can be safely said that every member of the jury served because he was willing to do so or because he felt it to be a patriotic duty. There were at least four points on which prospective jurors could disqualify themselves and this fact was apparent to all the men who were examined. Any prospective juryman could disqualify himself by saying that he did not believe in capital punishment, that he had a fixed opinion in the case, that he did not believe in insanity as a defense and that he did not believe in intoxication as a defense.

It has long been recognized that those who do not wish to serve as jurors in a capital case can disqualify themselves most easily by saying they do not believe in capital punishment. This has become such a common practice that it is often regarded as a stock excuse for avoiding jury service, rather than a real conscientious objection, although there are some who could not conscientiously impose a death verdict.

Most of those who disqualified themselves as jurors in the Evans trial did so because of an apparently real reluctance to concede that intoxication can ever be a mitigating circumstance in the commission of a crime. District Attorney Fudickar stated after the trial, and this writer agrees, that all those who disqualified themselves on this point actually would have been competent jurors had they been aware of the extremely fine point drawn by the law in offering intoxication as a defense. These men would have been accepted by the prosecutor but either disqualified themselves by saying they would be absolutely unable to consider intoxication as a defense or were challenged by the defense.

The defense attorney, Kent Breard, presented a good defense, apparently taking advantage of all avenues permitted under the law, and was extremely cautious in selecting jurors, refusing to accept "teetotalers" or non-drinkers. In this he could have been mistaken, however, as non-drinkers appeared more willing than drinkers to consider the possibility of intoxication as a defense.

The defense of intoxication has been referred to here as merely providing for mitigation of the offense and this appears true as far as voluntary intoxication is concerned. Unless a defendant has been forcibly drugged or intoxicated, no acquittal is called for by that defense but the law provides that if he is so intoxicated that he is incapable of intent to murder, there may be a verdict of manslaughter. This virtually places the matter on a level with a killing in which there is no premeditation of murder and no intoxication, in which case a manslaughter verdict also is allowed.

An intoxication case of this kind might be one in which the drunk person, angry and flailing around in general, might strike some one and kill him without any premeditated intention of doing so.

Judge Voelker's charge to the jury, covering the intoxication phase, probably gives the clearest possible picture of what the law provides. That part of the charge was as follows:

"The fact of an intoxicated or drugged condition of the offender at the time of the commission of the crime is immaterial, except as follows:

"(1) Where the production of the intoxicated or drugged condition has been involuntary, and the circumstances indicate this condition is the direct cause of the crime, the offender is exempted from criminal responsibility.

"(2) Where the circumstances indicate that an intoxicated or drugged condition has precluded the presence of a specific intent or of special knowledge required in a particular crime, this fact constitutes a defense to a prosecution of that crime.

"Intoxication is no justification or excuse for crime: but evidence of excessive intoxication, by which party is wholly deprived of reason, if not indulged in to commit a crime, may be submitted to the jury for it to consider whether in fact a crime has been committed.

"In this case the evidence of intoxication is to be considered as bearing on the question: whether the killing was by specific intent, so as to constitute murder, or without specific intent, therefore manslaughter.

In questions whether the killing was under provocation, proof of intoxication is admissable as tending, together with the evidence of provocation, to show that the act was done in the heat of passion and not by specific intent and that the killing was therefore manslaughter and not murder."

Judge Voelker gave the jury five possible verdicts it could render, and "not guilty by reason of intoxication" was not among these reasons. Therefore, to a layman, this means that while voluntary intoxication can be a mitigating factor, if it reaches the point at which intent is impossible, it cannot exempt the offender, unless it has produced insanity.

Possible verdicts listed by Judge Voelker were as follows:

1. Guilty as charged. In which case the penalty is death by electrocution.

"2. Guilty without capital punishment. In which case punishment would be life imprisonment, at hard labor, in the penitentiary.

"3. Guilty of manslaughter. In which case the punishment could be imprisonment at hard labor, in the penitentiary, for not more than 21 years.

"4. Not guilty by reason of insanity.

"5. Not guilty."

The principal conclusion from the attitude of the [illegible] and prospective jurors is that anyone claiming intoxication as a defense would have to do a lot of proving [illegible] the defense of intoxication would bear any weight [illegible] the jury.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

EGYPT

While it is undoubtedly true that in the current turmoil in Egypt, Soviet Russia stirs already muddied waters, Egyptian nationalism had made itself felt for a prolonged period, anti - foreign riots having taken place as early as June 12, 1882.

Nationalism was then, as now, a strong motivating force in all eastern Mediterranean countries, ancient peoples resisting their control by the younger and, to them, less important, western European countries. Today, internationalism is regarded by such peoples as a weapon of the Anglo - American powers to maintain the authority of the British Empire.

Woodrow Wilson revived the spirit of nationalism among the weak and backward nations, particularly in Asia, by the "Fourteen Points," supporting the concept of self - determination. In India, China and Egypt, colonialism became the most objectionable form of western domination of eastern people. Sun Yat-sen turned his back on America and his eyes toward Soviet Russia on the issue of colonialism; Gandhi excited the imagination of the world on the same issue.

The basic problem in Egypt is the revision of the 1936 treaty with Great Britain. In July, 1951, the Egyptian foreign minister stated:

". . .Perhaps the British had now realized, however, that 'the most important point in any Anglo - Egyptian talks is that Egypt will not stand on their side at any time so long as they insist on occupying our territory and on separating the Sudan from Egypt.' The 1936 treaty would avail them nothing at a time of political or military pressure. Instead, it would be a cause of friction between Egypt and Britain 'at the moment of their grave and most pressing crisis'. . ."

The Egyptians demand that the Sudan must be under Egypt and greater Egyptian participation in the Suez canal; the evacuation of British troops and the unification of the Nile valley. On August 26, 1951, a mass meeting of the Socialist, Nationalist, and Socialist - Peasant parties passed resolutions demanding that the 1936 Anglo - Egyptian treaty and the 1899 Sudan Condominium agreement be abrogated without delay. They called for a boycott of British troops, and that no food, material, or labor be allowed to reach British camps.

In October, the radical nationalistic Moslem brotherhood passed violent resolutions, perhaps the strongest of which were the first three:

". . .(1) That a state of war with Britain should be declared and British forces in Egypt and the Sudan be considered aggressors (2) That Anglp - Egyptian economic, commercial, and cultural relations should be severed: (3) That all Egyptians should be allowed to carry arms without licence and that assaults on Britons should not be punishable. . ."

Great Britain, the United States, France and Turkey, proposed the Allied middle east command, inviting Egypt to join them. Should Egypt accept the invitation, Great Britain would agree to the suspension of the 1936 treaty and to the withdrawal of such British forces not allocated to the proposed middle east command. The proposal is long, complicated, dealing with Egyptian, Sudanese and Suez problems. Egypt rejected this proposal on the ground that it could not be considered while British forces remained in Egypt.

The difficulty that the Egyptian government faced obviously was that they had so inflamed their own people against Great Britain that they could not stem the tide. This was most evident when Pakistan's offer of mediation was rejected.

The Egyptian prime minister, Nahas Pasha, offered the Egyptian parliament four decrees unilaterally abrogating the Anglo - Egyptian treaty of 1936 and the 1899 Condominium agreement.

This naturally the British rejected and the rejection was supported by the United States. The British replied:

"The Anglo - Egyptian treaty of friendship and alliance of 1936 contains no provision for unilateral denunciation at any time. If the principle were accepted that one party to such a treaty were entitled to denounce that treaty unilaterally, no reliance could be placed on any international agreement, and the whole basis and structure of international relations would cease to exist. . "

The year 1951 ended with no solution to any of the Egyptian problems, which now have reached a climax with the fall of the Egyptian cabinet, the assertion of unusual authority by the king, and the burning of the historic Shepheard's Hotel, during rioting.

This is a struggle between nationalism and internationalism, a solution for which is not immediately available. Neither side can readily give in and the United Nations lacks the prestige to be of any value. Yet, a solution must be found if the Moslem world is not to turn entirely against the west.

Ed Fitzgerald, who with Pegeen invented the husband - and - wife breakfast broadcast, demands publicly that I write more about Duffy the Goat.

Duffy was a slugger and killer, a merchant of mayhem and murder, for hire on either side of any cause that could pay for his services. He died in the Joliet pen, doing life.

You wouldn't think that decent folks would want and urge more about him. But I get more response whenever I recall the deeds of the Goat than I do when I pontificate about politics or economics or brotherly love.

His right name was Dufay. He had been run off the Montreal waterfront by the police.

He came to Chicago, where they hung his monicker on him because he was short and musclebound and one of his best methods of attack was butting with his hard head. But he was deadly with his fists and feet, too, if he could get in the first clout, which, as a professional, he regarded as his prerogative.

I saw him, while he was supporting a strike, grab the owner of the plant as he started across the sidewalk to his car, pick him up under the armpits from behind swing him over his head and break both his shins on the edge of the curb-stone.

The next week, working for the man he had crippled, he gave one of the union pickets the boots and staved in his ribs.

The Goat, vulnerable to blondes had a case on Margie C., a pint-sized pugnosed cutie who was singing at a saloon on Twenty-second street one summer. Every night he came there and wept and applauded as she gave with sad ballads.

If others did not loudly show their appreciation he glowered at them, and once, when a listener did not bring his hands together at all, the Goat socked him.

Dave Carew, who owned the place, chided him and made it clear he would tolerate no more such violence.

Dave was an ex-cop, had been discharged from the force for killing a man without valid reason, and was tough.

A nightly patron of the place was a mysterious fellow we all called Charlie Pabst. A table was reserved for him. He was always alone. He would drink only beer. The waiter was ordered to stack all the empties on his table, and not until it was completely covered would he leave.

Something Margie had sung had struck a chord in Charlie's heart. He broke out into continuous applause. He even stood up and banged his palms together.

Up leaped the Goat. He walked over to Charlie and shouted:

"You're clappin' too much. It ain't becus you like the singin'. You got other ideas!"

Whereupon he floored Charlie. Dave picked his pet customer up and spoke soothingly to him.

Then he went back of the bar and reappeared with a baseball bat which he used for crushing ice and disorderly conduct. He strode over to the Goat and said:

"Next time you lay a hand on anybody in this joint, I'll scramble the insides of your thick skull. And what's more, I'll fire Margie."

Few people talked that way to Duffy and survived to see another sun rise over Lake Michigan.

But Dave had the bludgeon poised and stood at just the right distance to use it at its most effective range.

[illegible], the thought of Margie out of a job, where he couldn't sit and listen and adore her, was a damper against desperate action.

The Goat hesitated one moment. Then he got out of his chair, turned, and shuffled out of the place.

On the street, it was long past midnight, he looked up and down. Few pedestrians were abroad.

But in time he saw a hobo making his way east from the State street skidrow, to seek his slumber on the grass of Grant park.

Duffy waited for him to come up.

He stepped from the doorway, seized the bum, beat him fiercely, then threw him, senseless, into the gutter.

The light was again in Duffy's eyes and he carried his bulky shoulders square as he turned and went back into Dave's and made his way again to his chair.

You could see the Goat felt like a man once more.

And Margie's job was safe!

Hollywood, Feb. 2. —(AP)— What is television doing to England?

There has been much written about the effect of TV on family life in this country. Now comes a report on what the home set is doing to English viewers. Among other things, TV is apparently adding to friction between English husbands and wives.

The London Sunday Express surveyed TV habits and found that married couples can have fights over the set if their tastes differ. The reason: If the husband doesn't like the entertainment, he has to retire to the kitchen to read or work.

TV has apparently caught on in England, and 2,000,000 viewers are expected to be added to the audience this year. The Express reported that TV already has revolutionized home life, broken lifetime habits and proved "a more powerful drug than the radio or cinema."

The Express said TV is "destroying conversation; cutting people off from their friends; sending thousands of children late to bed because they have been allowed to sit up for the evening programs."

On the credit side, British TV "encourages manual hobbies by televised demonstrations; stimulates the average housewife by cookery series; awakens interest in party politics by screened discussions."

The B. B. C., the government agency which operates broadcasting in England, discovered after a survey that of every 100 viewers: 86 reduce radio-listening; 63 reduce movie going; 49 play fewer indoor games; 46 read less; 35 cut down theatre going; 22 see less of their old friends; 14 garden less; 11 take less trips to the country and nine cut down on golf, cricket, tennis and football.

British viewers apparently have the same habits as Americans. When they first get the set, they watch it almost continuously. That's called the "honeymoon period."

The Express also polled some individual TV fans for their views. Among the reactions:

A civil servant: "I enjoy TV as a convenient and inexpensive entertainment. It gives me a new instrument of punishment—if my children misbehave, they must go without TV."

An English businessman: "It has given my wife indigestion, because she insists on eating supper on her lap while viewing from a low chair" . . .

You can't scoop up dept.: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thomas this week welcomed a baby girl, name Janet Elizabeth. The father writes about movies and things for the AP.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Feb. 2.—A few days ago, the lifeless body of a 35-year-old woman identified as one Pauline Evans was discovered in a Calexico, California, hotel room. According to police records, she had been a chronic alcoholic for years. Arrested time and again for drunkenness, she had been committed repeatedly to various California state institutions. About ten years before her death she had been, very briefly, an obscure bit player in Hollywood, and the wife of an actor named Donald Reed.

So much for the facts; now for the fancy.

One of southern California's most sensational newspapers immediately seized upon that sordid, all-too-common, story and pinned on it the following headline: "Ex-Star's Last Chance Ended." It made no difference to the editors of that paper that Pauline Evans, far from being "a star," had never actually achieved importance enough in the motion picture industry to have her name listed in any one of the players' directories which make it a practice to list everyone above the degree of extra.

For once, I'd like to share the motion picture industry's resentment of "the press." That headline was not only untrue, it was a deliberate effort to capitalize on public interest in Hollywood, at Hollywood's expense. It was irresponsible journalism of the yellowist kind.

Hollywood has enough legitimate troubles without being smeared because of the fact that a pitiful human derelict once worked on a few movie sets.

Idol Chatter: Wonder who puts the highest monetary value on Errol Flynn—his studio bosses, or the lawyer who's currently representing him in four lawsuits? . . . Peas-in-a-pod: Nancy Davis and Cathy Lewis . . . Folks who want to "get away from Hollywood" soon will have to settle in Patagonia, the way movie troupes are touring the world . . . Add "it must be love" items: Marshall Thompson's decision to sell his racing sloop because his missus suffers from chronic mal de mer . . . According to Humphrey Bogart, the million that anyone could acquire after paying present-day taxes would have to be "hot" rather than "cool" . . . Advertising that could impel me to buy theatre tickets "Starring Ann Harding" . . . Cecil B. De Mille seems to have slowed down a bit now he's in his seventies; he has only three super-colossals in preparation simultaneously instead of a dozen.

Eddie Anhalt, associate producer of the Stanley Kramer picture, "My Six Convicts," tells it as a chucklesome illustration of the tribulations that confront a moviemaker. When the picture was previewed the other night, studio representatives, as usual, handed out postcards to the audience and asked for comments. Among the cards received the following day was one from a man who complained that he hadn't found the picture entirely believable because the prison sets were "overdone."

All of the prison sequences in "My Six Convicts" were filmed within the walls of San Quentin. The "sets" complained about were built, not by the moviemakers, but by the state of California!

A couple of weeks ago, Claude Binyon gave in to a life-long temptation and bought himself a parrot—a wise-looking bird guaranteed to be a good talker as soon as it became accustomed to its new surroundings in the Binyon home. The parrot is now acclimated, and it has begun talking, but despite Binyon's coaxing, all he can get from his new pet is one sentence that it repeats over and over again. It goes like this: "Yes . . yes . . yes . . yes Sir! You're absolutely right, sir! Yes indeed, sir!" The owner says his curiosity has become almost unbearable. He'll never rest until he finds out which studio executive was the bird's previous owner.

BASCOM TIMMONS

In Washington

Congressional committees investigating various phases of crime, but principally gambling and rackets, have resigned themselves to the monotonous reply of witnesses, "I refuse to answer on grounds that it may tend to incriminate me."

Usually they repeat that ritual-like sentence on advice of counsel but several of the smaller fry have conceded that they picked it up from big time racketeers who testified before television cameras in the Kefauver crime commission investigations.

At the time of the Kefauver inquiry and before, members of congress conducting the questioning bristled at defiant witnesses and immediately moved to cite them for contempt, confident that their subsequent indictment and trial would result in conviction and jail sentences for contempt. Usually it did.

Now congress finds itself backed into a corner, with an increasing number of decisions by federal jurists holding that the witnesses — and especially those whose criminal backgrounds are definite—are justified in their refusal to answer committee questioning.

In other words, the courts hold that if a witness actually feels that he would incriminate himself by answering the committee questions, he had a constitutional right not to answer. The situation which has developed as a result seems to render futile the continuance of some angles of the crime investigations.

The most serious blow to committee authority came in a decision by Federal Judge Edward A. Tamm, in federal district court here, in the contempt case of Jake "Greasy Thumb" Guzik, a kingpin in the Chicago underworld and survivor of the old Capone gang, who refused to answer any questions from the Kefauver committee, even to tell his age or how long he had lived in Chicago. The judge held that Guzik was within his rights in refusals to answer.

In other cases, Patricia Blau was upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court for refusing to answer questions about the way the Communist party was set up, and a witness named Rosen in the Alger Hiss case, who was alleged to have handled the transfer of a used car from Hiss to Whittaker Chambers, which was denied by Hiss, stood on the grounds of possible incrimination, which the U. S. court of appeals here held he was entitled to do.

There are several similar cases pending in federal courts, with the investigating committees resigned to the strong possibility that the witnesses fear of incrimination will be backed up in court.

The explanation of the courts' actions is not hard to understand, in view of their tendency to adhere closely to the Constitution of the United States. When the bill of rights was written the authors followed the common law of England which provided that no witness can be required to give evidence against himself or make statements which he believes would incriminate. And to prove that what he believes would incriminate him would not actually do so is very difficult under rules of court procedure.

One of the famous rulings on incrimination was handed down by the revered Chief Justice John Marshall in the treason case against Aaron Burr, one time vice-president of the United States.

Marshall held that a witness does not have to answer a question "if that answer may disclose a fact which form a necessary and essential link in the chain of testimony which would convict him of a crime."

That opinion is heavily relied on today by defense lawyers in both gambling and perjury cases arising before committees of congress to save their clients from convictions for contempt of congress.

The defendants were given warning of what might happen if they try to cooperate by answering questions in the case of Frank Erickson, allegedly one of the country's leading bookmakers, who did answer some questions before the Kefauver committee. He is now serving a jail term in New York because some of his answers were seized upon by prosecutors as leads in tracking down evidence used against him in his subsequent trial on gambling charges.

The fifth amendment to the constitution has thus placed the investigators in a quandary from which escape will not be easy. The point of law involved is so fundamental that none of the many able lawyers in congress has yet suggested a tenable solution. In a recent investigation of crime in the District of Columbia by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Matthew Neely (Dem. - W. Va.) a dozen colored witnesses involved in the numbers racket intoned the "fuse to answer" dodge, while police officials, though their testimony plainly might incriminate them, answered without stalling.

Since congress does not like to be defied, there may be a general disinclination to go forward with inquiries such as the effective work of the Kefauver committee.

New York, —(AP)— Glorified ham is a standard commodity on the Broadway stage.

But Arthur Maisel has founded a fortune in the midtown glitter belt by glorifying it in a national dish—ham and eggs. His success tale is a story of showmanship in food.

Ten years ago Maisel was a radio salesman, worried that wartime shortages would put him out of work. He dropped into a Broadway restaurant and ordered some ham and eggs.

"By the time they got to me they were cold," he said. "That had happened to me a lot of times. I got to wondering why.

"I was a kind of a gourmet. So I went home and experimented in my own kitchen. I found that if I served them in the skillet they were cooked in they stayed hot."

With $900 he had saved and $3,200 he borrowed Maisel opened a restaurant on Broadway—specializing in ham and eggs served in shorthandled, gleaming stainless steel skillets hot from the fire. The only other things on the menu were coffee and deep dish pies.

"If I had known more about the restaurant business I wouldn't have dared the gamble," Maisel recalled with a smile. "Everyone then figured only a hamburger stand could get by with only one real item on the menu.

But the Broadwayites came in hordes. These homeless sophisticates like the homey touch of eating out of a skillet.

Today Maisel has six colorful restaurants in mid-Manhattan, grosses $4,000,000 a year, plans a national chain of ham-and-eggeries. He has now expanded his menu to include other standard dishes such as steak, potatoes and onions.

"I aim at a forgotten mass market—the white collar class," he said. "They are the people who want a good Amercican dinner under $2."

Maisel says he can produce this by buying his supplies from the source instead of through middlemen. The 125,000 customers he serves each week consume 144,000 eggs, three tons of ham, two carloads of potatoes, two carloads of onions, and four-and-a-half tons of beef.

"A restaurant needs a theme," is his belief. "The town was overrun with Italian, French and Chinese Restaurants. None seemed to be taking a pride in its American food. That's why I concentrated on it."

Maisel made money so fast it began to bother him. He was proud of his financial success — he still is — but he felt that a growing bank account didn't justify a man's being alive.

One day a garbage attendant told him of a brother who was in prison and eligible for parole—"if he only had a job."

Maisel investigated, arranged for a job, got the man freed. The incident got him interested in prison welfare, and it has become almost a second career for him. He has helped free and find jobs for some 50 convicts.

"I don't touch habitual criminals," he said. "But I do want to help neglected men who have made one mistake, paid for it, and deserve a second chance. And no one I've helped has ever betrayed my trust.

"I am not religious, but I tell you I felt the call to help these men. Sometimes people, in the endeavor to build themselves up, forget the rest of the world. I didn't want to be like that."

Maisel has enlisted Broadway business associates in his work. He sometimes drives 500 miles himself to visit a prison, help a parolee get a fresh start in life.

He says it has given him more happiness than the gold he found in glorifying ham and eggs.

CRACKS AUSTRIAN WHIP

Vienna—(AP)—Soviet authorities recently inspected Austrian schools in their occupation zone to check the progress of Russian language courses, a spokesman of the Austrian Ministry for Education said recently.

In schools where but little interest was found on the part of the pupils to learn Russian or where records showed insufficient progress, the inspecting officers blamed the leader of the school and the respective teachers for sabotaging the education plans.

The Soviet officials also demanded the showing of Soviet films in the schools. Teachers were to be held responsible for a complete attendance at these performances.

Defense Of Intoxication

Aside from the usual keen interest attached to a murder case, there were several phases of the trial of "Buck" Evans for the killing of Mrs. Amanda Solomon that are well worthy of mention.

Among these were the unusual defense by reason of intoxication, the conscientious service rendered by members of the jury and the capable way in which the prosecution was handled by District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., and Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown. Also unusual was the fact that quite a large number of prospective jurors disqualified themselves because of their unwillingness to concede that intoxication could in any way mitigate a man's responsibility for his crime, although the law provides a way of possible mitigation for this reason.

General expressions were that the verdict was a victory for the prosecution, since most guessers appeared to be predicting that the jury would not go stronger than a manslaughter verdict.

Judge Frank Voelker, who presided at the trial, thanked the jurors for having done a competent and conscientious job and this expression seemed to be well deserved.

It can be safely said that every member of the jury served because he was willing to do so or because he felt it to be a patriotic duty. There were at least four points on which prospective jurors could disqualify themselves and this fact was apparent to all the men who were examined. Any prospective juryman could disqualify himself by saying that he did not believe in capital punishment, that he had a fixed opinion in the case, that he did not believe in insanity as a defense and that he did not believe in intoxication as a defense.

It has long been recognized that those who do not wish to serve as jurors in a capital case can disqualify themselves most easily by saying they do not believe in capital punishment. This has become such a common practice that it is often regarded as a stock excuse for avoiding jury service, rather than a real conscientious objection, although there are some who could not conscientiously impose a death verdict.

Most of those who disqualified themselves as jurors in the Evans trial did so because of an apparently real reluctance to concede that intoxication can ever be a mitigating circumstance in the commission of a crime. District Attorney Fudickar stated after the trial, and this writer agrees, that all those who disqualified themselves on this point actually would have been competent jurors had they been aware of the extremely fine point drawn by the law in offering intoxication as a defense. These men would have been accepted by the prosecutor but either disqualified themselves by saying they would be absolutely unable to consider intoxication as a defense or were challenged by the defense.

The defense attorney, Kent Breard, presented a good defense, apparently taking advantage of all avenues permitted under the law, and was extremely cautious in selecting jurors, refusing to accept "teetotalers" or non-drinkers. In this he could have been mistaken, however, as non-drinkers appeared more willing than drinkers to consider the possibility of intoxication as a defense.

The defense of intoxication has been referred to here as merely providing for mitigation of the offense and this appears true as far as voluntary intoxication is concerned. Unless a defendant has been forcibly drugged or intoxicated, no acquittal is called for by that defense but the law provides that if he is so intoxicated that he is incapable of intent to murder, there may be a verdict of manslaughter. This virtually places the matter on a level with a killing in which there is no premeditation of murder and no intoxication, in which case a manslaughter verdict also is allowed.

An intoxication case of this kind might be one in which the drunk person, angry and flailing around in general, might strike some one and kill him without any premeditated intention of doing so.

Judge Voelker's charge to the jury, covering the intoxication phase, probably gives the clearest possible picture of what the law provides. That part of the charge was as follows:

"The fact of an intoxicated or drugged condition of the offender at the time of the commission of the crime is immaterial, except as follows:

"(1) Where the production of the intoxicated or drugged condition has been involuntary, and the circumstances indicate this condition is the direct cause of the crime, the offender is exempted from criminal responsibility.

"(2) Where the circumstances indicate that an intoxicated or drugged condition has precluded the presence of a specific intent or of special knowledge required in a particular crime, this fact constitutes a defense to a prosecution of that crime.

"Intoxication is no justification or excuse for crime: but evidence of excessive intoxication, by which party is wholly deprived of reason, if not indulged in to commit a crime, may be submitted to the jury for it to consider whether in fact a crime has been committed.

"In this case the evidence of intoxication is to be considered as bearing on the question: whether the killing was by specific intent, so as to constitute murder, or without specific intent, therefore manslaughter.

In questions whether the killing was under provocation, proof of intoxication is admissable as tending, together with the evidence of provocation, to show that the act was done in the heat of passion and not by specific intent and that the killing was therefore manslaughter and not murder."

Judge Voelker gave the jury five possible verdicts it could render, and "not guilty by reason of intoxication" was not among these reasons. Therefore, to a layman, this means that while voluntary intoxication can be a mitigating factor, if it reaches the point at which intent is impossible, it cannot exempt the offender, unless it has produced insanity.

Possible verdicts listed by Judge Voelker were as follows:

1. Guilty as charged. In which case the penalty is death by electrocution.

"2. Guilty without capital punishment. In which case punishment would be life imprisonment, at hard labor, in the penitentiary.

"3. Guilty of manslaughter. In which case the punishment could be imprisonment at hard labor, in the penitentiary, for not more than 21 years.

"4. Not guilty by reason of insanity.

"5. Not guilty."

The principal conclusion from the attitude of the jurors and prospective jurors is that anyone claiming intoxication as a defense would have to do a lot of proving before the defense of intoxication would bear any weight with the jury.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

EGYPT

While it is undoubtedly true that in the current turmoil in Egypt, Soviet Russia stirs already muddied waters, Egyptian nationalism had made itself felt for a prolonged period, anti - foreign riots having taken place as early as June 12, 1882.

Nationalism was then, as now, a strong motivating force in all eastern Mediterranean countries, ancient peoples resisting their control by the younger and, to them, less important, western European countries. Today, internationalism is regarded by such peoples as a weapon of the Anglo - American powers to maintain the authority of the British Empire.

Woodrow Wilson revived the spirit of nationalism among the weak and backward nations, particularly in Asia, by the "Fourteen Points," supporting the concept of self - determination. In India, China and Egypt, colonialism became the most objectionable form of western domination of east ern people. Sun Yat-sen turned his back on America and his eyes toward Soviet Russia on the issue of colonialism; Gandhi excited the imagination of the world on the same issue.

The basic problem in Egypt is the revision of the 1936 treaty with Great Britain. In July, 1951, the Egyptian foreign minister stated:

". . .Perhaps the British had now realized, however, that 'the most important point in any Anglo - Egyptian talks is that Egypt will not stand on their side at any time so long as they insist on occupying our territory and on separating the Sudan from Egypt.' The 1936 treaty would avail them nothing at a time of political or military pressure. Instead, it would be a cause of friction between Egypt and Britain 'at the moment of their grave and most pressing crisis'. . ."

The Egyptians demand that the Sudan must be under Egypt and greater Egyptian participation in the Suez canal; the evacuation of British troops and the unification of the Nile valley. On August 26, 1951, a mass meeting of the Socialist, Nationalist, and Socialist - Peasant parties passed resolutions demanding that the 1936 Anglo - Egyptian treaty and the 1899 Sudan Condominium agreement be abrogated without delay. They called for a boycott of British troops, and that no food, material, or labor be allowed to reach British camps.

In October, the radical nationalistic Moslem brotherhood passed violent resolutions, perhaps the strongest of which were the first three:

". . .(1) That a state of war with Britain should be declared and British forces in Egypt and the Sudan be considered aggressors (2) That Anglp - Egyptian economic, commercial, and cultural relations should be severed; (3) That all Egyptians should be allowed to carry arms without licence and that assaults on Britons should not be punishable. . ."

Great Britain, the United States, France and Turkey, proposed the Allied middle east command, inviting Egypt to join them. Should Egypt accept the invitation, Great Britain would agree to the suspension of the 1936 treaty and to the withdrawal of such British forces not allocated to the proposed middle east command. The proposal is long, complicated, dealing with Egyptian, Sudanese and Suez problems. Egypt rejected this proposal on the ground that it could not be considered while British forces remained in Egypt.

The difficulty that the Egyptian government faced obviously was that they had so inflamed their own people against Great Britain that they could not stem the tide. This was most evident when Pakistan's offer of mediation was rejected.

The Egyptian prime minister, Nahas Pasha, offered the Egyptian parliament four decrees unilaterally abrogating the Anglo - Egyptian treaty of 1936 and the 1899 Condominium agreement.

This naturally the British rejected and the rejection was supported by the United States. The British replied:

"The Anglo - Egyptian treaty of friendship and alliance of 1936 contains no provision for unilateral denunciation at any time. If the principle were accepted that one party to such a treaty were entitled to denounce that treaty unilaterally, no reliance could be placed on any international agreement, and the whole basis and structure of international relations would cease to exist. ."

The year 1951 ended with no solution to any of the Egyptian problems, which now have reached a climax with the fall of the Egyptian cabinet, the assertion of unusual authority by the king, and the burning of the historic Shepheard's Hotel, during rioting.

This is a struggle between nationalism and internationalism, a solution for which is not immediately available. Neither side can readily give in and the United Nations lacks the prestige to be of any value. Yet, a solution must be found if the Moslem world is not to turn entirely against the west.

Ed Fitzgerald, who with Pegeen invented the husband - and - wife breakfast broadcast, demands publicly that I write more about Duffy the Goat.

Duffy was a slugger and killer, a merchant of mayhem and murder, for hire on either side of any cause that could pay for his services. He died in the Joliet pen, doing life.

You wouldn't think that decent folks would want and urge more about him. But I get more response whenever I recall the deeds of the Goat than I do when I pontificate about politics or economics or brotherly love.

His right name was Dufay. He had been run off the Montreal waterfront by the police.

He came to Chicago, where they hung his monicker on him because he was short and muscle-bound and one of his best methods of attack was butting with his hard head. But he was deadly with his fists and feet, too, if he could get in the first clout, which, as a professional, he regarded as his prerogative.

I saw him, while he was supporting a strike, grab the owner of the plant as he started across the sidewalk to his car, pick him up under the armpits from behind swing him over his head and break both his shins on the edge of the curb-stone.

The next week, working for the man he had crippled, he gave one of the union pickets the boots and staved in his ribs.

The Goat, vulnerable to blondes had a case on Margie C., a pint-sized pugnosed cutie who was singing at a saloon on Twenty-second street one summer. Every night he came there and wept and applauded as she gave with sad ballads.

If others did not loudly show their appreciation he glowered at them, and once, when a listener did not bring his hands together at all, the Goat socked him.

Dave Carew, who owned the place, chided him and made it clear he would tolerate no more such violence.

Dave was an ex-cop, had been discharged from the force for killing a man without valid reason, and was tough.

A nightly patron of the place was a mysterious fellow we all called Charlie Pabst. A table was reserved for him. He was always alone. He would drink only beer. The waiter was ordered to stack all the empties on his table, and not until it was completely covered would he leave.

Something Margie had sung had struck a chord in Charlie's heart. He broke out into continuous applause. He even stood up and banged his palms together.

Up leaped the Goat. He walked over to Charlie and shouted:

"You're clappin' too much. It ain't becus you like the singin'. You got other idees!"

Whereupon he floored Charlie. Dave picked his pet customer up and spoke soothingly to him.

Then he went back of the bar and reappeared with a baseball bat which he used for crushing ice and disorderly conduct. He strode over to the Goat and said:

"Next time you lay a hand on anybody in this joint, I'll scramble the insides of your thick skull. And what's more, I'll fire Margie."

Few people talked that way to Duffy and survived to see another sun rise over Lake Michigan.

But Dave had the bludgeon poised and stood at just the right distance to use it at its most effective range.

Moreover, the thought of Margie out of a job, where he couldn't sit and listen and adore her, was a damper against desperate action.

The Goat hesitated one moment.

Then he got out of his chair, turned, and shuffled out of the place.

On the street, it was long past midnight, he looked up and down. Few pedestrians were abroad.

But in time he saw a hobo making his way east from the State street skidrow, to seek his slumber on the grass of Grant park.

Duffy waited for him to come up.

He stepped from the doorway, seized the bum, beat him fiercely, then threw him, senseless, into the gutter.

The light was again in Duffy's eyes and he carried his bulky shoulders square as he turned and went back into Dave's and made his way again to his chair.

You could see the Goat felt like a man once more.

And Margie's job was safe!

Hollywood, Feb. 2. —(AP)— What is television doing to England?

There has been much written about the effect of TV on family life in this country. Now comes a report on what the home set is doing to English viewers. Among other things, TV is apparently adding to friction between English husbands and wives.

The London Sunday Express surveyed TV habits and found that married couples can have fights over the set if their tastes differ. The reason: If the husband doesn't like the entertainment, he has to retire to the kitchen to read or work.

TV has apparently caught on in England, and 2,000,000 viewers are expected to be added to the audience this year. The Express reported that TV already has revalutionized home life, broken lifetime habits and proved "a more powerful drug than the radio or cinema."

The Express said TV is "destroying conversation; cutting people off from their friends; sending thousands of children late to bed because they have been allowed to sit up for the evening programs."

On the credit side, British TV "encourages manual hobbies by televised demonstrations; stimulates the average housewife by cookery series; awakens interest in party politics by screened discussions."

The B. B. C., the government agency which operates broadcasting in England, discovered after a survey that of every 100 viewers: 86 reduce radio-listening; 63 reduce movie going; 49 play fewer indoor games; 46 read less; 35 cut down theatre going; 22 see less of their old friends; 14 garden less; 11 take less trips to the country and nine cut down on golf, cricket, tennis and football.

British viewers apparently have the same habits as Americans. When they first get the set, they watch it almost continuously. That's called the "honeymoon period."

The Express also polled some individual TV fans for their views. Among the reactions:

A civil servant: "I enjoy TV as a convenient and inexpensive entertainment. It gives me a new instrument of punishment—if my children misbehave, they must go without TV."

An English businessman: "It has given my wife indigestion, because she insists on eating supper on her lap while viewing from a low chair" . . .

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Feb. 2.—A few days ago, the lifeless body of a 35-year-old woman identified as one Pauline Evans was discovered in a Calexico, California, hotel room. According to police records, she had been a chronic alcoholic for years. Arrested time and again for drunkenness, she had been committed repeatedly to various California state institutions. About ten years before her death she had been, very briefly, an obscure bit player in Hollywood, and the wife of an actor named Donald Reed.

So much for the facts; now for the fancy.

One of southern California's most sensational newspapers immediately seized upon that sordid, all-too-common, story and pinned on it the following headline: "Ex-Star's Last Chance Ended." It made no difference to the editors of that paper that Pauline Evans, far from being "a star," had never actually achieved importance enough in the motion picture industry to have her name listed in any one of the players' directories which make it a practice to list everyone above the degree of extra.

For once, I'd like to share the motion picture industry's resentment of "the press." That headline was not only untrue, it was a deliberate effort to capitalize on public interest in Hollywood, at Hollywood's expense. It was irresponsible journalism of the yellowist kind.

Hollywood has enough legitimate troubles without being smeared because of the fact that a pitiful human derelict once worked on a few movie sets.

Idol Chatter: Wonder who puts the highest monetary value on Errol Flynn—his studio bosses, or the lawyer who's currently representing him in four lawsuits? . . . Peas-in-a-pod: Nancy Davis and Cathy Lewis . . . Folks who want to "get away from Hollywood" soon will have to settle in Patagonia, the way movie troupes are touring the world . . . Add "it must be love" items: Marshall Thompson's decision to sell his racing sloop because his missus suffers from chronic mal de mer . . . According to Humphrey Bogart, the million that anyone could acquire after paying present-day taxes would have to be "hot" rather than "cool" . . . Advertising that could impel me to buy theatre tickets "Starring Ann Harding" . . . Cecil B. De Mille seems to have slowed down a bit now he's in his seventies; he has only three super-colossals in preparation simultaneously instead of a dozen.

Eddie Anhalt, associate producer of the Stanley Kramer picture, "My Six Convicts," tells it as a chucklesome illustration of the tribulations that confront a movie-maker. When the picture was previewed the other night, studio representatives, as usual, handed out postcards to the audience and asked for comments. Among the cards received the following day was one from a man who complained that he hadn't found the picture entirely believable because the prison sets were "overdone."

All of the prison sequences in "My Six Convicts" were filmed within the walls of San Quentin. The "sets" complained about were built, not by the movie-makers, but by the state of California!

A couple of weeks ago, Claude Binyon gave in to a life-long temptation and bought himself a parrot—a wise-looking bird guaranteed to be a good talker as soon as it became accustomed to its new surroundings in the Binyon home. The parrot is now acclimated, and it has begun talking, but despite Binyon's coaxing, all he can get from his new pet is one sentence that it repeats over and over again. It goes like this: "Yes . . yes . . yes . . yes Sir! You're absolutely right, sir! Yes indeed, sir!" The owner says his curiosity has become almost unbearable. He'll never rest until he finds out which studio executive was the bird's previous owner.

BASCOM TIMMONS

In Washington

Congressional committees investigating various phases of crime, but principally gambling and racpets, have resigned themselves to the monotonous reply of witnesses, "I refuse to answer on grounds that it may tend to incriminate me."

Usually they repeat that ritual-like sentence on advice of counsel but several of the smaller fry have conceded that they picked it up from big time racketeers who testified before television cameras in the Kefauver crime commission investigations.

At the time of the Kefauver inquiry and before, members of congress conducting the questioning bristled at defiant witnesses and immediately moved to cite them for contempt, confident that their subsequent indictment and trial would result in conviction and jail sentences for contempt. Usually it did.

Now congress finds itself backed into a corner, with an increasing number of decisions by federal jurists holding that the witnesses — and especially those whose criminal backgrounds are definite—are justified in their refusal to answer committee questioning.

In other words, the courts hold that if a witness actually feels that he would incriminate himself by answering the committee questions, he had a constitutional right not to answer. The situation which has developed as a result seems to render futile the continuance of some angles of the crime investigations.

The most serious blow to committee authority came in a decision by Federal Judge Edward A. Tamm, in federal district court here, in the contempt case of Jake "Greasy Thumb" Guzik, a kingpin in the Chicago underworld and survivor of the old Capone gang, who refused to answer any questions from the Kefauver committee, even to tell his age or how long he had lived in Chicago. The judge held that Guzik was within his rights in refusals to answer.

In other cases, Patricia Blau was upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court for refusing to answer questions about the way the Communist party was set up, and a witness named Rosen in the Alger Hiss case, who was alleged to have handled the transfer of a used car from Hiss to Whittaker Chambers, which was denied by Hiss, stood on the grounds of possible incrimination, which the U. S. court of appeals here held he was entitled to do.

There are several similar cases pending in federal courts, with the investigating committees resigned to the strong possibility that the witnesses fear of incrimination will be backed up in court.

The explanation of the courts' actions is not hard to understand, in view of their tendency to adhere closely to the Constitution of the United States. When the bill of rights was written the authors followed the common law of England which provided that no witness can be required to give evidence against himself or make statements which he believes would incriminate. And to prove that what he believes would incriminate him would not actually do so is very difficult under rules of court procedure.

One of the famous rulings on incrimination was handed down by the revered Chief Justice John Marshall in the treason case against Aaron Burr, one time vice-president of the United States.

Marshall held that a witness does not have to answer a question "if that answer may disclose a fact which form a necessary and essential link in the chain of testimony which would convict him of a crime."

That opinion is heavily relied on today by defense lawyers in both gambling and perjury cases arising before committees of congress to save their clients from convictions for contempt of congress.

The defendants were given warning of what might happen if they try to cooperate by answering questions in the case of Frank Erickson, allegedly one of the country's leading bookmakers, who did answer some questions before the Kefauver committee. He is now serving a jail term in New York because some of his answers were seized upon by prosecutors as leads in tracking down evidence used against him in his subsequent trial on gambling charges.

The fifth amendment to the constitution has thus placed the investigators in a quandary from which escape will not be easy. The point of law involved is so fundamental that none of the many able lawyers in congress has yet suggested a tenable solution. In a recent investigation of crime in the District of Columbia by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Matthew Neely (Dem. - W. Va.) a dozen colored witnesses involved in the numbers racket intoned the "'fuse to answer" dodge, while police officials, though their testimony plainly might incriminate them, answered without stalling.

Since congress does not like to be defied, there may be a general disinclination to go forward with inquiries such as the effective work of the Kefauver committee.

New York, —(AP)— Glorified ham is a standard commodity on the Broadway stage.

But Arthur Maisel has founded a fortune in the midtown glitter belt by glorifying it in a national dish—ham and eggs. His success tale is a story of showmanship in food.

Ten years ago Maisel was a radio salesman, worried that wartime shortages would put him out of work. He dropped into a Broadway restaurant and ordered some ham and eggs.

"By the time they got to me they were cold," he said. "That had happened to me a lot of times. I got to wondering why.

"I was a kind of a gourmet. So I went home and experimented in my own kitchen. I found that if I served them in the skillet they were cooked in they stayed hot."

With $900 he had saved and $3,200 he borrowed Maisel opened a restaurant on Broadway—specializing in ham and eggs served in shorthandled, gleaming stainless steel skillets hot from the fire. The only other things on the menu were coffee and deep dish pies.

"If I had known more about the restaurant business I wouldn't have dared the gamble," Maisel recalled with a smile. "Everyone then figured only a hamburger stand could get by with only one real item on the menu.

But the Broadwayites came in hordes. These homeless sophisticates like the homey touch of eating out of a skillet.

Today Maisel has six colorful restaurants in mid-Manhattan, grosses $4,000,000 a year, plans a national chain of ham-and-eggeries. He has now expanded his menu to include other standard dishes such as steak, potatoes and onions.

"I aim at a forgotten mass market—the white collar class," he said. "They are the people who want a good Ameerican dinner under $2."

Maisel says he can produce this by buying his supplies from the source instead of through middlemen. The 125,000 customers he serves each week consume 144,000 eggs, three tons of ham, two carloads of potatoes, two carloads of onions, and four-and-a-half tons of beef.

"A restaurant needs a theme," is his belief. "The town was overrun with Italian, French and Chinese Restaurants. None seemed to be taking a pride in its American food. That's why I concentrated on it."

Maisel made money so fast it began to bother him. He was proud of his financial success — he still is — but he felt that a growing bank account didn't justify a man's being alive.

One day a garbage attendant told him of a brother who was in prison and eligible for parole—"if he only had a job."

Maisel investigated, arranged for a job, got the man freed. The incident got him interested in prison welfare, and it has become almost a second career for him. He has helped free and find jobs for some 50 convicts.

"I don't touch habitual criminals," he said. "But I do want to help neglected men who have made one mistake, paid for it, and deserve a second chance. And no one I've helped has ever betrayed my trust.

"I am not religious, but I tell you I felt the call to help these men. Sometimes people, in the endeavor to build themselves up, forget the rest of the world. I didn't want to be like that."

Maisel has enlisted Broadway business associates in his work. He sometimes drives 500 miles himself to visit a prison, help a parolee get a fresh start in life.

He says it has given him more happiness than the gold he found in glorifying ham and eggs.

CRACKS AUSTRIAN WHIP

Vienna—(AP)—Soviet authorities recently inspected Austrian schools in their occupation zone to check the progress of Russian language courses, a spokesman of the Austrian Ministry for Education said recently.

In schools where but little interest was found on the part of the pupils to learn Russian or where records showed insufficient progress, the inspecting officers blamed the leader of the school and the respective teachers for sabotaging the education plans.

The Soviet officials also demanded the showing of Soviet films in the schools. Teachers were to be held responsible for a complete attendance at these performances.

B. C. ROOT TALKS TO ROTARIANS

Important Service Performed In Identification Of War Dead

Procedure followed in identification of unknown deceased in World War II was explained by B. C. Root at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club at the Virginia Hotel.

Root, who rose from a private to major in the second world war, saw seven years of service in the armed forces and as a government employe during and following the war.

His work in identifying service men who lost their lives took him to France, Africa and Italy. Going from Paris to Algeria, North Africa, in 1946, he dealt with 21 cemeteries there. A permanent cemetery was provided in Carthage, where remains from 21 cemeteries were flown for burial.

Later, headquarters were established in Italy, where there were 42,000 war casualties. Securing remains was effected by channeling through American consulates in various centers. This procedure proved practical in bringing remains from these areas to a permanent burial place.

The United States government made available all possible means in identifying bodies of service men, Root declared. Working with him were four graduate anthropologists from the University of Vienna, and 21 embalmers.

Remains were individually processed by using tooth charts, X-rays, fluroscopes and government information such as name, age, height, weight, kind of hair, broken bones and other detailed facts, including the service man's unit and where he was last seen.

Root stressed the reverence which characterizes the burial of remains. Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew chaplains participate in these services, he said.

AWARD AWAITING CAPT. WHITE, JR.

Letter Of War Dept. Tells Of Silver Star For Gallantry

Shown herewith is a photographic copy of the letter from the war department sent to Roger C. White, Sr., telling that a Silver Star would be presented to his son, Roger, Jr., for gallantry in action May 18, 1951 which was the day that Captain White was captured and imprisoned by the enemy in Korea.

Captain White has twice in two wars been reported missing in action. In World War II he was so reported and even at one time was rumored to be reported dead, but he came home and was honorably discharged after harrowing prison experiences.

He again entered armed service in the Korean war and was taken prisoner, as stated, in May 1951. He was again reported missing in action and again the worst was feared but from some unexplained source, his parents learned that he was most probably held as a P. O. W., which later was officially confirmed. The first letter that he was able to get through from prison to his parents, was received last week and the following day the government at Washington reported that he had been awarded a Silver Star for gallantry in action.

OLDSTERS KEEP WORKING

Pasadena, Calif., —(AP)— A lot of oldsters here are convinced that retirement kills more persons than hard work.

Typrical of those still on the job is P. M. Kokanour, 86, who runs a print shop which he opened 22 years ago. "It keeps me young in spirit," says Kakanour who has been a printer since he was 17.

Alfred Davies, 76, opened a clock repair shop here two years ago and says business is fine. Another 76-year-old man, Ralph L. Chapman, retired once an ddidn't like it. Now he has his own cigar stand and is already planning to expand the business.

Ping Pong Title Won By Barham

Gene Barham yesterday emerged as the winner of the boys' division of the Recreation Department Table Tennis Tournament that has been in progress on week ends here for the last three weeks.

Barham took three of five games from Eugene Eppinette to clinch the ping pong event. He won the first two games, 21-19 and 21-18. Eppinette squared the match by taking the next two, 21-17 and 21-19, but Barham took the clincher, 21-16.

Joe Lacara won the men's division of the event a week earlier. Both Lacara and Barham were presented trophies by Mrs. J. W. Myers.

The tournament was sponsored by the Monroe Recreation department, directed by Jack [illegible], and both winners are eligible to compete in the All-American Table Tennis Tournament to be held at Chicago in May.

NORTHEAST LOOP WILL MEET HERE

Reorganization Session Set For Wednesday Night

The Northeast Louisiana Baseball League will hold its first meeting in 1952, Wednesday night at the Frances Hotel at 8 p. m., Charles Towers, secretary of the league announced yesterday.

Towers stated that representatives from the five ball clubs which were in the league last year would attend the meeting and that invitations had been sent to other clubs in north Louisiana. Teams in the league last year were those from West Monroe, Rayville, Mangham, Urania, and Bastrop.

"The league operated with only five clubs last year," Towers said, "but we hope to have a six or eight club league this time. Any town in north Louisiana that is baseball - minded is welcome to attend the meeting."

Also to be in attendance at the meeting will be Lawrence J. Fox, president of the league, and Johnny Collins, treasurer.

Urania will be the defending champions this year as they defeated Bastrop, who came out on top of the regular schedule, in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Lee Oma Signs For Bout With Maxim On March 6

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(AP)— Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight has been signed as an opponent for Joey Maxim light heavyweight champion in a boxing match here March 6, Promoter Jack Raleigh said today. The fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Oma's last fight was against Ezzard Charles in January, 1951, for the heavyweight title. Charles won on a TKO in the 10th.

'BRONCO' LUBICH TAKES ON SCOTT IN SEMI - WINDUP

Little Jap Gets Chance To Regain Light-Heavy Belt

A championship wrestling match between World's Light Heavyweight Champion "Sockeye" McDonald and Sugi Hayamaka, recently dethroned champion, will be the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night while "Mighty" Scott takes on "Bronco" Lubih in a semi-final event.

Both matches are expected to have plenty of action, according to Kallio, and a record crowd is expected to turn out for the show. Kallio stated that the match would begin at 8 p. m. and that no change in admission prices would take place for the championship bout.

McDonald only recently won the championship from Hayamaka—who held it for almost a month—and Tuesday's bout will be Hayamaka's comeback attempt.

McDonald, the burly ex-lumberjack from the northwest, won the belt in Shreveport about two weeks ago, and will be trying to hold on to it as long as possible. McDonald has wrestled here several times during the past few weeks and his skill and prowess in the ring is well known to Monroe fans, although he is generally booed more than he is cheered.

The ex-lumberjack, despite the boos, has a good knowledge of ring tactics and backs down to no one in the ring. He is fast and tough, but most important of all, he is singularly adapted for getting out of Hayamaka's famous sleep hold.

McDonald's ability to escape from neck holds has been the main feature of his performances here, making even the best of the wrestlers look slightly stupid when he slides out of a headlock with apparent ease. Hayamaka's sleep hold is his prime weapon and he uses it in most of his battles, but he must have the hold exactly right before it can take. McDonald's ability to slip out of the holds will severely handicap the little Japanese in Tuesday's bout.

Hayamaka, however, is not solely dependent on the sleep hold and he is capable of dealing out plenty of punishment in other ways. His hand chops and fast action are also good standbys in any bout.

"Mighty" Scott, the villainous tussler from Scotland, appeared here last Tuesday night in a match in which he came off second best and has appeared here several times before. His skill, tactics and strength are all well known to Monroe fans, who boo him vigorously every time he shows up in the ring.

"Bronco" Lubich is the only one of this week's crew of wrestlers who is unknown to Monroe fans. Kallio yesterday described Lubich as being of a stocky build and a good clean wrestler. Lubich has been wrestling professionally for four years, according to Kallio, and before that time he was a college football player in Tampa, Fla.

The main event will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win, while the semi - final event will go 60 minutes with two falls to win.

Dodger Business Manager Resigns During Hunt For Missing $25,000

Collins Stays 'On Payroll' As Ticket Fund Checked

New York, Feb. 2. —(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today that John F. Collins had quit as business manager but would stay on the baseball club's payroll during the investigation of a $25,000 shortage in club ticket funds.

Pres. Walter O'Malley said Collins resigned Wednesday but had decided to reconsider in view of the shortage from ticket sales.

Therefore, O'Malley said in a statement, "Jack Collins will be continued on the Brooklyn club payroll for the time being but not as business manager.

"He will have an office. . . where he can cooperate with the district attorney's staff and their investigation.

"Promotions in our organization which were agreed on at the time Mr. Collins decided to leave will go through on schedule. There will be a press conference this Tuesday to announce player signings as well as these personnel shifts."

Speaking of Collins' resignation, O'Malley commented:

"It would be regrettable if any hasty conclusion were to be drawn from this in the light of what has happened since."

Collins was among those questioned yesterday in the investigation, but authorities emphasized that neither he nor anyone else was under suspicion.

Assistant Brooklyn Dist. Atty. J. Kenneth McCabe said he would examine Collins' eight regular assistants Monday and then turn to the 20 to 40 temporary helpers hired at one time last fall.

The temporary workers were put on when the Dodgers took in — and returned — more than $3,000,000 for World Series tickets before the club was beaten by the New York Giants in the playoff for the national league pennant.

Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Silver said the shortage was noticed in a routine audit.

Lou Brissie 'Rarin' To Go' For Indians

Cleveland, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Signing of pitchers Lou Brissie and Bob Chakales was announced by the Cleveland Indians today, bringing 18 of the Tribe's 35 players into the fold.

Reliefer Brissie, who told General Manager Hank Greenberg he was "rarin' to go," is expected to receive about $15,000 this season, a hike of several thousand.

In his phone conversation with Greenberg from Ware Shoals, S. C. Brissie said he was 10 pounds lighter than last season and in the best condition of his career.

Last season Brissie permitted only 22 runs in 89 innings for an earned run average of 2.22.

Chakales, who came to the Indians last season from Wilkes-Barre in the Eastern League, also received a pay hike. The 24 - year - old Richmond, Va., resident won three and lost four games for the Tribe and had an earned run average of 4.78.

Warhoop Jake Is Again National Field Titlist

Shuqualak, Miss., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Warhoop Jake, a nimble - footed pointer owned by a New Jersey dog fancier, today was named, for the second straight year, champion of the National Field Trial Club's free-for-all stake.

The other best performance was that of Volcano, a pointer owned by Marc F. Mitchell, Llano, Calif.

Other dogs reaching the finals were Commander's Mack, owned by Carl Duffield, Tyler, Tex.; The Deacon, property of H. B. Pittman, Tyler, Tex.; Snowstorm, owned by Henry Weill, Paducah, Ky., and Tyson's Lucky Strike, belonging to D. L. Pickering, Delray Beach, Fla.

THOMAS RESIGNS JOB AT ALABAMA

Ill Health Sidelines Tides's Athletic Director

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Frank Thomas, football coach of Alabama's Crimson Tide for more than 15 years, resigned today as athletic director because of ill health.

Thomas stepped down as head coach early in 1947 following a serious illness and never fully regained his health.

Pete Cawthon, a former Thomas aide and ex-professional football coach, was named to the post. Thomas will be retained in an advisory capacity.

Thomas had taken the Tide to six bowl games, including three visits to the Rose Bowl, between 1931 and 1946.

Thomas had continued as athletic director despite recurring illnesses that had kept him hospitalized for months during the past few years.

Thomas was one of the late Knute Rockne's star pupils. He played under the old master at Notre Dame in the early 1920s and patterned his coaching after Rockne's system.

Thomas installed the Notre Dame box formation at Alabama when he took over here in 1931 following the resignation of Wallace Wade, who went to Duke University as coach.

Under Thomas, Alabama won 115 games, lost 24 and tied seven.

High blood pressure and attendant complications forced him to the sidelines after the 1946 season. Red Drew became head football coach.

Before coming to Alabama, Thomas was backfield coach at Georgia and head coach at the University of Chattanooga. He is a native of Muncie, Ind.

MILLSAPS GIVES INDIANS RETURN CONTEST FRIDAY

Majors Coming Here For Revenge On Northeast

The Indian cagers of Northeast Louisiana State, who surprised Millsaps College at Jackson, Miss. Saturday night, 68 to 54, will get a return game with the Majors here Friday night. Coach Cary Phillips last night was attempting to work in two more games with an Oklahoma outfit earlier in the week but announced arrangements were still in the making.

The defeat of Millsaps came as a surprise because the Majors had earlier swept two contests from the Mississippi College Choctaws who in turn had taken a pair from Northeast.

"Our team last night could have beaten any of the teams we've played this year," Coach Phillips said yesterday. "The boys played the kind of ball I know they're capable of playing."

It was only the second win for the Tribe which has lost ten, over half of the losses by scores so close the Redskins could have just as easily won.

The coming of Millsaps Friday will give the Tribe another look at Phil Wallace, the six-foot - seven Millsaps center, who led the scoring Friday night with 22 points. Bob Shively, Northeast, was right on Wallace's heels with 20, while Center Bob Bennett, of the Tribe, hooped 16.

Northeast led the Majors all they way, and had a 59-33 lead going into the final quarter in which Millsaps hooped 19 points against only nine for the Indians. But Coach Phillips had everybody on his bench in the game before it was over.

Middle Atlantic Loop Collapses; It's Broke

Ebensburg, Pa., Feb. 2. —(AP)— The Class C Middle Atlantic Baseball League, producer of some of the major's brightest stars, folded today for the second time in 27 years. It's broke.

Elmer M. Daily, who took over the league presidency in 1924 before the circuit was a year old, said he regretted to slam the door in the face of the 1952 season but had no other recourse.

The circuit, which produced such stars as Stan Musial, Joe Cronin, Tommy Henrich, Joe Beggs and the late Ernie Bonham, only to mention a few, barely got through the 1951 season.

It finished with only five teams —Butler, Erie and New Castle, Pa., and Lockport and Niagara Falls, N. Y. Oil City, Pa., quit the circuit shortly after it was transferred there from Youngstown, O.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Three pitchers returned their signed 1952 contracts to the Pittsburgh Pirates today, bringing to 11 the number of players in the fold.

They are righthanders Bill Koski and Robert W. Curtis and southpaw Paul LaPalme.

Tampa 'Cap Taken By Great Shuffle

Oldsmar, Fla., Feb. 2. —(AP)— James H. Carr's Great Shuffle came fast through the stretch to win the $2,500 Tampa Handicap at Sunshine Park by a length and a half today.

Domination, the leader until the favored Great Shuffle tore past on the outside, saved second place by two lengths from Brezno.

Great Shuffle, ridden by Tony De Spirito sloshed the muddy mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 4-5. He paid $5.40 to win.

The first disqualification of the meeting came in the $1,000 Hillsborough Handicap.

Champion Buddy beat Bubble Gum to the wire by a neck but was set back to second for carrying Bubble Gum wide through the stretch. Champion Buddy was ridden by Bill Miller.

That gave Bubble Gum three wins in three starts here.

A crowd estimated at 4,300 bet $182,688 at the mutuels.

A Conacher or a Bently has won the scoring championship of the National Hockey League six times in the last 18 years.

Ping Pong Title Won By Barham

Gene Barham yesterday emerged as the winner of the boys' division of the Recreation Department Table Tennis Tournament that has been in progress on week ends here for the last three weeks.

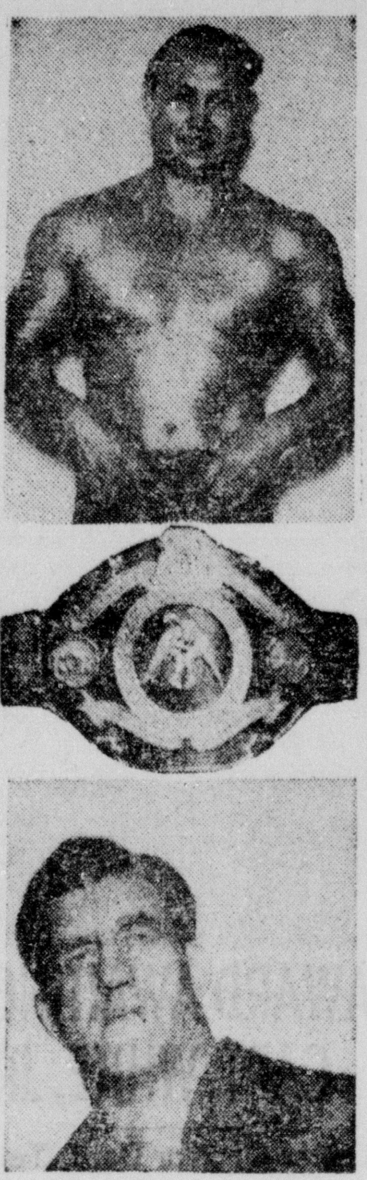
Barham took three of five games from Eugene Eppinette to clinch the ping pong event. He won the first two games, 21-19 and 21-18. Eppinette squared the match by taking the next two, 21-17 and 21-19, but Barham took the clincher, 21-16.

Joe Lacara won the men's division of the event a week earlier. Both Lacara and Barham were presented trophies by Mrs. J. W. Myers.

The tournament was sponsored by the Monroe Recreation department, directed by Jack Hesketh, and both winners are eligible to compete in the All-American Table Tennis Tournament to be held at Chicago in May.

76 IN ROW

West Point, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP)— Yale's swimming team, undefeated in a dual meet since 1945, hung up its 76th consecutive victory today with a 61-23 victory over army.



THE WORLD'S LIGHT heavyweight wrestling championship belt, center above, will be at stake at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night when Sugi Hayamaka, (top), ex-champ, faces Champion "Sockeye" McDonald, (bottom), in the little Jap's first effort to reclaim the crown he lost a couple of weeks ago.

NORTHEAST LOOP WILL MEET HERE

Reorganization Session Set For Wednesday Night

The Northeast Louisiana Baseball League will hold its first meeting in 1952, Wednesday night at the Frances Hotel at 8 p. m., Charles Towers, secretary of the league announced yesterday.

Towers stated that representatives from the five ball clubs which were in the league last year would attend the meeting and that invitations had been sent to other clubs in north Louisiana. Teams in the league last year were those from West Monroe, Rayville, Mangham, Urania, and Bastrop.

"The league operated with only five clubs last year," Towers said, "but we hope to have a six or eight club league this time. Any town in north Louisiana that is baseball - minded is welcome to attend the meeting."

Also to be in attendance at the meeting will be Lawrence J. Fox, president of the league, and Johnny Collins, treasurer.

Urania will be the defending champions this year as they defeated Bastrop, who came out on top of the regular schedule, in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Lee Oma Signs For Bout With Maxim On March 6

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(AP)— Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight has been signed as an opponent for Joey Maxim light heavyweight champion in a boxing match here March 6, Promoter Jack Raleigh said today. The fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Oma's last fight was against Ezzard Charles in January, 1951, for the heavyweight title. Charles won on a TKO in the 10th.

'BRONCO' LUBICH TAKES ON SCOTT IN SEMI - WINDUP

Little Jap Gets Chance To Regain Light-Heavy Belt

A championship wrestling match between World's Light Heavyweight Champion "Sockeye" McDonald and Sugi Hayamaka, recently dethroned champion, will be the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night whlie "Mighty" Scott takes on "Bronco" Lubih in a semi-final event.

Both matches are expected to have plenty of action, according to Kallio, and a record crowd is expected to turn out for the show. Kallio stated that the match would begin at 8 p. m. and that no change in admission prices would take place for the championship bout.

McDonald only recently won the championship from Hayamaka—who held it for almost a month—and Tuesday's bout will be Hayamaka's comeback attempt.

McDonald, the burly ex-lumberjack from the northwest, won the belt in Shreveport about two weeks ago, and will be trying to hold on to it as long as possible. McDonald has wrestled here several times during the past few weeks and his skill and prowess in the ring is well known to Monroe fans, although he is generally booed more than he is cheered.

The ex-lumberjack, despite the boos, has a good knowledge of ring tactics and backs down to no one in the ring. He is fast and tough, but most important of all, he is singularly adapted for getting out of Hayamaka's famous sleep hold.

McDonald's ability to escape from neck holds has been the main feature of his performances here, making even the best of the wrestlers look slightly stupid when he slides out of a headlock with apparent ease. Hayamaka's sleep hold is his prime weapon and he uses it in most of his battles, but he must have the hold exactly right before it can take. McDonald's ability to slip out of the holds will severely handicap the little Japanese in Tuesday's bout.

Hayamaka, however, is not solely dependent on the sleep hold and he is capable of dealing out plenty of punishment in other ways. His hand chops and fast action are also good standbys in any bout.

"Mighty" Scott, the villainous tussler from Scotland, appeared here last Tuesday night in a match in which he came off second best and has appeared here several times before. His skill, tactics and strength are all well known to Monroe fans, who boo him vigorously every time he shows up in the ring.

"Bronco" Lubich is the only one of this week's crew of wrestlers who is unknown to Monroe fans. Kallio yesterday described Lubich as being of a stocky build and a good clean wrestler. Lubich has been wrestling professionally for four years, according to Kallio, and before that time he was a college football player in Tampa, Fla.

The main event will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win, while the semi - final event will go 60 minutes with two falls to win.

Dodger Business Manager Resigns During Hunt For Missing $25,000

Collins Stays 'On Payroll' As Ticket Fund Checked

New York, Feb. 2. —(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today that John F. Collins had quit as business manager but would stay on the baseball club's payroll during the investigation of a $25,000 shortage in club ticket funds.

Pres. Walter O'Malley said Collins resigned Wednesday but had decided to reconsider in view of the shortage from ticket sales.

Therefore, O'Malley said in a statement, "Jack Collins will be continued on the Brooklyn club payroll for the time being but not as business manager.

"He will have an office. . . where he can cooperate with the district attorney's staff and their investigation.

"Promotions in our organization which were agreed on at the time Mr. Collins decided to leave will go through on schedule. There will be a press conference this Tuesday to announce player signings as well as these personnel shifts."

Speaking of Collins' resignation, O'Malley commented:

"It would be regrettable if any hasty conclusion were to be drawn from this in the light of what has happened since."

Collins was among those questioned yesterday in the investigation, but authorities emphasized that neither he nor anyone else was under suspicion.

Assistant Brooklyn Dist. Atty. J. Kenneth McCabe said he would examine Collins' eight regular assistants Monday and then turn to the 20 to 40 temporary helpers hired at one time last fall.

The temporary workers were put on when the Dodgers took in — and returned — more than $3,000,000 for World Series tickets before the club was beaten by the New York Giants in the playoff for the national league pennant.

Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Silver said the shortage was noticed in a routine audit.

Lou Brissie 'Rarin' To Go' For Indians

Cleveland, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Signing of pitchers Lou Brissie and Bob Chakales was announced by the Cleveland Indians today, bringing 18 of the Tribe's 35 players into the fold.

Reliefer Brissie, who told General Manager Hank Greenberg he was "rarin' to go," is expected to receive about $15,000 this season, a hike of several thousand.

In his phone conversation with Greenberg from Ware Shoals, S. C. Brissie said he was 10 pounds lighter than last season and in the best condition of his career.

Last season Brissie permitted only 22 runs in 89 innings for an earned run average of 2.22.

Chakales, who came to the Indians last season from Wilkes-Barre in the Eastern League, also received a pay hike. The 24 - year - old Richmond, Va., resident won three and lost four games for the Tribe and had an earned run average of 4.76.

THOMAS RESIGNS JOB AT ALABAMA

Ill Health Sidelines Tides's Athletic Director

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Frank Thomas, football coach of Alabama's Crimson Tide for more than 15 years, resigned today as athletic director because of ill health.

Thomas stepped down as head coach early in 1947 following a serious illness and never fully regained his health.

Pete Cawthon, a former Thomas aide and ex-professional football coach, was named to the post. Thomas will be retained in an advisory capacity.

Thomas had taken the Tide to six bowl games, including three visits to the Rose Bowl, between 1931 and 1946.

Thomas had continued as athletic director despite recurring illnesses that had kept him hospitalized for months during the past few years.

Thomas was one of the late Knute Rockne's star pupils. He played under the old master at Notre Dame in the early 1920s and patterned his coaching after Rockne's system.

Thomas installed the Notre Dame box formation at Alabama when he took over here in 1931 following the resignation of Wallace Wade, who went to Duke University as coach.

Under Thomas, Alabama won 115 games, lost 24 and tied seven.

High blood pressure and attendant complications forced him to the sidelines after the 1946 season. Red Drew became head football coach.

Before coming to Alabama, Thomas was backfield coach at Georgia and head coach at the University of Chattanooga. He is a native of Muncie, Ind.

MILLSAPS GIVES INDIANS RETURN CONTEST FRIDAY

Majors Coming Here For Revenge On Northeast

The Indian cagers of Northeast Louisiana State, who surprised Millsaps College at Jackson, Miss. Saturday night, 68 to 54, will get a return game with the Majors here Friday night. Coach Cary Phillips last night was attempting to work in two more games with an Oklahoma outfit earlier in the week but announced arrangements were still in the making.

The defeat of Millsaps came as a surprise because the Majors had earlier swept two contests from the Mississippi College Choctaws who in turn had taken a pair from Northeast.

"Our team last night could have beaten any of the teams we've played this year," Coach Phillips said yesterday. "The boys played the kind of ball I know they're capable of playing."

It was only the second win for the Tribe which has lost ten, over half of the losses by scores so close the Redskins could have just as easily won.

The coming of Millsaps Friday will give the Tribe another look at Phil Wallace, the six-foot - seven Millsaps center, who led the scoring Friday night with 22 points. Bob Shively, Northeast, was right on Wallace's heels with 20, while Center Bob Bennett, of the Tribe, hooped 16.

Northeast led the Majors all they way, and had a 59-33 lead going into the final quarter in which Millsaps hooped 19 points against only nine for the Indians. But Coach Phillips had everybody on his bench in the game before it was over.

Middle Atlantic Loop Collapses; It's Broke

Ebensburg, Pa., Feb. 2. —(AP)— The Class C Middle Atlantic Baseball League, producer of some of the major's brightest stars, folded today for the second time in 27 years. It's broke.

Elmer M. Daily, who took over the league presidency in 1924 before the circuit was a year old, said he regretted to slam the door in the face of the 1952 season but had no other recourse.

The circuit, which produced such stars as Stan Musial, Joe Cronin, Tommy Henrich, Joe Beggs and the late Ernie Bonham, only to mention a few, barely got through the 1951 season.

It finished with only five teams —Butler, Erie and New Castle, Pa., and Lockport and Niagara Falls, N. Y. Oil City, Pa., quit the circuit shortly after it was transferred there from Youngstown, O.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Henry Williams, Jr., Kutztown, Pa., overcame a desert wind storm today to shoot par golf and take the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament at the end of 54 holes.

He has an eight-under-par total of 203.

Two strokes behind was Ralph Blomquist, Los Angeles, a pro who loves to play in the wind. He had plenty of it today when blasts of 30 - miles per hour blew heavy clouds of sand across the 6,402-yard par 70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course.

Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla., who started out the day in a first place tie with amateur Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., soared four over par to 74 and a total of 206. This gave him third place. Stranahan had putting trouble from the first green and carded 78. This was 17 strokes higher than his sensational 61 yesterday.

"I three - putted every time," Stranahan said.

Jersey Joe's Troubles Multiply; Champ Faces Possible Suspension

Indiana Slaps Walcott For Exhibition Run-Out

By Ben Funk

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Indiana slapped a suspension on Heavyweight Champion Joe Walcott today for skipping an exhibition match and ignoring a $200 fine but his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, protested hotly tonight that the action was all a mistake.

Declaring that Walcott ran out on an exhibition in Evansville last Aug. 29, then neglected to pay his fine, the Indiana state boxing commission cut the old campaigner off its list and recommended that the 46 other states in the National Boxing Association follow suit.

Bocchicchio, who arrived here tonight by plane, said the Evansville promoters released Joe because he was ill and the money for the fine was mailed last Wednesday.

"We sent the Indiana commission the release from the promoter and a statement from the doctor that he had a cold," Bocchicchio said, "but the commission said the fine would stand anyway. We were advised not to pay it but we mailed the check Jan. 30."

Chairman Dick Pride of the Indiana commission announced the suspension in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he is vacationing, and said a suspension by the N. B. A. in all states but New York would follow almost automatically.

Even in New York, Walcott faces imminent suspension unless he signs for a title match with Ezzard Charles. The N. B. A. considers Rocky Marciano, who recently kayoed Joe Louis, to be the logical contender.

The surprise Indiana blow fell as tough old Jersey Joe, trying desperately to cash in on the heavyweight crown before father time and a younger man whack it off his battered brow, angled for release from his contract with the international boxing club to give Charles a return bout.

Bocchicchio, who wants to grab a lucrative offer to meet Harry (Kid) Matthews in Las Vegas, came here to talk it over with Jim Norris, I. B. C. president. They plan a conference tomorrow.

Walcott, who became champ by knocking out Charles in Pittsburgh last July, claims that he "hasn't made a dime" off the title.

But the other day, Joe and Felix saw a chance to get their hands on some heavy money. It was an enticing, although somewhat mystery - shrouded offer of a $250,000 guarantee to meet Matthews in Las Vegas.

Bocchicchio said the offer came from Wilbur Clark, a Las Vegas hotel operator who wouldn't mind taking a small loss in such a venture if he could bring some free-spending tourists into the Nevada gambling resort.

Arkansas Upsets Texas Christian

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Sophomore Orval Elkins hit three straight field goals in the last two minutes—the third in the final 10 seconds — to propel the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 56-54 Southwest Conference basketball upset of Texas Christian tonight.

It was TCU's first loss in five conference starts.

The six-foot-six Elkins, who didn't get into the game until the final four minutes, dumped in a 35-foot two-hand set shot from the left side to cut the Horned Frogs' margin to 54-52, and tied it up with an equally long throw from the right side.

Then, with 14 seconds left, a free throw was awarded to Arkansas' Gene Lambert. He missed, but after the ball was batted around a couple of times, Elkins pushed it in and that was the game.

George McLeod, TCU's six-foot-seven center and conference scoring leader, kept the Frogs close one way or the other but fouled out with three minutes of playing remaining. He topped the scorers with 25 points.

Gene Lambert, Jr., set the pace for Arkansas with 17.

Quiet Step, Trick Pilot Win Split

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)— Quiet Step and Trick Pilot won the two divisions of the $10,000 - added Bahamas Handicap at Hialeah Park today in identical times of 1:25 1-5 over a slow track to beat the favorites in both races.

Although it was drizzling rain throughout the afternoon, the crowd of 21,757 saw a spine-tingling horse race in both events.

Quiet Step, owned by Apheim Stable and ridden by Jockey Doug Dodson, moved up to overhaul R. E. Cudahy's A-Pacopep rounding the turn after passing Metal Mike and Do Report.

A-Pacopep, with Logan Batcheller in the saddle, came on again but couldn't overtake Quiet Step when Dodson roused his mount driving for the wire. A-Pacopep finished second by a neck and Do Report was third in the camera finish.

Quiet Step paid $18.30, $8.90 and $6.00 and earned $9,075. A-Pacopep paid $12.90 and $9.40 and Do Report returned $12.40.

In the second division, Trick Pilot, with Scurlock up, took command of the field of 11 late in the stretch run and just lasted to nip Why Not by a neck.

Trick Pilot, owned by Mrs. Vera S. Bragg, paid a whopping $35.50 for $2 and Why Not returned $9.70 and $7.30

Handsome Teddy, always in contention, was third and paid $7.10.

Maroon Officials Win Over Alumni

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 2.—(AP)—President Fred T. Mitchell and Athletic Director C. R. (Dudy) Noble of Mississippi State College today stand cleared of charges of inefficiency hurled at them by state alumni groups.

The board of trustees of colleges in Mississippi declared yesterday that there wasn't "a whisper of evidence" to back up charges against Dr. Mitchell.

The board gave Noble a new four-year contract Thursday.

Several alumni groups said Dr. Mitchell's administration failed to promote harmony and resulted in a decline of scholastic standings for State.

Sen. William McGrew of Bentonia said on the floor of the Mississippi senate that State's 49-7 defeat by Mississippi in Football in December was the cause of the controversy.

HIGHLY FAVORED COUNTERPOINT IS DISMAL FAILURE

Gold Capitol Home 2nd; Black Douglas Runs Third

By Bob Myers

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Maryland's unsung Intent stepped up in class in the Santa Anita Maturity today and rang out a knockout victory over the champion, Counterpoint, and the rest of the field in the world's richest horse race.

Leaving the odds - on favorite, Counterpoint, to run a dismal race and a disappointing sixth in the battle between nine four - year - olds, the Brookfield farm's handsome chestnut colt hit the jackpot for a net $112,750 out of a gross purse of $183,750.

Whirling in to the roar of 55,000 fans, Intent and his money-winning rider, Eddie Arcaro, whipped under the wire a neck in front of another surprise challenger, California - bred Gold Capitol. The King Ranch's Black Douglas finished third.

The suddenness of the outcome all but overshadowed the collapse of the favorite and 1951 "thoroughbred of the year," Counterpoint.

Counterpoint, the star of one of the sport's aristocrats, Cornelius V. Whitney, was never a threat, never a contender in this mile and one quarter event.

The same was true of the horse deemed most likely to challenge the Whitney color - bearer, W. C. Martin's Phil D. He ran out of the money, too.

Intent, a son of War Relic, paid $12.10, $5.30 and $4.70. Gold Capitol $21.30 and $14, and Black Douglas $4.70.

The time was hardly sensational, 2.02 4-5, far off the track record, but the unreeling of the race kept the crowd in an uproar from start to finish.

Intent, a supplemental entry — Brookfield paid $10,000 to get him into the race because he hadn't been a paid - up eligible for the Maturity — was coupled with Black Douglas and Sam A. Mason II's To Market in the betting. All were trained by W. J. (Buddy) Hirsch.

As it turned out, Hirsch drew applause for all three. To Market finished fourth.

Thoroughbred horse racing is celebrating its silver anniversity this year in Miami.

'PREACHER' ROE GETS FAT RAISE

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)— Elwin "Preacher" Roe, the lean lefty from Arkansas who has been acclaimed as one of the best National League southpaw pitchers since Carl Hubbell, has signed his 1952 contract with the Dodgers at possibly the biggest salary ever paid a Brooklyn pitcher.

Although no salary figure was given out, it was believed that Roe's 1951 record of 22 victories and three defeats had earned him a whopping raise over last year's estimated $22,500, putting his 1952 pay around $30,000.

At the same time, vice - president Buzzie Bavasi announced that three Dodger rookies also had signed their contracts. They were Pitchers Earl Mossor and Joe Landrum and Outfielder Bill Antonello. The Dodgers now have 23 players under contract for the coming season.

Roe, enjoying the best season of his career in 1951, topped the National League in won - lost percentages for the second time in three years. He was Brooklyn's first 20 - game winner since Ralph Branca won 21 in 1947.

Antonello, a Brooklyn boy, hit 17 home runs, seven triples and 13 doubles for St. Paul last season although he hit only .253. Mossor, who also played for St. Paul, won nine games and lost ten, but Manager Chuck Dressen believes he may stick with the Dodgers this year.

Landrum was on the inactive list last year, when he returned to Clemson College to earn his degree in architecture. He won 19 games and lost 11 for Fort Worth in 1949 and had a 9-6 record in 1950.

A's Obtain Signatures Of Three More Players

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—(AP)— The Philadelphia Athletics today announced that Outfielder Allie Clark, Pitcher Morrie Martin and rookie Shortstop Jack Littrell have sent in their signed 1952 contracts.

Martin won 11 and lost four last season for the Athletics, while Clark hit .251 after coming here from the Cleveland Indians in a spring deal. Littrell, 23, of Prospect, Ky., played shortstop with Savannah of the Sally League in 1950 and hit .261.

The University of Arizona football team will lose only four seniors by graduation.

"That's the Smartest Million Dollars BUICK Ever Spent"

WHEN we tell you that every 1952 Buick rides like a million dollars, we're not just slinging slang—we're talking real money—right-on-the-barrelhead cash.

A million dollars and more were poured into research and testing—design and tools—engineering, production and components—to team up the combination of ride features you'll find on a Buick—and on no other car in the world.

A million dollars and more was the price paid to work out control of endsway and side-roll on curves—to double-check vertical "throw" with shock absorbers and big soft-acting coil springs for all four wheels—to V-brace the torque-tube keel and X-brace the frame—to cushion body and engine—and to silk out the whole operation with Dynaflow Drive.*

You may not care how the job was done, or what it cost. But we'll lay you this:

You're going to say "thanks a million" to Buick engineers once you get this spirited smoothie under your hands and haunches.

Old familiar roads take on a new smoothness. Gone are the weave and wander, the jitter and jounce that you've felt in lesser cars. You ride with road-hugging assurance and level ease.

All of which only begins to tell you what really great cars these 1952 Buicks turned out to be.

Never before have style and stamina—comfort and character—power, performance and price been brought together with such satisfying skill.

The obvious thing for you to do is come in and look them over. How about taking half an hour off to do that—today?

"I three - putted every time," Stranahan said.

Jersey Joe's Troubles Multiply; Champ Faces Possible Suspension

Indiana Slaps Walcott For Exhibition Run-Out

By Ben Funk

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Indiana slapped a suspension on Heavyweight Champion Joe Walcott today for skipping an exhibition match and ignoring a $200 fine but his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, protested hotly tonight that the action was all a mistake.

Declaring that Walcott ran out on an exhibition in Evansville last Aug. 29, then neglected to pay his fine, the Indiana state boxing commission cut the old campaigner off its list and recommended that the 46 other states in the National Boxing Association follow suit.

Bocchicchio, who arrived here tonight by plane, said the Evansville promoters released Joe because he was ill and the money for the fine was mailed last Wednesday.

"We sent the Indiana commission the release from the promoter and a statement from the doctor that he had a cold," Bocchicchio said, "but the commission said the fine would stand anyway. We were advised not to pay it but we mailed the check Jan. 30."

Chairman Dick Pride of the Indiana commission announced the suspension in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he is vacationing, and said a suspension by the N. B. A. in all states but New York would follow almost automatically.

Even in New York, Walcott faces imminent suspension unless he signs for a title match with Ezzard Charles. The N. B. A. considers Rocky Marciano, who recently kayoed Joe Louis, to be the logical contender.

The surprise Indiana blow fell as tough old Jersey Joe, trying desperately to cash in on the heavyweight crown before father time and a younger man whack it off his battered brow, angled for release from his contract with the international boxing club to give Charles a return bout.

Bocchicchio, who wants to grab a lucrative offer to meet Harry (Kid) Matthews in Las Vegas, came here to talk it over with Jim Norris, I. B. C. president. They plan a conference tomorrow.

Walcott, who became champ by knocking out Charles in Pittsburgh last July, claims that he "hasn't made a dime" off the title.

But the other day, Joe and Felix saw a chance to get their hands on some heavy money. It was an enticing, although somewhat mystery - shrouded offer of a $250,000 guarantee to meet Matthews in Las Vegas.

Bocchicchio said the offer came from Wilbur Clark, a Las Vegas hotel operator who wouldn't mind taking a small loss in such a venture if he could bring some free-spending tourists into the Nevada gambling resort.

Arkansas Upsets Texas Christian

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Sophomore Orval Elkins hit three straight field goals in the last two minutes—the third in the final 10 seconds — to propel the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 56-54 Southwest Conference basketball upset of Texas Christian tonight.

It was TCU's first loss in five conference starts.

The six-foot-six Elkins, who didn't get into the game until the final four minutes, dumped in a 35-foot two-hand set shot from the left side to cut the Horned Frogs' margin to 54-52, and tied it up with an equally long throw from the right side.

Then, with 14 seconds left, a free throw was awarded to Arkansas' Gene Lambert. He missed, but after the ball was batted around a couple of times, Elkins pushed it in and that was the game.

George McLeod, TCU's six-foot-seven center and conference scoring leader, kept the Frogs close one way or the other but fouled out with three minutes of playing remaining. He topped the scorers with 25 points.

Gene Lambert, Jr., set the pace for Arkansas with 17.

Quiet Step, Trick Pilot Win Split

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2. —(AP)— Quiet Step and Trick Pilot won the two divisions of the $10,000 - added Bahamas Handicap at Hialeah Park today in identical times of 1:25 1-5 over a slow track to beat the favorites in both races.

Although it was drizzling rain throughout the afternoon, the crowd of 21,757 saw a spine-tingling horse race in both events.

Quiet Step, owned by Apheim stable and ridden by Jockey Doug Dodson, moved up to overhaul R. E. Cudahy's A-Pacopep rounding the turn after passing Metal Mike and Do Report.

A-Pacopep, with Logan Batcheller in the saddle, came on again but couldn't overtake Quiet Step when Dodson roused his mount driving for the wire. A-Pacopep finished second by a neck and Do Report was third in the camera finish.

Quiet Step paid $18.30, $8.90 and $6.60 and earned $9,075. A-Pacopep paid $12.90 and $9.40 and Do Report returned $12.40.

In the second division, Trick Pilot, with Scurlock up, took command of the field of 11 late in the stretch run and just lasted to nip Why Not by a neck.

Trick Pilot, owned by Mrs. Vera S. Bragg, paid a whopping $35.50 for $2 and Why Not returned $9.70 and $7.30

Handsome Teddy, always in contention, was third and paid $7.10.

Maroon Officials Win Over Alumni

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 2. — (AP) — President Fred T. Mitchell and Athletic Director C. R. (Dudy) Noble of Mississippi State College today stand cleared of charges of inefficiency hurled at them by state alumni groups.

The board of trustees of colleges in Mississippi declared yesterday that there wasn't "a whisper of evidence" to back up charges against Dr. Mitchell.

The board gave Noble a new four-year contract Thursday.

Several alumni groups said Dr. Mitchell's administration failed to promote harmony and resulted in a decline of scholastic standings for State.

Sen. William McGraw of Bentonia said on the floor of the Mississippi senate that State's 49-7 defeat by Mississippi in Football in December was the cause of the controversey.

'PREACHER' ROE GETS FAT RAISE

Tanner's N. O. Handicap Nominee Wins 7th Straight

New Orleans, Feb. 2. —(AP)— C. C. Tanner's Light Broom won the $10,000 added Louisiana Handicap today, covering the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:46.

Second was False, owned by Mrs. N. M. Mikel and ridden by Earl Vanhook. Point Fortune, owned by Joe W. Brown, was third with Jerry West up.

The winner paid $4.60, $4.20 and $3.40; False $8.20 and $4.80 and Point Fortune $9.40.

Sun Tan Gal took an early lead and led to the stretch turn where Light Broom, always in a contending position, took over to win by two lengths.

False was a fast finisher but barely beat out Point Fortune for second.

It was the seventh consecutive victory for Light Broom, Tanner's nomination for the $25,000 New Orleans Handicap which will be run March 8, closing day of the season.

In a preliminary race for Louisiana Derby candidates, Granite Flyn, owned by Willie Crump, beat out the Brown Hotel stable's Ave. Peu - A - Peu was third.

One ride and You'll say:

"That's the Smartest Million Dollars BUICK Ever Spent"

WHEN we tell you that every 1952 Buick rides like a million dollars, we're not just slinging slang—we're talking real money—right-on-the-barrelhead cash.

A million dollars and more were poured into research and testing — design and tools—engineering, production and components—to team up the combination of ride features you'll find on a Buick—and on no other car in the world.

A million dollars and more was the price paid to work out control of end-sway and side-roll on curves—to double-check vertical "throw" with shock absorbers and big soft-acting coil springs for all four wheels—to V-brace the torque-tube keel and X-brace the frame—to cushion body and engine—and to silk out the whole operation with Dynaflow Drive.*

You may not care how the job was done, or what it cost. But we'll lay you this:

You're going to say "thanks a million" to Buick engineers once you get this spirited smoothie under your hands and haunches.

Old familiar roads take on a new smoothness. Gone are the weave and wander, the jitter and jounce that you've felt in lesser cars. You ride with road-hugging assurance and level ease.

All of which only begins to tell you what really great cars these 1952 Buicks turned out to be.

Never before have style and stamina—comfort and character—power, performance and price been brought together with such satisfying skill.

The obvious thing for you to do is come in and look them over. How about taking half an hour off to do that — today?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Obey speed limits; respect the rights of other motorists; yield the right-of-way to pedestrians in the crosswalks; come to a complete stop at stop signs and observe the stop and go signals; heed signs and pavement markings, warning of grade crossings, no passing zones, curves and intersections; overtake and pass other cars only on the left side on two-lane streets; stay on your side of the road; stay in line on wide highways; make all turns from proper lane; use arm signals for right and left turns and for stopping and starting; start from a parked position only if way is clear; follow other vehicles at a safe distance; watch for school zones; keep your brakes, lights, windshield wiper and other safety equipment in good condition; do not increase speed when other cars want to pass.

Members of the Ouachita safety council will each week pick the safety driver from both cities.

Caldwell also mentioned that there is a city ordinance against putting political or other posters on telephone and light poles in West Monroe.

"Putting these posters on the poles is against the law," Caldwell said, "and the city police have the job of tearing them down every day, since they are evidently placed there during the night."

"Placing these posters on the poles has caused some resentment from others who were not allowed to do so," said Caldwell, "and I would like to ask that no more posters be put on poles."

He also stated that four unclaimed and unidentified bicycles are being held at the police station for their owners. "The bicycles have been here for some time," the chief said, "and if they are not claimed soon they will be disposed of."

At Punxsutawney, Dr. Frank A. Lorenzo, the portly 73-year-old doctor who heads the groundhog club, claimed his group's weather prophet from the animal world was really the only one who knows a shadow when he sees one.

"This is the seer of seers," said Dr. Lorenzo.

No so, said Hess at Quarryville, that other groundhog doesn't know his shadow from a hole in the ground.

The Punxsutawney groundhog may see his shadow in a new location next year. Two native sons gave the western Pennsylvania community an 81 acre park site, just outside of town. They may hold the ceremony there in 1953.

Elsewhere in the groundhog world, Wisconsin's self styled official club, The Sun Prarie Ground Watchers, say their beast didn't see his shadow. They predict a hog. They predict a prompt spring. prompt spring.

While Eden and Schuman conferred, the three "wise men" assigned to study financing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defenses, agreed to meet here Monday with three German officials to discuss how much West Germany will be asked to contribute to pay the costs of the occupation armies and to the rebuilding of her own military units.

The unsolved problems faced by the two foreign ministers and by the N. A. T. O. "wise men" — W. Averell Harriman of the United States, Sir Edwin Plowden of Britain and Jean Monnet of France—multiplied doubts felt in Paris about whether the N. A. T. O. conference opening in Lisbon Feb. 16 is going to be worth holding.

French spokesmen emphasized, however, there was no disposition here to postpone further the big showdown in the Portugese capital on what has been accomplished in building European defenses.

The Mothers' "March of Dimes" porch lighting campaign Thursday night went over in a big way with more than $7,000 reported in cash collections and still more to be received.

This project, well advertised in the local press and planned to precision by W. J. Riley, Jr., and carried through to success by 2,000 willing workers, under leadership of Mrs. Frank Breese, all deserve great praise for their efforts. It indicates that the Twin Cities are alive to the seriousness of the situation and are disposed to help with their money.

Doubtless in many cases the money donated was made possible only through some personal sacrifice. If this be so, these persons, nameless to the public generally, deserve double praise for their loyalty to a worthy cause.

So far Britain and her western partners have not come forward with any offer in response to Maher Pasha's promise to consider her proposals. The British previously had made it clear, however, they were waiting for a demonstration of the new premier's ability to enforce order. The Nahas Pasha government last October rejected the proposal of Britain, the United States, France and Turkey to organize a middle east command with Egypt as an equal partner.

Egyptian army units, moved into Cairo a week ago, remained in firm control. During the first 24 hours after the troops moved in there was sporadic rifle fire to scare away looters. At night there still is an occasional rifle shot fired warningly. A night curfew is still in force and the sharp cry of "halt" is heard frequently from sentinels. Automobiles bearing curfew passes are frequently challenged on the streets. It is not unusual to be stopped a dozen times on a two-mile trip.

ik cast aside a plea from British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd to end the debate on a "note of unity." Malik told the committee:

"The full responsibility for future events in Korea and the far east will rest completely on the government of the United States. The United States intends to prolong the Korean aggression and expand aggression in the far east. The third world war has in fact commenced — in Korea, Indo-China, Tunis and Morocco. . . .No hypocritical statements will avail you anything. This is the conclusion to be drawn from the sixth session of the general assembly."

The action climaxed a day of tense and violent sessions in the U. N. assembly which saw:

Noisy demonstrators in the balcony calling themselves the "federation of anarchists" interrupted assembly debate in the Red and Gold Theater of the Palais de Chaillot by throwing eggs, tomatoes and anarchist leaflets at the astonished delegates. The leaflets said: "Politicians, gossips —windbags — enough talking." One egg splashed an inch from the seat of Soviet Delegate A. A. Sobolev. Another hit the white rostrum occupied by Assembly President Luis Padulla Nervo of Mexcio, Secretary General Trygve Lie and his executive assistant, Andrew Cordier.

Police threw out about a dozen of the demonstrators and detained five. The men shouted and scuffled but otherwise did not resist.

"Four years ago Kennon was estation, and the attraction of ining it couldn't be done," she said, "but now he is for it. And do you know why? Kennon knows that there are 120,000 old persons in the state who can vote."

In reference to the larger newspapers who are supporting Kennon for the governorship, Miss Dickerson said "if I had the support of the Times - Picayune newspaper, I would keep it a secret."

She also stated that large financial interests tried to keep the Spaht ticket from entering the second primary, by offering money and other inducements. Referring to this, she said, "I wish you people could know the money and the effort used to get us out of the race. . .but we are not quitters. Do you know who is a quitter? A mongrel dog, that's what; only a mongrel dog quits."

Wilson, who suffered severe face lacerations and lacerations of the right hand and left knee. Miss Rowelle injuries were listed as four fractures of the pelvis, general contusions and lacerations.

Injured in the accident at 6:15 p.m. were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gates of Fairbanks, La. They were admitted to the St. Francis Sanitarium, but were released a short while later.

Mrs. Ada May Rose, 36, of Atlanta, Ga. was the only person injured in the 7:10 p.m. wreck. She was admitted to the St. Francis hospital where her condition was described as satisfactory by an attending physician. Her injuries were to her right knee and back.

The first and most serious of the accidents occurred, state police said, when a 1950 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Wanwright crashed headlong into a 1946 Chevrolet automobile driven by John Pages. Wainwright told officers that his car had left the road and he was turning it back on the highway when the accident occurred.

Miss Rowelle was the only occupant of the car driven by Wainwright. Occupants of the Pages' car were Lula Mae Pages, his wife; Emmie Lee Pages and Willie Mae Pages, his daughters; Lillie Smith; and Harvey Wilson. Emmie Lee Pages was in her mother's lap in the back seat of the car when the accident occurred, police said.

The second accident occurred, according to state police, when a 1940 Ford, whose occupants were unknown last night, crashed into the rear of a car driven by Gates after he had slowed down to pass a truck overturned in a ditch. Mrs. Gates was the only other occupant.

The third accident occured, state policie continued, when a 1946 Mercury driven by Walter C. Arnold, 50, of Atlanta, Ga., brother-in-law of Mrs. Rose, side-swiped a large trailer-type van driven by Jack C. Elkins, 29, of Roanoke, Va., who was headed west toward Monroe. Mrs. Rose was the only person injured.

tion." Hillings termed it "peculiar."

Both called on a house judiciary subcommittee, now being set up to inquire into McGrath and the justice department, to investigate the action of the judge, Oliver J. Carter.

The prospect of one more investigation piled on top of another developed this way:

The Call - Bulletin has been running a series of articles dealing with income tax scandals in northern California. Yesterday it published an article quoting Hillings as linking Federal Judge George B. Harris to land development plan said to have been promoted by a deputy collector of internal revenue.

Judge Carter handed a copy of the paper headlined "U. S. Judge Harris named in land deal" to a grand jury foreman and ordered an investigation to determine whether the Call - Bulletin obstructed justice.

He referred the grand jury to a section of the law defining an obstruction of justice, but did not say how the newspaper might have violated it.

Randolph Hearst, publisher of the Call - Bulletin and son of the late William Randolph Hearst, commented: "It's all right with us if they want to investigate us. We print the news as we see it."

Senator Nixon, however, said "the Call-Bulletin has led a fight to expose corruption in the internal revenue department in San Francisco," and said the judge's action will be interpreted by many as a retaliatory move on part of the Truman administration.

He told a reporter he hopes the house judiciary committee "will put the San Francisco mess at the top of its list when it starts its investigation of the justice department and the judiciary."

Representative Hillings, in a statement, said he did not want to prejudge Judge Carter's action, but he added: "It appears to be necessary that the house committee on the judiciary investigate his latest action. . ."

"His action is peculiar," Hillings continued, "because it comes after certain San Francisco newspapers had consistently engaged in exposing instances of corruption in the San Francisco office of the bureau of internal revenue.

"It may be only coincidence that this action was taken on the eve of the hearings to be held by the King subcommittee."

That was a reference to the ways and means subcommittee, headed by Representative King (D.-Calif.), which has been inquiring into irregularities in the nation's tax collection system. It plans hearings in San Francisco starting Monday.

Negro Is Killed At State Prison

Angola, La., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A Negro convict in Louisiana state penitentiary here stabbed another to death with a broken table knife, Supt. D. D. Bazer said tonight.

He identified the Negro victim as Perry Washington, 26, of Port Arthur, Tex.

The prison official said the attacker was Dan Gibbs, 29, of Rayville, La., who had been "acting funny recently and talking to himself."

The attack, was unprovoked, Washington and Gibbs hardly knew each other, Bazer added.

According to the superintendent: Washington, a trusty who worked in the prison sugar mill, was seated on his cell bed when Gibbs suddenly stabbed him in the chest and left eye.

The weapon was a broken table knife Gibbs had sharpened and secreted in his cell.

Stephen Decatur, hero of the "millions for defense but not one cent for tribute" campaign, was killed in a duel.

as the safety driver of the week are as follows:

Obey speed limits; respect the rights of other motorists; yield the right-of-way to pedestrians in the crosswalks; come to a complete stop at stop signs and observe the stop and go signals; heed signs and pavement markings, warning of grade crossings, no passing zones, curves and intersections; overtake and pass other cars only on the left side on two-lane streets; stay on your side of the road; stay in line on wide highways; make all turns from proper lane; use arm signals for right and left turns and for stopping and starting; start from a parked position only if way is clear; follow other vehicles at a safe distance; watch for school zones; keep your brakes, lights, windshield wiper and other safety equipment in good condition; do not increase speed when other cars want to pass.

Members of the Ouachita safety council will each week pick the safety driver from both cities.

The Louisiana Safety Association in giving a warning states "Devote all you attention to your driving, look well ahead and expect the unexpected at all times."

Caldwell also mentioned that there is a city ordinance against putting political or other posters on telephone and light poles in West Monroe.

"Putting these posters on the poles is against the law," Caldwell said, "and the city police have the job of tearing them down every day, since they are evidently placed there during the night."

"Placing these posters on the poles has caused some resentment from others who were not allowed to do so," said Caldwell, "and I would like to ask that no more posters be put on poles."

He also stated that four unclaimed and unidentified bicycles are being held at the police station for their owners. "The bicycles have been here for some time," the chief said, "and if they are not claimed soon they will be disposed of."

customary night shirts and high silk hats were on hand. Each carried a shepherd's crook.

At Punxsutawney, Dr. Frank A. Lorenzo, the portly 73-year-old doctor who heads the groundhog club, claimed his group's weather prophet from the animal world was really the only one who knows a shadow when he sees one.

"This is the seer of seers," said Dr. Lorenzo.

No so, said Hess at Quarryville, that other groundhog doesn't know his shadow from a hole in the ground.

The Punxsutawney groundhog may see his shadow in a new location next year. Two native sons gave the western Pennsylvania community an 81 acre park site, just outside of town. They may hold the ceremony there in 1953.

Elsewhere in the groundhog world, Wisconsin's self styled official club, The Sun Prarie Ground Watchers, say their beast didn't see his shadow. They predict a hog. They predict a prompt spring. prompt spring.

While Eden and Schuman conferred, the three "wise men" assigned to study financing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defenses, agreed to meet here Monday with three German officials to discuss how much West Germany will be asked to conrtibute to pay the costs of the occupation armies and to the rebuilding of her own military units.

The unsolved problems faced by the two foreign ministers and by the N. A. T. O. "wise men" — W. Averell Harriman of the United States, Sir Edwin Plowden of Britain and Jean Monnet of France—multiplied doubts felt in Paris about whether the N. A. T. O. conference opening in Lisbon Feb. 16 is going to be worth holding.

French spokesmen emphasized, however, there was no disposition here to postpone further the big showdown in the Portugese capital on what has been accomplished in building European defenses.

reported three Korean supply bearers were wounded by bomb fragments during the attack by the six planes south of Kumsong.

The planes were described as three single - engine propellor driven aircraft and three twin-engine types — all blue or silver-colored. Infantrymen reported they had white markings on the wings.

The fifth air force spokesman said no sorties were flown during daylight Saturday by B26s — the only twin - engine Allied combat plane in operation in Korea. However, most Allied planes are silver colored. F-51 Mustangs and F-41 Corsairs are the Allied single-engine fighters in the war zone.

The Mothers' "March of Dimes" porch lighting campaign Thursday night went over in a big way with more than $7,000 reported in cash collections and still more to be received.

This project, well advertised in the local press and planned to precision by W. J. Riley, Jr., and carried through to success by 2,000 willing workers, under leadership of Mrs. Frank Breese, all deserve great praise for their efforts. It indicates that the Twin Cities are alive to the seriousness of the situation and are disposed to help with their money.

Doubtless in many cases the money donated was made possible only through some personal sacrifice. If this be so, these persons, nameless to the public generally, deserve double praise for their loyalty to a worthy cause.

So far Britain and her western partners have not come forward with any offer in response to Maher Pasha's promise to consider her proposals. The British previously had made it clear, however, they were waiting for a demonstration of the new premier's ability to enforce order. The Nahas Pasha government last October rejected the proposal of Britain, the United States, France and Turkey to organize a middle east command with Egypt as an equal partner.

Egyptian army units, moved into Cairo a week ago, remained in firm control. During the first 24 hours after the troops moved in there was sporadic rifle fire to scare away looters. At night there still is an occasional rifle shot fired warningly. A night curfew is still in force and the sharp cry of "halt" is heard frequently from sentinels. Automobiles bearing curfew passes are frequently challenged on the streets. It is not unusual to be stopped a dozen times on a two-mile trip.

Harold Ickes Is Seriously Sick

Washington, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Former Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, 77, seriously ill but reported slightly improved, was moved today from his home in nearby Olney, Md., to a Washington hospital.

Mrs. Ickes said he was still gaining but still very ill."

It was Ickes' second trip to a hospital in recent weeks. He returned home Jan. 18 apparently improved after taking treatment for complications of a former arthritic ailment.

His condition worsened Monday night, and his doctor said Friday he had weakened "to the point where he can't fight any longer."

Earlier today, however, the doctor said Ickes had improved and that his "general heart and general condition look better."

Ickes served as interior secretary from 1933 to 1946 under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

U. N. GROUP

ik cast aside a plea from British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd to end the debate on a "note of unity." Malik told the committee:

"The full responsibility for future events in Korea and the far east will rest completely on the government of the United States. The United States intends to prolong the Korean aggression and expand aggression in the far east. The third world war has in fact commenced — in Korea, Indo-China, Tunis and Morocco. . . .No hypocritical statements will avail you anything. This is the conclusion to be drawn from the sixth session of the general assembly."

The action climaxed a day of tense and violent sessions in the U. N. assembly which saw:

Noisy demonstrators in the balcony calling themselves the "federation of anarchists" interrupted assembly debate in the Red and Gold Theater of the Palais de Chaillot by throwing eggs, tomatoes and anarchist leaflets at the astonished delegates. The leaflets said: "Politicians, gossips —windbags — enough talking." One egg splashed an inch from the seat of Soviet Delegate A. A. Sobolev. Another hit the white rostrum occupied by Assembly President Luis Padulla Nervo of Mexcio, Secretary General Trygve Lie and his executive assistant, Andrew Cordier.

Police threw out about a dozen of the demonstrators and detained five. The men shouted and scuffled but otherwise did not resist.

hot lunch, teachers salaries, roads and highways, drainage and reforestation, and the attraction of industry.

"Four years ago Kennon was estation, and the attraction of inging it couldn't be done," she said, "but now he is for it. And do you know why? Kennon knows that there are 120,000 old persons in the state who can vote."

In reference to the larger newspapers who are supporting Kennon for the governorship, Miss Dickerson said "if I had the support of the Times - Picayune newspaper, I would keep it a secret."

She also stated that large financial interests tried to keep the Spaht ticket from entering the second primary, by offering money and other inducements. Referring to this, she said, "I wish you people could know the money and the effort used to get us out of the race. . .but we are not quitters. Do you know who is a quitter? A mongrel dog, that's what; only a mongrel dog quits."

ONE KILLED

Wilson, who suffered severe face lacerations and lacerations of the right hand and left knee. Miss Rowelle injuries were listed as four fractures of the pelvis, general contusions and lacerations.

Injured in the accident at 6:15 p.m. were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gates of Fairbanks, La. They were admitted to the St. Francis Sanitarium, but were released a short while later.

Mrs. Ada May Rose, 36, of Atlanta, Ga. was the only person injured in the 7:10 p.m. wreck. She was admitted to the St. Francis hospital where her condition was described as satisfactory by an attending physician. Her injuries were to her right knee and back.

The first and most serious of the accidents occurred, state police said, when a 1950 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Wanwright crashed headlong into a 1948 Chevrolet automobile driven by John Pages. Wainwright told officers that his car had left the road and he was turning it back on the highway when the accident occurred.

Miss Rowelle was the only occupant of the car driven by Wainwright. Occupants of the Pages' car were Lula Mae Pages, his wife; Emmie Lee Pages and Willie Mae Pages, his daughters; Lillie Smith; and Harvey Wilson. Emmie Lee Pages was in her mother's lap in the back seat of the car when the accident occurred, police said.

The second accident occurred, according to state police, when a 1949 Ford, whose occupants were unknown last night, crashed into the rear of a car driven by Gates after he had slowed down to pass a truck overturned in a ditch. Mrs. Gates was the only other occupant.

The third accident occured, state policie continued, when a 1946 Mercury driven by Walter C. Arnold, 50, of Atlanta, Ga., brother-in-law of Mrs. Rose, side-swiped a large trailer-type van driven by Jack C. Elkins, 29, of Roanoke, Va., who was headed west toward Monroe. Mrs. Rose was the only person injured.

GOVT. PROBER

tion." Hillings termed it "peculiar."

Both called on a house judiciary subcommittee, now being set up to inquire into McGrath and the justice department, to investigate the action of the judge, Oliver J. Carter.

The prospect of one more investigation piled on top of another developed this way:

The Call - Bulletin has been running a series of articles dealing with income tax scandals in northern California. Yesterday it published an article quoting Hillings as linking Federal Judge George B. Harris to land development plan said to have been promoted by a deputy collector of internal revenue.

Judge Carter handed a copy of the paper headlined "U. S. Judge Harris named in land deal" to a grand jury foreman and ordered an investigation to determine whether the Call - Bulletin obstructed justice.

He referred the grand jury to a section of the law defining an obstruction of justice, but did not say how the newspaper might have violated it.

Randolph Hearst, publisher of the Call - Bulletin and son of the late William Randolph Hearst, commented: "It's all right with us if they want to investigate us. We print the news as we see it."

Senator Nixon, however, said "the Call-Bulletin has led a fight to expose corruption in the internal revenue department in San Francisco," and said the judge's action will be interpreted by many as a retaliatory move on part of the Truman administration.

He told a reporter he hopes the house judiciary committee "will put the San Francisco mess at the top of its list when it starts its investigation of the justice department and the judiciary."

Representative Hillings, in a statement, said he did not want to prejudge Judge Carter's action, but he added: "It appears to be necessary that the house committee on the judiciary investigate his latest action. . ."

"His action is peculiar," Hillings continued, "because it comes after certain San Francisco newspapers had consistently engaged in exposing instances of corruption in the San Francisco office of the bureau of internal revenue.

"It may be only coincidence that this action was taken on the eve of the hearings to be held by the King subcommittee."

That was a reference to the ways and means subcommittee, headed by Representative King (D.-Calif.), which has been inquiring into irregularities in the nation's tax collection system. It plans hearings in San Francisco starting Monday.

Negro Is Killed At State Prison

Angola, La., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A Negro convict at Louisiana state penitentiary here stabbed another to death with a broken table knife, Supt. D. D. Bazer said tonight.

He identified the Negro victim as Perry Washington, 26, of Port Arthur, Tex.

The prison official said the attacker was Dan Gibbs, 29, of Rayville, La., who had been "acting funny recently and talking to himself."

The attack, was unprovoked, Washington and Gibbs hardly knew each other, Bazer added.

According to the superintendent: Washington, a trusty who worked in the prison sugar mill, was seated on his cell bed when Gibbs suddenly stabbed him in the chest and left eye.

The weapon was a broken table knife Gibbs had sharpened and secreted in his cell.

ROARK BROS.
PIANO

THE REASON WHY

We have been asked many times how we can consistently sell high quality pianos at prices no higher that those usually quoted on cheap, obsolete or inferior instruments.

THE ANSWER!

We Are North Louisiana's Largest Piano Dealers

At the present time our warehouse is bulging with instruments that have been purchased at bargain prices over a period of time. We are never forced to buy pianos on the spur of the moment to pass on to the unsuspecting public.

ADEQUATE SHOP FACILITIES

We were fortunate in securing the most competent and efficient men in North Louisiana to do our tuning and adjusting. All tuning and service is taken care of at minimum cost to the customer.

WE ARE CONTENT WITH A NORMAL PROFIT

We believe in a live-and-let live price. Our prices are the same to all. No distinction is shown.

OUR FINANCING SYSTEM IS RIGHT

You are not penalized on exorbitant carrying charge because you are not fortunate enough to have the cash to purchase a piano. Our carrying charge is small and is on a rebate plan so that if you pay out your contract before the full time you save the carrying charge. See us today. Investigate. We will save you money in the long run.

ROARK BROS.
PIANO

WHY

We have been asked many times how we can consistently sell high quality pianos at prices no higher that those usually quoted on cheap, obsolete or inferior instruments.

THE ANSWER!

We Are North Louisiana's Largest Piano Dealers

At the present time our warehouse is bulging with instruments that have been purchased at bargain prices over a period of time. We are never forced to buy pianos on the spur of the moment to pass on to the unsuspecting public.

ADEQUATE
SHOP FACILITIES

We were fortunate in securing the most competent and efficient men in North Louisiana to do our tuning and adjusting. All tuning and service is taken care of at minimum cost to the customer.

WE ARE CONTENT WITH A NORMAL PROFIT

We believe in a live-and-let live price. Our prices are the same to all. No distinction is shown.

OUR FINANCING SYSTEM IS RIGHT

You are not penalized on exorbitant carrying charge because you are not fortunate enough to have the cash to purchase a piano. Our carrying charge is small and is on a rebate plan so that if you pay out your contract before the full time you save the carrying charge. See us today. Investigate. We will save you money in the long run.

OUR CHILDREN are rather nice: we think they should have a yard to play in and a bedroom each, of course Mommie and Daddy would like to live with them, so we really need a 3-bedroom home. A 2-bedroom home will do, however. We are going to buy our furniture after we see the house it will go into. We will stay a year or more, and we would like to be in the college area. Call 3-6341.

COTTON

New York

New York, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Cotton futures, following an irregular opening, turned firm today. Overing for over the week-end and reappearance of trade support disclosed a scarcity of offerings. Trading volume was not active, with most dealers adopting sideline positions pending new developments. Traders stated that some of the support was encouraged by prospects of new export sales next week.

Futures closed 75 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower than the previous close.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Cotton futures declined early today but gradually worked upward on week-end short covering and small trade buying. Near the close, however, new selling in distant positions caused easiness in those months.

Closing prices were steady 65 cents a bale higher to 40 cents lower.

Trading was fairly active in the short Saturday session. Early easiness was attributed to continued unfavorable textile reports. Middling 15-16 inch spot cotton advanced 50 cents a bale to 41.95 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 1,810 bales.

New York

New York, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Cotton futures, following an irregular opening, turned firm today. Overing for over the week-end and reappearance of trade support disclosed a scarcity of offerings. Trading volume was not active, with most dealers adopting sideline positions pending new developments. Traders stated that some of the support was encouraged by prospects of new export sales next week.

Futures closed 75 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower than the previous close.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 2. —(AP)— Cotton futures declined early today but gradually worked upward on week-end short covering and small trade buying. Near the close, however, new selling in distant positions caused easiness in those months.

Closing prices were steady 65 cents a bale higher to 40 cents lower.

Trading was fairly active in the short Saturday session. Early easiness was attributed to continued unfavorable textile reports. Middling 15-16 inch spot cotton advanced 50 cents a bale to 41.95 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 1,810 bales.

Miss Betty Jane Bennett To Wed Walter Lowell Hastings

Synope Plantation Is Setting For Lovely Announcement Party Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Bennett, of West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Betty Jane, to Walter Lowell Hastings, son of Mrs. Katie F. Hastings, also of West Monroe.

The marriage will be solemnized March 7th at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe at seven o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Jaroy Weber will officiate.

Announcement Party

Miss Betty Jane Bennett and Mr. Walter L. Hastings were honored Friday by Mrs. Walter Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Odie Neal Reynolds at their plantation home, Synope. The occasion was the formal announcement of their engagement and approaching marriage on the evening of March the Seventh.

Little Miss Jorenda Reynolds, a replica of a southern belle in white organdy greeted the guests and presented each with a valentine announcing the wedding date. Receiving with the host and hostesses were: Miss Bennett, Mr. Hastings, Mrs. Katie Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Bennett, Mr. Fred Bennett, Jr., Miss Jennie Reynolds, and Mr. Neal Reynolds.

Miss Bennett, a petite blonde, was the essence of lovely springtime in a Paul Parns original model. It was a blush pink embroidered organdy over pink tulle and taffeta. The bouffant skirt was showered with rose petals. Her corsage was fashioned of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Walter Reynolds chose a distinctive model in a rich mulberry shade and Mrs. Odie Reynolds, a colonial frock of nylon organdy. Mrs. Bennett was stunning in woodland rose and Mrs. Hastings, charming in a cloud - gray model. Miss Jennie Reynolds looked lovely in champagne tulle.

Mrs. James L. Martin, Mrs. R. L. Taggart, Mrs. R. G. O'Dell, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. Jaroy Weber, Mrs. Bernard Ford, and Mrs. Drew Hays graciously presided at the coffee services in the formal dining room, country dining room, and in the den. Miss Lallage Feazel, Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Jr., Mrs. Hartford Jackson, and Miss Sarah Alice Norris presided in serving the punch. Miss Terri Tidwell, Miss Joanne McDonald, and Miss Katherine Martin assisted in extending courtesies. The entire house party wore lovely spring formals and corsages of camelias.

Among the arrangements noted for their beauty were the jade magnolia leaves, reflected in a great antique mirror in the reception hall.

The formal dining table was flanked with silver candelbra and centered with an exquisite heart fashioned from purple hyacenth and pink stock, and framed with pink tulle. The two lazy-susan tables in the country dining room were centered with red frilled hearts and huge candles.

The refreshments expressed the true southern hospitality always found at Synope plantation.

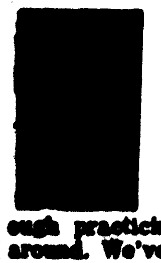
A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO

by J. Paul Hewitt



All across the country small towns and communities are setting up an urgent cry for music teachers. It's a fact that definitely shows that music is becoming more and more important in our daily lives. It also shows that there are not enough practicing teachers to go around. We've heard of several instances in which traveling instructors go about rural communities complete with trailer and equipment to give out of the way areas the opportunity for musical study.

As yet the Rural Free Delivery Music shops are few and far between. There is a great need for more and better teachers to take their places in these small communities . . . to foster the growth of music throughout the country.

We just pass along this information to let you know that there's always room in the field of music for people who want to make a career of it. Music is for everybody. And people interested in it will see that it gets around.

Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority Members Are Entertained

Omega Chapter Has Meeting In Home Of Misses Marguerite And Elizabeth Landis

Members of Omega Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma were entertained Saturday afternoon in the home of Misses Marguerite and Elizabeth Landis of Winnsboro.

The guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. Father Richard J. Swift, S. S. J., pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Winnsboro, who was introduced by Mrs. Walter Richardson, program chairman. Mrs. Richardson stated that Father Swift's subject on the United Nations was one of a series of current topics on "Inter-Cultural Relations," the theme of Delta Kappa Gamma's national program.

Father Swift divided his interesting lecture into two parts: the first half he explained the mechanism, the functioning, and the purpose of the U. N., beginning with the original 50 nations, who assembled on June 26, 1945. He cited the preamble to the constitution and gave the six chief organs together with their duties: namely, the general assembly, the security council which is composed of 11 members, five permanent ones and six who are elected every two years but who cannot succeed themselves. This, incidentally, is the most important organ in the organization. Then come the Social and Economic Council (UNESCO), the Trusteeship Council, the Judiciary Court Council, and the Secretarial Council.

The latter part of Rev. Swift's address was devoted to his views on why we, the U. S. should withdraw from the U. N. while we are still free to do so. He gave the following reasons in support of his beliefs: it will never, never bring peace. It has brought no relief thus far. Conditions are worse than before its birth. To begin with the Democratic nations who believe in God were outruled and completely gave over to Russia and the Communistic - run countries in striking out the name of our Almighty when the framers were drafting the constitution.

Second: it threatens to curtail out liberties, third, to continue with the present set-up means bankruptcy for us as we carry 39 per cent of all the financial burden and have only one vote in this organization of 59 members. Fourth, we are placed in an intolerable situation. The U. N. can sue but it cannot be sued and it is common knowledge that there are spies and saboteurs working in the organization from the minor offices up.

Fifth — If we ratify and defend the constitution of the U. N. then we must change our own constitution in the event there is a conflicting clause or whenever our own U. S. Constitution does not conform to that of the U. N. In other words, ours becomes obsolete.

After an elaborate discussion on the foregoing reasons, he gave, what he considered, our best alternative in this world-wide crisis: that being to leave our great nation with all its mass production, ingenuity, and financial resources free to assist foreign nations as we choose and dictated to by no one. It is nothing short of tragic to be subdued, to submit to, and to be dictated to by the socialistic measures of the Communistic nations in the U. N. It will lead to the destruction of our independence as a great nation and our democratic principles upon which it was founded.

After a brief business session, the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the following members: Miss Helen Hair, Miss Laura Walters, Mrs. Mark A. Price, Mrs. Sallie Watson, Mrs. Ray Clawson, Mrs. Eula Batey, Mrs. Doris Miller, Mrs. Walter Richardson, Miss Marguerite Landis, Mrs. W. B. Glover, Miss Virginia Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Landis, Mrs. Cecil Biggs, Miss Marjorie Price, Mrs. F. P. Talbert, Miss Kathlyn Goforth, and Mrs. L. R. Westerburg.

The marriage will be solemnized March 7th at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe at seven o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Jaroy Weber will officiate.

Announcement Party

Miss Betty Jane Bennett and Mr. Walter L. Hastings were honored Friday by Mrs. Walter Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Odie Neal Reynolds at their plantation home, Synope. The occasion was the formal announcement of their engagement and approaching marriage on the evening of March the Seventh.

Little Miss Jorenda Reynolds, a replica of a southern belle in white organdy greeted the guests and presented each with a valentine announcing the wedding date. Receiving with the host and hostesses were: Miss Bennett, Mr. Hastings, Mrs. Katie Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Bennett, Mr. Fred Bennett, Jr., Miss Jennie Reynolds, and Mr. Neal Reynolds.

Miss Bennett, a petite blonde, was the essence of lovely springtime in a Paul Parns original model. It was a blush pink embroidered organdy over pink tulle and taffeta. The bouffant skirt was showered with rose petals. Her corsage was fashioned of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Walter Reynolds chose a distinctive model in a rich mulberry shade and Mrs. Odie Reynolds, a colonial frock of nylon organdy. Mrs. Bennett was stunning in woodland rose and Mrs. Hastings, charming in a cloud - gray model. Miss Jennie Reynolds looked lovely in champagne tulle.

Mrs. James L. Martin, Mrs. R. L. Taggart, Mrs. R. G. O'Dell, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. Jaroy Weber, Mrs. Bernard Ford, and Mrs. Drew Hays graciously presided at the coffee services in the formal dining room, country dining room, and in the den. Miss Lallage Feazel, Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Jr., Mrs. Hartford Jackson, and Miss Sarah Alice Norris presided in serving the punch. Miss Terri Tidwell, Miss Joanne McDonald, and Miss Katherine Martin assisted in extending courtesies. The entire house party wore lovely spring formals and corsages of camelias.

Among the arrangements noted for their beauty were the jade magnolia leaves, reflected in a great antique mirror in the reception hall.

The formal dining table was flanked with silver candelbra and centered with an exquisite heart fashioned from purple lyarenth and pink stock, and framed with pink tulle. The two lazy-susan tables in the country dining room were centered with red frilled hearts and huge candles.

The refreshments expressed the true southern hospitality always found at Synope plantation.

by J. Paul Hewitt

All across the country small towns and communities are setting up an urgent cry for music teachers. It's a fact that definitely shows that music is becoming more and more important in our daily lives. It also shows that there are not enough practicing teachers to go around. We've heard of several instances in which traveling instructors go about rural communities complete with trailer and equipment to give out of the way areas the opportunity for musical study.

As yet the Rural Free Delivery Music shops are few and far between. There is a great need for more and better teachers to take their places in these small communities . . . to foster the growth of music throughout the country.

We just pass along this information to let you know that there's always room in the field of music for people who want to make a career of it. Music is for everybody. And people interested in it will see that it gets around.

Don't miss the Richard Elsasser Concert on February 12th at Northeast Louisiana State College. Time-8:15 P.M. Tickets on sale at Hewitt's Admission: Adults $1.00 (tax included); Students 50c (tax included) The 1951 National Radio Poll listed Mr. Ellsasser in the top three of concert organists.

You'll be surprised at how little it'll cost you to have a fine piano in your home. On our convenient rental terms you'll hardly miss the monthly amount. We'll be glad to advise about instruction too . . . to help you and your family to enjoy homemade music at your house. Come in to see us at HEWITT'S INC. Miss Sayda Virginia David Weds Ray E. Simmons, Jr.

Couple Pledge Nuptial Vows At First Baptist Church In Olla

Sunday, January 27, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the First Baptist Church in Olla, Louisiana, Miss Sayda Virginia David, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam David of Olla became the bride of Ray E. Simmons, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Simmons of St. Louis, Mo.

The Rev. J. O. James, pastor of the church officiated at the nuptial service using an impressive double-ring ceremony, before a background of cedar garlands, draping the candle lighted baptistry. Tall white tapers burned in branched candelabra, flanked by floor baskets of white gladioli and fern. White maline bows tied small sprays of white candytuft marking the ends of the pews and a tall white taper glowed on a garland of cedar in each window.

Mr. Roy Welch of Urania presented a program of wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Welch who sang "O Promise Me" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and ending of the ceremony.

The candles were lighted by Miss Patricia David, sister of the bride and Miss Gloria Simmons, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical floor length gowns in aqua blue taffeta and in their hair, a bandeau of yellow carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory bridal satin, fashioned with a deep yoke of illusion, outlined in a flower design embroidered with seed pearls. The fitted bodice fastened by tiny self-covered buttons came to a point down the back and the long sleeves tapered to petal points over the wrists. The full skirt flowed into a chapel train. The finger tip veil of white illusion fell from a halo of Chantilly lace dotted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of feathered white carnations, from which fell white satin streamers entwined with maline.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edward Harris as matron of honor, who was gowned in a floor length pastel blue taffeta with a portrait neckline. She wore a Juliet cap and stole of matching nylon net and carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with satin ribbon.

The five bridesmaids wore floor length pastel gowns of taffeta in pink, blue and yellow, with matching Juliet caps and stoles of nylon net and carried colonial bouquets of rainbow tinted carnations with matching satin streamers. They were: Miss Jeannine Sale of Minden, Miss Sarah Ruth Campbell of Minden, Miss Rosemary Lee of Logansport Mrs. Wayford Williamson of Minden and Miss Alice Driscoll of Winnfield.

Little Dolores Nethery was flower girl and wore a taffeta frock with a cluster of pink carnations in her hair. She sprinkled rose petals from a tiny white basket in the path of the bride.

Dick David of Minden served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Phillip Price of Alexandria, Rayford Williamson of Minden, Sammy David, brother of the bride of Olla, Tom Wafer of Monroe and Edward Harris of Olla.

Mrs. David chose for her daughter's wedding a two piece ensemble of steel blue lace over taffeta, a small hat of pink velvet flowers and pink gloves. Her corsage was of darker pink carnations. Mrs. Simmons, mother of the bridegroom was attired in an aqua blue crepe dress, white hat and gloves and her corsage was of rose carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home. Arrangements of white gladioli and narcissus were placed at vantage points about the home.

The bride's table was laid with an imported white linen cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet, surrounded by the rainbow tinted bouquets of the bridesmaids and flanked by tall white tapers in crystal holders. The three-teired wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and embossed in white rose buds, encirled in white tulle was served by Mrs. Harold Dale of Olla. Mrs. J. W. Bardin of Tullos served frosted punch from a crystal bowl. Misses Mary Ann Bardin, Madge McDuff and Mrs. Darwin Brooks of Jena assisted in the serving courtesies. Mrs. Jeff Smith of Olla presided at the bride's book.

For traveling, Mrs. Simmons wore a ruby red, pure silk shantung dress, small black velvet hat trimmed in rhinestones, black accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bride is at present completing work on her master's degree in home economics at the Louisiana State University. Mr. Simmons is a voice major at L. S. U. After a short wedding trip, they will be at home in Baton Rouge.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. Ott G. Milam of Tullos, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee of Logansport, Mr. Paul M. Lee of Logansport, Mr. Alfred J. Slaton of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. UNEMPLOYMENT FEARED

Penang, Malaya —(AP)— Rubber dealers here fear that widespread unemployment will result from Indonesia's banning of the export of some grades of rubber to Malaya.

Many factories in Penang, as well as in other cities of the Federation and Singapore, are devoted almost entirely to the reprocessing of crude rubber brought in from Indonesia.

Mrs. Mary Jones, Dixie Acres, Hostess At Club Meeting

Members of the Sterlington Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Mary Jones, Dixie Arces, for their regular January meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. W. B. Wall, president. The minutes were read and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was given followed by a prayer.

The program consisted of reports from the leaders. Garden and landscape leaders, Mrs. Velma Hall and Mrs. W. B. Wall gave a demonstration on preparation of soil and building seed boxes, showing two methods, one of these being expanded vermiculite. Mrs. Hall stated that seeds planted in vermiculite generally germinate more readily than in soil, the percentage of germination is higher and can be transplanted very well because of the heavier root system.

At the close of the program refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. W. B. Wall, Mrs. C. R. Alexander, Mrs. C. W Endy, Mrs. Velma Hall, Mrs. R. E. Lukat, Mrs. O. H. Manhart, Mrs. L. R. McClain, Mrs. C. B. Harding, Mrs. J. R. Williams and the hostess, Mrs. Mary Jones.

Miro Book Club Members Attend January Meeting

Group Enjoys Book Review Given By Mrs. A. B. Myatt

The regular meeting of the Miro Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. J. M. Murphey, with a full membership attending. Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, presided. The collect was read in unison; this was followed by the salute to the flag, after which an interesting agenda was acted upon.

After business proceedings, Mrs. Mulhern turned the meeting over to Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, program chairman, who introduced Mrs. A. B. Myatt.

Mrs. Myatt, in her quiet charming way, gave the book "The Road Ahead," by John T. Flynn, which, according to the author is an answer to the so often repeated question: "Where are we heading?" She began by telling how dry her subject was and how she had struggled to weave the information into an understandable study of, first: the British model of socialism, which we are imitating; second, communism and then fascism to which it leads.

The reviewer told us this is the road Britain has traveled and, has now reached the first stop: socialism. Britain is at present at the fork of these roads. What will be the outcome of this present theory? Will their decision be communistic or the fascist way? The author plunged deeply into his subject, baring many pertinent facts in our administrative government. In a most convincing and informative fashion, he brings to our attention the many pitfalls confronting America today, lest we find ourselves as Britain is now on the very brink of bankruptcy. Mr. Flynn warns "beware" as America is rapidly on the way to a socialistic stop.

Here, Mrs. Myatt, in a most interesting manner, gave a word picture behind the struggle to arouse the Negroes of the south where the Communist has one supreme interest: to excite and stimulate the hatreds of every class in the country. She asked everyone to familiarize themselves with the strange collection of forces which have created havoc in the political parties in New York and other cities. Members were asked to comprehend the extent to which the minds of American youth are being shaped in our schools and colleges. Some of these institutions are simply seething with poisonous propaganda which is easily absorbed by immature minds. Thus, this power of suggestion is often the seed that bears a disastrous fruit. To those who feel our freedom of religion is our balancing point in these uncertain times, we need to investigate more fully the extent to which our churches have been paralyzed by our socialistic conspirators. The writer further points out that herefore, we have had as an object lesson Russian communism which no one ever believed could be introduced in America. Now, we have the object lesson of British socialism which has brought England to the depths of indebtedness. This should present us with a blueprint of just how this tragic operation could and is being repeated in the United States.

This book gives certainly food for thought, and the reviewer, by her expert detailed account of "The Road Ahead" she so skillfully portrayed, gives an inkling of the profound study she has made of the book to present it.

Mrs. Tidwell next introduced Mrs. R. L. Wood who quoted laws on social legislation. Mrs. Wood had studied carefully these laws and gave quite a thorough account of how such complicated laws as: The public law 784, passed by the 81st congress, an act to extend and improve the federal old age and survivors insurance system, works in all its details. Amendments of the social security act were brought up clearly by the speaker who concluded in telling of the ten per cent pay increase to our servicemen.

While members joined in delightful conversation, the hostess was putting the finishing touches to a delicious chicken salad course. Mrs. Murphey displayed souvenir china plates which have been collected from many historical points thought our country. The collection is the rare possession of Mrs. Murphey's friend, Mrs. Ross. The plates were displayed on the dining table which was a beautiful background for the exhibit. An exquisitely embroidered Italian cutwork linen cloth with a central decor of jonquils, blue irises and acacias intermingled to make this artistic arrangement one of beauty.

Members present were: Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Sr., Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. R. L. Wood, and the hostess, Mrs. J. W. Murphey.

Group Enjoys Book Review Given By Mrs. A. B. Myatt

The regular meeting of the Miro Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. J. M. Murphey, with a full membership attending. Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, presided. The collect was read in unison; this was followed by the salute to the flag, after which an interesting agenda was acted upon.

After business proceedings, Mrs. Mulhern turned the meeting over to Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, program chairman, who introduced Mrs. A. B. Myatt.

Mrs. Myatt. in her quiet charming way, gave the book "The Road Ahead," by John T. Flynn, which, according to the author is an answer to the so often repeated question: "Where are we heading?" She began by telling how dry her subject was and how she had struggled to weave the information into an understandable study of, first: the British model of socialism, which we are imitating; second, communism and then fascism to which it leads.

The reviewer told us this is the road Britain has traveled and, has now reached the first stop: socialism. Britain is at present at the fork of these roads. What will be the outcome of this present theory? Will their decision be communistic or the fascist way? The author plunged deeply into his subject, baring many pertinent facts in our administrative government. In a most convincing and informative fashion, he brings to our attention the many pitfalls confronting America today, lest we find ourselves as Britain is now on the very brink of bankruptcy. Mr. Flynn warns "beware" as America is rapidly on the way to a socialistic stop.

Here, Mrs. Myatt, in a most interesting manner, gave a word picture behind the struggle to arouse the Negroes of the south where the Communist has one supreme interest: to excite and stimulate the hatreds of every class in the country. She asked everyone to familiarize themselves with the strange collection of forces which have created havoc in the political parties in New York and other cities. Members were asked to comprehend the extent to which the minds of American youth are being shaped in our schools and colleges. Some of these institutions are simply seething with poisonous propaganda which is easily absorbed by immature minds. Thus, this power of suggestion is often the seed that bears a disastrous fruit. To those who feel our freedom of religion is our balancing point in these uncertain times, we need to investigate more fully the extent to which our churches have been paralyzed by our socialistic conspirators. The writer further points out that herefore, we have had as an object lesson Russian communism which no one ever believed could be introduced in America. Now, we have the object lesson of British socialism which has brought England to the depths of indebtedness. This should present us with a blueprint of just how this tragic operation could and is being repeated in the United States.

This book gives certainly food for thought, and the reviewer, by her expert detailed account of "The Road Ahead" she so skillfully portrayed, gives an inkling of the profound study she has made of the book to present it.

Mrs. Tidwell next introduced Mrs. R. L. Wood who quoted laws on social legislation. Mrs. Wood had studied carefully these laws and gave quite a thorough account of how such complicated laws as: The public law 784, passed by the 81st congress, an act to extend and improve the federal old age and survivors insurance system, works in all its details. Amendments of the social security act were brought up clearly by the speaker who concluded in telling of the ten per cent pay increase to our servicemen.

While members joined in delightful conversation, the hostess was putting the finishing touches to a delicious chicken salad course. Mrs. Murphey displayed souvenir china plates which have been collected from many historical points thought our country. The collection is the rare possession of Mrs. Murphey's friend, Mrs. Ross. The plates were displayed on the dining table which was a beautiful background for the exhibit. An exquisitely embroidered Italian cutwork linen cloth with a central decor of jonquils, blue irises and acacias intermingled to make this artistic arrangement one of beauty.

Members present were: Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Sr., Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. R. L. Wood, and the hostess, Mrs. J. W. Murphey.

Judge Jesse Heard Is Guest Speaker At January Event

Judge Jesse Heard gave a very informative and interesting talk to the Monroe Altrusa Club at its regular dinner meeting in January at a local hotel. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Bernice McCoy, chairman of public affairs committee, which was responsible for the program.

Members attending the meeting were: Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Miss Mary Frost, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Abbie Leckle, Miss Annie Klie, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Miss Harriet Cypret, Miss Ann Mickel, Miss Clydie Cox, Mrs. Erlene Adams, Miss Mary Benoit, Mrs. Toni Humphries, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Miss Mary Clay, Miss Bernice McCoy, Dr. Katherine Foster.

Judge Heard spoke on juvenile delinquency and said in part:

"It has been suggested that the answer to the problem posed by juvenile delinquency lies in understanding that delinquents can and should be divided into two groups.

One group being the adventitious or situational delinquent — those who violate in response to situations which the community thrusts upon them or which derive from the nature of the social economic atmosphere under which we live. Rather than blame these children, we must look to the monstrous social climate we have arranged in which to rear our children. It is a climate that depends for its continuance on trumped up and secondary wants. Billboards, radio and the press besiege these growing youths with propaganda designed to arouse in them a sense of frustration, inadequacy and insecurity.

Unfortunately, most of us are creatures of the same culture, tormented by the same ambitions and thus are not equipped to soften or divert the harsh impact of environment on the child. We already see that we are too engaged in a losing race "to keep up with the Jones". He comes to understand that we do not really mean the nice things to say in our churches. At home we rattle off neat formulas for a child to govern his behavior, and then we boast about beating income tax laws, or pulling fast ones on our customers and neighbors. Such inconsistency can only produce bewilderment and conflict. We fail our children in home, schools, churches, and the community. At least two thirds of the boys and girls who break the law fall into the class of situational delinquent who has crime thrust upon him. . .His behavior is th. result of the social economic moral atmosphere in which he has been reared.

The other kind of delinquent is the basic delinquent, one who is not forced into violation of law by society, but in response to pressure from within himself. Like the adult, he becomes in later life, a sick person. Basic delinquency comes about or is caused either biologically or through mistakes and errors in child rearing. Where there is physical fault the product may well be criminal.

More important than anything, perhaps more important than the actual errors of training and handling children in the plastic years during which the future of the child is determined, is the atmosphere or climate of the home in which the job is done. So a home torn by dissention, rocked by discord, split by lovelessness, twisted by selfishness and wrecked by the economic cyclones that leave insecurity, tensions, and anxiety in their wake is a fertile breeding ground for illnesses of the mind and abnormal behavior. These children who are products of such early mishandling carry the scars and wounds with them for the rest of their lives. They are naturally more sensitive and responsive, more easily thrown off balance by social economic and physical pressures of later life and many of them express their illness through crime.

There are many things that could be done for juvenile delinquents. One of them is our juvenile courts should be reconstituted so they can function as a diagnostic clinic for the separation of the situational from the basic delinquents. The reasons for the delinquent acts should be investigated and all the resources of the community mobilized in order to prevent its repetition. Basic delinquents should be turned over for psychiatric treatment and detained in special institutions. Research must be carried on in order to better learn how to prevent, control and treat criminality. We have everything the job requires except the will to do it. Let us parents realize the value and importance of a child's life. That is the most valuable possession that we have and that it must be given every opportunity in its formative years."

The Home Shift
By
Mildred Swift

"It takes a heap o' cooking to make a house a home" said Molly McGee to Fibber. She echoed the thoughts of thousands of other housewives, because three meals a day do get a little monotonous. Thirty - five women in tailoring classes this week had fun exchanging recipes and menus over their sewing. Besides making a coat we had so much fun making new friends. Elaine Breard brought two thermos jugs of coffee plus fruit cake for recess. Now back to menu planning. When planning them include February plentiful foods for economy. Heading the list for the month are eggs, honey and dried prunes. Also in excellent supply are pork and pork products, canned tuna, dry navy, pinto and baby lima beans, raisins, fresh oranges, canned and frozen orange juice and rice.

If you want to see a dream of a patio stop by the Ted Allens at 2301 Jasmine. They made this during spare time. Ted is a graduate in architectural engineering, so he knew just the finishing touches to give the patio and barbecue pit.

Everybody seems to have gone out for potted plants around trees and outdoor living rooms. Here's an idea I picked up from somebody last week, (can't remember just who). Put plants in a container, then set this in a larger pot. Between the two pots pack peat moss to hold moisture—saves lots of watering.

Everybody admired Mrs. H. Mickels (119 Glenmar Ave.) pinkie roses last year. There's a climbing pinkie too, that should be the answer to our climbing pink rose that blooms all summer. Several nurseries have these. They are Flora Bunda's.

February is a busy month in the yard. This is the last month for successful transplanting of evergreens. It's rose planting month and time to fertilize your lawns. If you made an application of complete fertilizer last fall, use nitrogen now. If you failed to feed in the fall, use a complete fertilizer now. Your seed dealer can tell you the amounts of each to use.

Carrie McKenzie is busy widening the driveway at her home on 1505 Fairview avenue, Monroe. Most of us made our driveways too narrow. Several rows of brick, layed flat, flush with the ground save backing off on the lawn. They really give your yard a face lifting too, as much as so replenishing your lipstick about 4:00 p.m. One row of brick placed the same way around your flower beds makes mowing close to the beds easier, holds the shape of the beds and keeps weeds and grass from taking over the border.

Don't forget to plant some dogwoods and red buds. They'll be in bloom soon as a reminder that another year has passed. Jane Earnest and Adrian Garton are planting dozens along their drive. It's pleasant visiting them on lovely Bayou DeSiard but it will be even nicer when you'll drive through a lane of dogwood blossoms. Don't forget a tulip tree while planting. Serena Lewis makes the most heavenly arangements with the blossoms. But she can take a fruit jar and bitter weeds and do that. We'll watch for the blooms from the tulip tree at Peggy Garnett's and Alda Groves later in the year.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

A bit of news that sounds interesting comes from troop 10, a first year intermediate troop which meets at Grace Church under the leadership of Mrs. A. W. Lewis and Mrs. O. M. Fletcher. In order to stimulate interest in the Handbook, the leaders encouraged study of the first section, promising a picture show party to the patrol which made the best showing on a quiz to conclude the study.

Miss Annis Klie, executive director, was asked to conduct the quiz. After an exciting hour in which enthusiasm ran high, Patrol 1 emerged the winner with the other two patrols close runners up. Ruth Johnson is the leader of the winning patrol, which also consists of Ann Trousdale, Sandra Lea, Sandra Simpson and Patricia Graham. Leaders congratulated all the girls on their efforts.

A lot of nice things have been happening to troop 10. The week before, Mr. Clyde Pohl presented the troop with an American flag on behalf of the Woodmen of the World. Mr. Pohl told the girls he was proud of the fast that they wanted a flag and that they had learned how to use and to take care of it. Mr. Alex Lea, father of one of the Scouts, has promised to make a staff for the flag. For its first meeting in February, observed in Girl Scouting as International Month, troop 10 has asked Mrs. Tom Johnson to visit them and talk with them about Greece. The girls will learn about Girl Guides in Greece. Looks as if we just about caught up on troop 10.

Lucky girls of troop 16 have been given tickets to the Firemen's Circus on February 11. Mr. M. C. Carroll is the kind donor. We know the girls will have a wonderful time.

Three new girls have been invested recently, Gwen Dunn, Brenda Salters, and Charlotte Harris. Mrs. T. G. Kincaid and Miss Lavergne Causey are leaders. Footstools, crocheting and painting don't sound as though they had much in common. The girls of troop 16 are working on these craft projects under the direction of Mrs. Harry Moore, a member of the troop committee.

Speaking of handwork, the Red Cross is asking for Afghan squares. What troop would like to take up knitting? Directions can be obtained at the Scout office. If some girls would like to learn to knit, Mrs. A. M. Kite, knitting chairman for Red Cross, will arrange for classes for instruction. And if any of you readers have any bits of wool on hand you are not using, how about passing them on to some would-be knitters.

Mrs. Veazey of the Red Cross says the Afghans are used to wrap around wheel chair patients when they are taken out of doors. This is a good chance for girls to learn a new skill and to do a good deed as well.

Next Sunday is the time for the Girls Planning Board to meet at the Scout office to make final plans for the Girl Scout birthday celebration and for a tree-planting at camp. Mrs. Robert Easterling will meet with these representatives of intermediate troops. Surely no troop wants to be left out. Leaders are asked to help their troops select representatives.

We've heard that some troops are looking for the tree they will plant on the Scout camp grounds. We hope each troop wil have at least one. Mr. Lambert Romero of the forestry department will be at camp on February 16, the day designated as tree - planting day. Anybody want to give your neighbor Scout a seedling tree to beautify camp?

Altrusa Club Members Enjoy Dinner Meeting

Judge Jesse Heard Is Guest Speaker At January Event

Judge Jesse Heard gave a very informative and interesting talk to the Monroe Altrusa Club at its regular dinner meeting in January at a local hotel. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Bernice McCoy, chairman of public affairs committee, which was responsible for the program.

Members attending the meeting were: Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Miss Mary Frost, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Miss Annie Klie, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Miss Harriet Cypret, Miss Ann Mickel, Miss Clydie Cox, Mrs. Erlene Adams, Miss Mary Benoit, Mrs. Toni Humphries, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Miss Mary Clay, Miss Bernice McCoy, Dr. Katherine Foster.

Judge Heard spoke on juvenile delinquency and said in part:

"It has been suggested that the answer to the problem posed by juvenile delinquency lies in understanding that delinquents can and should be divided into two groups.

One group being the adventitious or situational delinquent — those who violate in response to situations which the community thrusts upon them or which derive from the nature of the social economic atmosphere under which we live. Rather than blame these children, we must look to the monstrous social climate we have arranged in which to rear our children. It is a climate that depends for its continuance on trumped up and secondary wants. Billboards, radio and the press besiege these growing youths with propaganda designed to arouse in them a sense of frustration, inadequacy and insecurity.

Unfortunately, most of us are creatures of the same culture, tormented by the same ambitions and thus are not equipped to soften or divert the harsh impact of environment on the child. We already see that we are too engaged in a losing race "to keep up with the Jones". He comes to understand that we do not really mean the nice things to say in our churches. At home we rattle off neat formulas for a child to govern his behavior, and then we boast about beating income tax laws, or pulling fast ones on our customers and neighbors. Such inconsistency can only produce bewilderment and conflict. We fail our children in home, schools, churches, and the community. At least two thirds of the boys and girls who break the law fall into the class of situational delinquent who has crime thrust upon him. . .His behavior is the result of the social economic moral atmosphere in which he has been reared.

The other kind of delinquent is the basic delinquent, one who is not forced into violation of law by society, but in response to pressure from within himself. Like the adult, he becomes in later life, a sick person. Basic delinquency comes about or is caused either biologically or through mistakes and errors in child rearing. Where there is physical fault the product may well be criminal.

More important than anything, perhaps more important than the actual errors of training and handling children in the plastic years during which the future of the child is determined, is the atmosphere or climate of the home in which the job is done. So a home torn by dissention, rocked by discord, split by lovelessness, twisted by selfishness and wrecked by the economic cyclones that leave insecurity, tensions, and anxiety in their wake is a fertile breeding ground for illnesses of the mind and abnormal behavior. These children who are products of such early mishandling carry the scars and wounds with them for the rest of their lives. They are naturally more sensitive and responsive, more easily thrown off balance by social economic and physical pressures of later life and many of them express their illness through crime.

There are many things that could be done for juvenile delinquents. One of them is our juvenile courts should be reconstituted so they can function as a diagnostic clinic for the separation of the situational from the basic delinquents. The reasons for the delinquent acts should be investigated and all the resources of the community mobilized in order to prevent its repetition. Basic delinquents should be turned over for psychiatric treatment and detained in special institutions. Research must be carried on in order to better learn how to prevent, control and treat criminality. We have everything the job requires except the will to do it. Let us parents realize the value and importance of a child's life. That is the most valuable possession that we have and that it must be given every opportunity in its formative years."

The Home Shift
By
Mildred Swift

"It takes a heap o' cooking to make a house a home" said Molly McGee to Fibber. She echoed the thoughts of thousands of other housewives, because three meals a day do get a little monotonous. Thirty - five women in tailoring classes this week had fun exchanging recipes and menus over their sewing. Besides making a coat we had so much fun making new friends. Elaine Breard brought two thermos jugs of coffee plus fruit cake for recess. Now back to menu planning. When planning them include February plentiful foods for economy. Heading the list for the month are eggs, honey and dried prunes. Also in excellent supply are pork and pork products, canned tuna, dry navy, pinto and baby lima beans, raisins, fresh oranges, canned and frozen orange juice and rice.

If you want to see a dream of a patio stop by the Ted Allens at 2301 Jasmine. They made this during spare time. Ted is a graduate in architectural engineering, so he knew just the finishing touches to give the patio and barbecue pit.

Everybody seems to have gone out for potted plants around trees and outdoor living rooms. Here's an idea I picked up from somebody last week, (can't remember just who). Put plants in a container, then set this in a larger pot. Between the two pots pack peat moss to hold moisture—saves lots of watering.

Everybody admired Mrs. H. Mickels (119 Glenmar Ave.) pinkie roses last year. There's a climbing pinkie too, that should be the answer to our climbing pink rose that blooms all summer. Several nurseries have these. They are Flora Bunda's.

February is a busy month in the yard. This is the last month for successful transplanting of evergreens. It's rose planting month and time to fertilize your lawns. If you made an application of complete fertilizer last fall, use nitrogen now. If you failed to feed in the fall, use a complete fertilizer now. Your seed dealer can tell you the amounts of each to use.

Carrie McKenzie is busy widening the driveway at her home on 1505 Fairview avenue, Monroe. Most of us made our driveways too narrow. Several rows of brick, layed flat, flush with the ground save backing off on the lawn. They really give your yard a face lifting too, as much as so replenishing your lipstick about 4:00 p.m. One row of brick placed the same way around your flower beds makes mowing close to the beds easier, holds the shape of the beds and keeps weeds and grass from taking over the border.

Don't forget to plant some dogwoods and red buds. They'll be in bloom soon as a reminder that another year has passed. Jane Earnest and Adrian Gaston are planting dozens along their drive. It's pleasant visiting them on lovely Bayou DeSiard but it will be even nicer when you'll drive through a lane of dogwood blossoms. Don't forget a tulip tree while planting. Serena Lewis makes the most heavenly arangements with the blossoms. But she can take a fruit jar and bitter weeds and do that. We'll watch for the blooms from the tulip tree at Peggy Garnett's and Alda Groves later in the year.

Watch for February demonstrations at the agricultural building. I'll notify you in this column.

Good-bye — See you next Sunday in this same column.

Welcome Branch Book Club Meets With Mrs. E. Lawson

Members Plan Benefit Book Review To Be Held In April At January Meeting

The Welcome Branch Book Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. E. E. Lawson, with Mrs. Fred Hornbearger, president, presiding.

The pledge of allegiance to the flag, and the club collect were given in unison. Mrs. Henry Williams, club pianist, accompanied the group in singing "Song of Louisiana."

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Zell Smith, read the correspondence, the proposed amendments, and distributed the new Louisiana reading list for certificate.

Mrs. F. E. Black, chairman of the library committee, announced that the benefit book review will be April 15, at Hotel Frances. Mrs. Thomas Jett, an outstanding speaker, and reviewer of the Twin Cities, will be the reviewer for the afternoon. The title of the book will be announced later.

A magazine subscription has been given to Carver library. Used magazines have been donated to the Monroe Colored High School. Club members were urged to bring jig saw puzzles to be given to the colored ward at Cooley Sanitorium.

The president appointed the following nominating committee to select officers for the next club year. Mrs. J. D. Petty, chairman, Mrs. A. C. Warner and Mrs. Henson Coon.

Mrs. Henson Coon, the feature speaker of the afternoon, spoke on, The New State of Palestine. She introduced her talk with the quotation, "Redeem Israel, Oh God, from all troubles." — Psalm 25.

Mrs. Coon's references were, Watch of the Morning, by Thomas Sugrue, 1950; and My Father's House, by Meyer Levin.

She said "Watch for the Morning, is a first hand story of the battles told to Thomas Sugrue during many months in Israel by hundreds of those who fought them, from the [illegible] to the newest refugees from Hitler's Europe."

"Mr. Sugrue, a Catholic, reveals his deep understanding of the spirit and culture of the Jews. He became interested in Zionism because the achievement of Palestine may be a pioneer effort in the next social and religious development in man."

"The state of Israel was proclaimed in May, 1948. Hebrew is the language, and schooling is compulsory."

"My Father's House" tells of one of the many immigrants to Israel, and gives an authentic picture of today's Palestine, the Jews and the Arabs, the great cities and the settlements, the Promised Land where even in the harsh climate of the moment hope still survives."

"This is a warm and tender story of a stubborn boy, David, who had one ambition — to find his father. When he was five years old his father left him in Germany and asked him to meet him in Palestine. He roamed, hunted for food and five years later he spent 12 days and nights on an Italian ship to Palestine."

"He lived in different children's villages but immediately ran away from each. He was seeking Jerusalem, and there at a research bureau he received the news that his father, mother, and brother had been put into a gas furnace. David collapsed. He was hospitalized. After his recovery he was contented to live a normal life with his fellow immigrants."

The meeting was adjourned after the singing of "My Louisiana," "Home on the Range," and "A Happy Heart," led by Mrs. J. N. Coon.

Guests and members enjoying this informative and interesting meeting were: Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. Clarence Long, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. N. Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. V. Miss Nan Tillery Is Bride Of Clarence Boatner

A ceremony characterized by simplicity united in marriage Miss Nan Tillery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Tillery and Mr. Clarence Boatner, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Boatner.

The marriage ceremony was performed in the home of Mrs. Helen Howell on Saturday, January 19 at seven o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Leon Simpson, pastor of the Collinston Baptist Church, officiated in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The home was decorated in beautiful simplicity with spring flowers and greenery.

Mrs. Dale Lowrey at the piano rendered a program of prenuptial music, preceding the ceremony.

Miss Jean Kitchens served as the bride's only attendant, and Jimmy Boatner, brother of the groom, served as best man.

The bride was wearing a blue suit with a corsage of pink carnations.

At the close of the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of Mrs. Howell's home. Mrs. Louise Jeter poured tea or coffee, assisted by Betty Wyatt, Barbara Kitchen, and Ella Mae Arrant in serving open-faced sandwiches, cookies and salted nuts to the guests.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The use of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is free to all permanent residents of the parish, who can properly identify themselves. This information may seem trite to many readers of this column, but every day someone calls and asks "How can I get a library card?" The answer is very simple: "Come to the library and register and you can take out books at once." During the month of January 186 new borrowers were registered at the four branches of the library. The Public Library is the only agency of adult education in the parish, yet only about one fourth of the people of the parish take advantage of its resources. Another question that is answered several times each day is "What are the library hours?" They are different for each branch of the library. In Monroe the library opens at 9:30 every day. It is open until 8:00 at night on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday it closes at 5:00. In West Monroe the library opens at 9:00 each day and closes at 7:00 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday it closes at 5:00. The Carver branch opens at 11:30 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and closes at 8:30. On Saturday the hours are 10:00 to 3:00. The bookmobile runs on a regular schedule of ten different routes and repeats each route every two weeks.

During the month of January 400 new books were added to the resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This now gives us a collection of 34,424 books. These books are distributed among the four branches as follows. Monroe, 20,105. West Monroe, 5,230. Bookmobile, 6,994, and Carver, 2,095. More books are kept in the Monroe collection because the main part of the reference collection is housed there and because many of the little used books are kept in the Monroe collection and are loaned to the other branches when a need arises. One reason that the library was able to add 400 books in January was because of the large number of books given as memorial volumes. If you wish to remember a departed friend, call the librarian and inquire about the process. It is very simple and the library needs and appreciates these gifts, because our book budget is not adequate for our needs.

You may be interested to know what type of books made up the 400 new volumes. There were 66 books of adult fiction. There were 80 books of adult non-fiction on a great variety of subjects, ranging from steam plant operation, and modern pulp and paper making to a book telling all the ways to cook oysters. There is a new book on hooked rugs, several books on flower arrangement, a book on water color painting for the beginner, numerous travel books, a history of costume in America and a book on helping the retarded child. These are only a few of the subjects covered in the adult non-fiction collection. Seven reference books were added to the collection. They included the new City Directory of Monroe and West Monroe, the new Cosmopolitan World Atlas, which included the 1950 census figures, volume VII of the interpreter's Bible, a new Bible commentary which is being published one book at a time, and a beautiful volume entitled "Art Treasures of the Louvre."

The board of control of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and the librarian feel very keenly their responsibility to the children of the parish, for they are the citizens of tomorrow. New children's books are always in demand. During the month of January 247 new children's books were added. Of this number 109 were fiction and 138 were non-fiction. Children's books of non-fiction today are so lovely that children prefer them to fiction. One of the most popular groups of books among children from the fourth grade on up is "The Childhood of Famous American Series." This set of books is published by Bobbs-Merrill and Company. Each story is written by a different author and deals with the life of famous Americans, when they were children. The latest two titles in the series are "James Fenimore Cooper, Leatherstocking Boy," by Gertrude Hecker Winders, and "Juliette Low, Girl Scout," by Helen Boyd Higgins. Another popular series for boys and girls a little older is "The Landmark Books." These books deal with important events in the history of the United States, some of them are biographies and others are pure history. New titles in this series are "The Monitor and the Merrimac," by Fletcher Pratt, "The story of the U. S. Marines," by George Pinney Hunt, "Custer's Last Stand," by Quentin Reynolds, "The Santa Fe Trail," by Samuel Hopkins Adams and "The Pirate Lafitte," by Robert Tallant. Another important addition to the juvenile collection are three complete sets of the books by Joesph A. Altsheler, which have been out of print for some time, but are now available. One set is called "The Young Trailer Series" and is concerned with life in the woods, Indian fighting, etc. The other set is called "The Civil War Series" and takes two southern boys all the way through the Civil war.

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is supported by the taxpayers of the parish for the benefit of the people of the parish. It is your library. The staff is eager to serve you in any way. Bring your problems to the library and we will try to help you solve them. If a book can help, we can find it for you.

Singapore —(AP)— Bali, it seems, has something more to offer the world than beautiful women.

Malaya's federal government has announced the importation of 10 head of Balinese cattle—two bulls and eight heifers. It says the animals are suited for either beef or draught purposes.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The use of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is free to all permanent residents of the parish, who can properly identify themselves. This information may seem trite to many readers of this column, but every day someone calls and asks "How can I get a library card?" The answer is very simple: "Come to the library and register and you can take out books at once." During the month of January 186 new borrowers were registered at the four branches of the library. The Public Library is the only agency of adult education in the parish, yet only about one fourth of the people of the parish take advantage of its resources. Another question that is answered several times each day is "What are the library hours?" They are different for each branch of the library. In Monroe the library opens at 9:30 every day. It is open until 8:00 at night on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday it closes at 5:00. In West Monroe the library opens at 9:00 each day and closes at 7:00 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday it closes at 5:00. The Carver branch opens at 11:30 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and closes at 6:30. On Saturday the hours are 10:00 to 3:00. The bookmobile runs on a regular schedule of ten different routes and repeats each route every two weeks.

During the month of January 400 new books were added to the resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This now gives us a collection of 34,424 books. These books are distributed among the four branches as follows. Monroe, 20,105, West Monroe, 5,230, Bookmobile, 6,994, and Carver, 2,095. More books are kept in the Monroe collection because the main part of the reference collection is housed there and because many of the little used books are kept in the Monroe collection and are loaned to the other branches when a need arises. One reason that the library was able to add 400 books in January was because of the large number of books given as memorial volumes. If you wish to remember a departed friend, call the librarian and inquire about the process. It is very simple and the library needs and appreciates these gifts, because our book budget is not adequate for our needs.

You may be interested to know what type of books made up the 400 new volumes. There were 66 books of adult fiction. There were 80 books of adult non-fiction on a great variety of subjects, ranging from steam plant operation, and modern pulp and paper making to a book telling all the ways to cook oysters. There is a new book on hooked rugs, several books on flower arrangement, a book on water color painting for the beginner, numerous travel books, a history of costume in America and a book on helping the retarded child. These are only a few of the subjects covered in the adult non-fiction collection. Seven reference books were added to the collection. They included the new City Directory of Monroe and West Monroe, the new Cosmopolitan World Atlas, which included the 1950 census figures, volume VII of the interpreter's Bible, a new Bible commentary which is being published one book at a time, and a beautiful volume entitled "Art Treasures of the Louvre."

The board of control of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and the librarian feel very keenly their responsibility to the children of the parish, for they are the citizens of tomorrow. New children's books are always in demand. During the month of January 247 new children's books were added. Of this number 109 were fiction and 138 were non-fiction. Children's books of non-fiction today are so lovely that children prefer them to fiction. One of the most popular groups of books among children from the fourth grade on up is "The Childhood of Famous American Series." This set of books is published by Bobbs-Merrill and Company. Each story is written by a different author and deals with the life of famous Americans, when they were children. The latest two titles in the series are "James Fenimore Cooper, Leatherstocking Boy," by Gertrude Hecker Winders, and "Juliette Low, Girl Scout," by Helen Boyd Higgins. Another popular series for boys and girls a little older is "The Landmark Books." These books deal with important events in the history of the United States, some of them are biographies and others are pure history. New titles in this series are "The Monitor and the Merrimac," by Fletcher Pratt, "The story of the U. S. Marines," by George Pinney Hunt, "Custer's Last Stand," by Quentin Reynolds, "The Santa Fe Trail," by Samuel Hopkins Adams and "The Pirate Lafitte," by Robert Tallant. Another important addition to the juvenile collection are three complete sets of the books by Joesph A. Altsheler, which have been out of print for some time, but are now available. One set is called "The Young Trailer Series" and is concerned with life in the woods, Indian fighting, etc. The other set is called "The Civil War Series" and takes two southern boys all the way through the Civil war.

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is supported by the taxpayers of the parish for the benefit of the people of the parish. It is your library. The staff is eager to serve you in any way. Bring your problems to the library and we will try to help you solve them. If a book can help, we can find it for you.

CATTLE FROM BALI

Singapore —(AP)— Bali, it seems, has something more to offer the world than beautiful women.

Malaya's federal government has announced the importation of 10 head of Balinese cattle—two bulls and eight heifers. It says the animals are suited for either beef or draught purposes.

Larceny Lou Forces Rivals Into Mistakes

By Oswald Jacoby

Some of Larceny Lou's stunts are very simple. He just makes it easy for the opponents to go wrong.

For example, when West opened the four of spades in the hand shown today, Lou just put up dummy's jack. This was a silly play, theoretically speaking, for dummy's pack. This was a silly play, ten in Lou's own hand.

As a practical matter, however, the play of the jack of spades from dummy induced East to play his queen. Now Lou had two spade tricks instead of only one.

After winning the first trick with the king of spades, South led a club to dummy's queen. East won with the ace and returned a spade. The defenders could take two spades and two clubs, but by that time South had three clubs, three hearts, two spades, and a diamond.

If East had played a low spade instead of the queen at the first trick, Lou would have been set. East wins the first round of clubs, later, and returns a low spade.

This enables West to capture the king of spades with the ace. West continues spades, and East wins with the queen. This gives the defenders three spade tricks and enables them to defeat the contract.

If Lou had played a low spade from dummy at the first trick, East might have been inspired to play the eight instead of the queen. Since Lou does not enjoy leaving such things to chance, he played the jack of spades from the dummy to make sure that East made the all-important mistake.

Q—The bidding has been: South, West, North, East, 1 Heart, Pass, 1 Spade, 2 Clubs, ?.

You, South, hold: Spades Q-7-5-2, Hearts A-K-9-5-2, Diamonds A-Q-8, Club 4. What do you do?

A—Bid three spades. This should be reasonably safe even if your partner has some such minimum holding as five spades to a king-jack and nothing else. If he has slightly greater strength, your jump raise will spur him on to game and there will be a good play for that game.

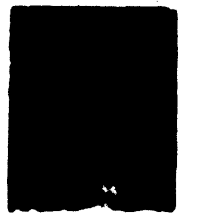
DOROTHY DIX

Sleep Is Essential

Working Girls Should Avoid Late Hours On Week Nights

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two daughters, aged 19 and 24. I think three nights a week is enough for dating. They both work, and it's too hard for them to get up in the morning. I have asked them to bring their friends here for an evening, then have them leave early. Am I wrong? I want to be fair about this.

M. A. H.



DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: You are entirely right in your assumption that your daughters need more sleep, but how you can convince them of the fact is another problem. A steady routine of going out every night, coming in late, getting insufficient sleep, is bound to take its toll in haggard looks, sluggish minds and bad dispositions.

DEAR MISS DIX: For thirty-five years my husband and I were happily married. Three years ago he met a girl, young enough to be his daughter, with whom he spent a great deal of time. A year ago he had a serious operation, is now chronically ill and probably will never be much better. I am so unhappy because I keep thinking of this girl and how she made a fool of him. He almost lost his business because of her, but I kept it going for him.

R. S.

ANSWER: You must stop brooding over something that is definitely in the past. If every wife was as unforgiving over a misstep as you, the world would be much more strewn with broken marriages than it is now. Your husband, I am sure, regrets his folly, and you can do no less than forgive it.

AGE DIFFERENCE UNIMPORTANT

DEAR MISS DIX: For nine months I have been dating a boy 22 years old—three years my junior. I am a nurse, and he recently joined the Army. Do you think we could be happily married?

L. T.

ANSWER: This difference is not great enough to interfere with a happy marriage. The Army has a maturing influence on men, anyway, so you'll find him soon up to you in emotional—if not calendar—years.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman in my 60's, living with three single sons in their 30's. One son is sick, and unable to work. Another is planning to marry and wants me to live with him. I would rather not live with him and my daughter-in-law.

NORINE L.

ANSWER: If you can possibly avoid it, I agree that it is not wise to live with a newly married couple. Why not continue to maintain a home for your other two sons who certainly need you, especially the ailing one?

JACOBY CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Form Canasta Cub For Real Fun

"We are forming a Canasta Club, with about 12 to 15 members meeting once a week. What do you suggest, as a method of playing progressive Canasta?"

Your first problem is to settle which pairs play together as partners at any particular session. If the same people come each week, you can prepare a list of partnerships to make sure they change each time. This is more fun than having people play with the same partners each time.

If the players sometimes show up and sometimes stay away, which is the usual case, you can't follow a prepared list. The simplest method is to shuffle a single deck of cards and deal out one card to each player. The two highest cards form one partnership; the next two form another partnership; and so on, down the list.

Let's suppose you end up with three tables of Canasta. It doesn't matter how tables are arranged, because with only six pairs you can work it so that each pair plays against each of the other five pairs.

Give each pair a number, from one to six. At the first table, pair six plays against pair one, then against pair two, then against pair three, and so on. At the other two tables, the arrangement for the five rounds is:

Round 1:	2 vs 5	3 vs 4
Round 2:	3 vs 1	4 vs 5
Round 3:	4 vs 2	5 vs 1
Round 4;	5 vs 3	1 vs 2
Round 5:	1 vs 4	2 vs 3

A round should last about thirty minutes, so that the whole season takes somewhat more than two and a half hours. Everybody plays as many hands as they have time for in the thirty minutes.

The director (or hostess) should call time after twenty - eight minutes, allowing everybody just one more play— after which the hand is ended even though nobody has melded out.

Everybody keeps a running score for each round, and a prize is awarded to the high pair at the end of the session. Buy nice, but inexpensive prizes and everybody will be happy.

Your first problem is to settle which pairs play together as partners at any particular session. If the same people come each week, you can prepare a list of partnerships to make sure they change each time. This is more fun than having people play with the same partners each time.

If the players sometimes show up and sometimes stay away, which is the usual case, you can't follow a prepared list. The simplest method is to shuffle a single deck of cards and deal out one card to each player. The two highest cards form one partnership; the next two form another partnership; and so on, down the list.

Let's suppose you end up with three tables of Canasta. It doesn't matter how tables are arranged, because with only six pairs you can work it so that each pair plays against each of the other five pairs.

Give each pair a number, from one to six. At the first table, pair six plays against pair one, then against pair two, then against pair three, and so on. At the other two tables, the arrangement for the five rounds is:

Round 1:	2 vs 5	3 vs 4
Round 2:	3 vs 1	4 vs 5
Round 3:	4 vs 2	5 vs 1
Round 4;	5 vs 3	1 vs 2
Round 5:	1 vs 4	2 vs 3

A round should last about thirty minutes, so that the whole sesson takes somewhat more than two and a half hours. Everybody plays as many hands as they have time for in the thirty minutes.

The director (or hostess) should call time after twenty - eight minutes, allowing everybody just one more play— afte which the hand is ended even though nobody has melded out.

Everybody keeps a running score for each round, and a prize is awarded to the high pair at the end of the session. Buy nice, but inexpensive prizes and everybody will be happy.

'I'll See You In My Dreams' Will Open At Paramount

Gus Kahn, who ranks with George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, and Cole Porter as one of the great popular music writers, joins these fabulous tunesmiths with a film tribute to his own career. Now it is Warner Bros. again who are bringing "I'll See You in My Dreams" to the Paramount Theatre on Wednesday.

Starring Danny Thomas as the man who penned 800 tunes during an era of Ziegfeld musicals, gay cabarets and the Broadway of 25 years ago — all excellent material for motion picture treatment — the film also has the popular Doris Day as Gus Kahn's wife and partner, Frank Lovejoy as his collaborator and Patrice Wymore as a musical comedy star.

The film traces Kahn's life from the day he walks into a music lyrics, to get only as far as the secretary who promptly adds the publishing house with a set of melody herself. The song, "I Wish I Had a Girl," is a smash, and it's still on the list of all-time big sellers. Played by Doris Day, this is the girl he marries and Gus Kahn goes on to reach the heights of American songwriting with the score of the biggest Ziegfeld production of the day.

A partial list of Gus Kahn tunes includes "Memories," "Carolina in the Morning," "My Buddy," "Making Whoopee," and "Yes Sir, That's My Baby."

PASTOR MAKES VIOLINS

Washington —(AP)— A pastor, unable to afford a violin that matched his young daughter's talent, made his own and thereby a hobby was born.

The Rev. Clarence R. Ferguson, a Baptish minister here, started to read up on violins about the time he gave his 7-year-old daughter, Mary Alice, a halfsized violin. She made her first public appearance four months later. In four years she won a five-state contest.

The pastor made his first violin in 1940 from scraps from a lumber yard. It was on this violin his daughter, at 15, played a Bach concerto with a symphony orchestra.

Mr. Fergucon's violins are now made of imported wood in the Stradivarius pattern. It takes him two weeks of steady work to make a violin, exclusive of the finish. He is now working on his eighth instrument.

'My Favorite Spy' Opens Friday At Tem Theater

"My Favorite Spy," Bob Hope's latest comedy, will open Friday at the Tem Theatre. This Paramount laugh epic teams Bob with sumptuous Hedy Lamarr in a story about a burlesque comic whose resemblance to the mastermind of an international spy ring plunges him into a series of riotous escapades. Bob plays both the spy and the burlesquer, while Hedy appears as an adventuresome charmer up to her lovely ears in romance and intrigue in exotic Tangier.

"My Favorite Spy" was directed by Norman Z. McLeod, who previously staged "The Paleface," sensational comedy starring Hope and Jane Russell. Paul Jones, who turned out three of the famous "Road" pictures, produced. A top flight supporting cast is headed by Francis L. Sullivan, Arnold Moss, Tonio Selwart and Iris Adrian.

Songs warbled by Bob and Hedy in the picture's more placid moments include "Just A Moment More," crafted by the Academy Award winning team of Jay Livingston and Ray Evans, and "I Wind Up Taking A Fall," written by Johnny Mercer and Robert Emmett Dolan.

"My Favorite Spy" marks the twenty-ninth picture that Hope has completed in thirteen years. He last appeared in Paramount's "The Lemon Drop Kid," a Damon Runyon fable in which he starred with Marilyn Maxwell.

Hedy Lamarr plays her first slap-stick role in this uproarious tale of a burlesque buffoon who tries his hand at counter espionage. Famed fashion designer Edith Head styled an eye-filling wardrobe for Hedy's assignment as a volcanic man trap. The ensemble ranges from slinky negligees to sumptuous gowns.

Others in the cast include actor-wrestler Mike Mazurki, who interrupted a grunt - and - groan exhibition to play the spy ring's muscle man, and old-time comedians Chester Conklin, Hank Mann and Billy Engle, who play burlesquers.

'Fixed Bayonets' Opens Today At Joy Theater

"Fixed Bayonets!," Twentieth Century - Fox's heroic story of a rear - guard action in Korea, featuring Richard Basehart, Gene Evans and Michael O'Shea, will open today at the Joy Theatre.

Written and directed by Samuel Fuller of "Steel Helmet" fame, "Fixed Bayonets!" re-creates a great episode of contemporary history to tell the story of a platoon of 48 men left behind at a Korean pass to cover the retreat of their main division from a snowbound position in the mountains. The narrative revolves around a young corporal, a man who considers himself unfit to lead fighting men because he lacks the instinct to kill. One by one, the lieutenant and two sergeants who command the abandoned platoon lose their lives, until the corporal is faced with the necessity of proving himself as a soldier and leader of his men.

As the sensitive, frightened GI who searches for courage on the bleak, cold Korean mountainside, Fuller and Producer Jules Buck selected talented Richard Basehart, the heralded star of such important films as the forthcoming "Decision Before Dawn" and "Fourteen Hours."

For the hard-boiled World War II retread, Fuller required the services of rugged Gene Evans, the star of "Steel Helmet" who only a year ago was playing small supporting roles for $75 a week.

RICHARD BASEHART

Michael O'Shea, long a comeback favorite, reverts to a serious role as the sober, battle - weary, non - com who makes the supreme sacrifice in an attempt to stall the Communist advance.

Fuller and Buck fought their "Korean War" on a $143.000 exterior set built inside a sound stage. They set off some 3,000 explosions that ranged from "squibs" containing a handful of powder to "rockets" that held two pounds of dynamite. Some of the blasts were so powerful that they cracked and bulged the set and in the end caused a total of 19 minor casualties among the acting personnel.

His screenplay suggested by last winter's dramatic retreat of the United Nations forces across North Korea, one of the most dramatic events in history, Fuller ordered the set built before he began any writing. Once the set was constructed he went over the area and wrote the story to fit the surroundings, as if he was commanding such a rear - guard platoon himself.

'The Wild Blue Yonder' Opens Today At Paramount

Coming to the screen with smashing impact, Republic's "The Wild Blue Yonder" opening today at the Paramount Theatre to unfold, for the first time on film, the spectacular saga of the B-29 Super-fortresses and their gallant role in World War II.

The makers of "Sands of Iwo Jima" have come up with another top service epic which presents an exciting composite of tense realism, highly entertaining romance, gripping suspense and pictorial spectacle. It's a stirring tale of a giant war bird which emerged suddenly from its egg shell and went into battle before its wings were dry.

Top Cast

A stalwart cast of film names has been assembled for the production which stars Wendell Corey, Vera Ralston, Forrest Tucker and Phil Harris, with Walter Brennan and Ruth Donnelly. Each presents individually strong characterizations and yesterday's audience lived with these heroic B-29 crews, shared their laughs, tragedies and thrills from the Smokey Hill training base at Salinas, Kan., to the skyscraping Himalayas forming the barrier between India and China and onward to the far flung island outposts of Saipan and Tinian.

"The Wild Blue Yonder" traces the colorful history of World War II's greatest bird of battle from its inception, which was once labeled a preposterous air force gamble, to the devastating long range bombing runs on Japan, in a moving story of courage, action and fortitude.

Thrilling Story

Corey and Tucker portray rugged B-29 commanders, men of iron nerve and quick wit. These are pilots who will at once gamble for high stakes in a thrilling race above the clouds halfway across the world, or at the drop of a hat volunteer for an almost certain death low-level bombing run on Japan's war industry. In between, it's a continuous battle for the affections of glamorous nurse Vera Ralston.

Movie-goers will share a million air miles with gunner Phil Harris and Walter Brennan, in the role of an force general. They'll get to know intimately the well etched crew member characterizations portrayed by Harry Carey, Jr., Richard Erdman, William Ching, Wally Cassell, Peter Koe and the rest of the bantering crew who fly to an unknown fate in the wild blue yonder.

Republic has dramatically presented the story of the big Superfortresses and how they aided in ringing down the curtain on a giant air war in the far east. Miss Ralston is outstanding as a nurse on the field of battle as is Ruth Donnelly portraying a stern, but soft-hearted veteran of many years in the service.

"The Wild Blue Yonder" has been skillfully directed by Allan Dwan, who has developed peak action, combined with poignant human drama and eyefilling spectacle from the gripping story by Richard Tregaskis, former INS correspondent and author of "Guadalcanal Diary."

PASTOR MAKES VIOLINS

Washington —(AP)— A pastor, unable to afford a violin that matched his young daughter's talent, made his own and thereby a hobby was born.

The Rev. Clarence R. Ferguson, a Baptish minister here, started to read up on violins about the time he gave his 7-year-old daughter, Mary Alice, a halfsized violin. She made her first public appearance four months later. In four years she won a five-state contest.

The pastor made his first violin in 1940 from scraps from a lumber yard. It was on this violin his daughter, at 15, played a Bach concerto with a symphony orchestra.

Mr. Fergucon's violins are now made of imported wood in the Stradivarius pattern. It takes him two weeks of steady work to make a violin, exclusive of the finish. He is now working on his eighth instrument.

'My Favorite Spy' Opens Friday At Tem Theater

"My Favorite Spy," Bob Hope's latest comedy, will open Friday at the Tem Theatre. This Paramount laugh epic teams Bob with sumptuous Hedy Lamarr in a story about a burlesque comic whose resemblance to the mastermind of an international spy ring plunges him into a series of riotous escapades. Bob plays both the spy and the burlesquer, while Hedy appears as an adventuresome charmer up to her lovely ears in romance and intrigue in exotic Tangier.

"My Favorite Spy" was directed by Norman Z. McLeod, who previously staged "The Paleface," sensational comedy starring Hope and Jane Russell. Paul Jones, who turned out three of the famous "Road" pictures, produced. A top flight supporting cast is headed by Francis L. Sullivan, Arnold Moss, Tonio Selwart and Iris Adrian.

Songs warbled by Bob and Hedy in the picture's more placid moments include "Just A Moment More," crafted by the Academy Award winning team of Jay Livingston and Ray Evans, and "I Wind Up Taking A Fall," written by Johnny Mercer and Robert Emmett Dolan.

"My Favorite Spy" marks the twenty-ninth picture that Hope has completed in thirteen years. He last appeared in Paramount's "The Lemon Drop Kid," a Damon Runyon fable in which he starred with Marilyn Maxwell.

Hedy Lamarr plays her first slap-stick role in this uproarious tale of a burlesque buffoon who tries his hand at counter espionage. Famed fashion designer Edith Head styled an eye-filling wardrobe for Hedy's assignment as a volcanic man trap. The ensemble ranges from slinky negligees to sumptuous gowns.

Others in the cast include actor-wrestler Mike Mazurki, who interrupted a grunt - and - groan exhibition to play the spy ring's muscle man, and old-time comedians Chester Conklin, Hank Mann and Billy Engle, who play burlesquers.

'Fixed Bayonets' Opens Today At Joy Theater

"Fixed Bayonets!," Twentieth Century - Fox's heroic story of a rear - guard action in Korea, featuring Richard Basehart, Gene Evans and Michael O'Shea, will open today at the Joy Theatre.

Written and directed by Samuel Fuller of "Steel Helmet" fame, "Fixed Bayonets!" re-creates a great episode of contemporary history to tell the story of a platoon of 48 men left behind at a Korean pass to cover the retreat of their main division from a snowbound position in the mountains. The narrative revolves around a young corporal, a man who considers himself unfit to lead fighting men because he lacks the instinct to kill. One by one, the lieutenant and two sergeants who command the abandoned platoon lose their lives, until the corporal is faced with the necessity of proving himself as a soldier and leader of his men.

As the sensitive, frightened GI who searches for courage on the bleak, cold Korean mountainside, Fuller and Producer Jules Buck selected talented Richard Basehart, the heralded star of such important films as the forthcoming "Decision Before Dawn" and "Fourteen Hours."

RICHARD BASEHART

For the hard-boiled World War II retread, Fuller required the services of rugged Gene Evans, the star of "Steel Helmet" who only a year ago was playing small supporting roles for $75 a week.

Michael O'Shea, long a comeback favorite, reverts to a serious role as the sober, battle - weary, non - com who makes the supreme sacrifice in an attempt to stall the Communist advance.

Fuller and Buck fought their "Korean War" on a $143,000 exterior set built inside a sound stage. They set off some 3,000 explosions that ranged from "squibs" containing a handful of powder to "rockets" that held two pounds of dynamite. Some of the blasts were so powerful that they cracked and bulged the set and in the end caused a total of 19 minor casualties among the acting personnel.

His screenplay suggested by last winter's dramatic retreat of the United Nations forces across North Korea, one of the most dramatic events in history, Fuller ordered the set built before he began any writing. Once the set was constructed he went over the area and wrote the story to fit the surroundings, as if he was commanding such a rear - guard platoon himself.

'The Wild Blue Yonder' Opens Today At Paramount

Coming to the screen with smashing impact, Republic's "The Wild Blue Yonder" opening today at the Paramount Theatre to unfold, for the first time on film, the spectacular saga of the B-29 Super-fortresses and their gallant role in World War II.

The makers of "Sands of Iwo Jima" have come up with another top service epic which presents an exciting composite of tense realism, highly entertaining romance, gripping suspense and pictorial spectacle. It's a stirring tale of a giant war bird which emerged suddenly from its egg shell and went into battle before its wings were dry.

Top Cast

A stalwart cast of film names has been assembled for the production which stars Wendell Corey, Vera Ralston, Forrest Tucker and Phil Harris, with Walter Brennan and Ruth Donnelly. Each presents individually strong characterizations and yesterday's audience lived with these heroic B-29 crews, shared their laughs, tragedies and thrills from the Smokey Hill training base at Salinas, Kan., to the skyscraping Himalayas forming the barrier between India and China and onward to the far flung island outposts of Saipan and Tinian.

"The Wild Blue Yonder" traces the colorful history of World War II's greatest bird of battle from its inception, which was once labeled a preposterous air force gamble, to the devastating long range bombing runs on Japan, in a moving story of courage, action and fortitude.

Thrilling Story

Corey and Tucker portray rugged B-29 commanders, men of iron nerve and quick wit. These are pilots who will at once gamble for high stakes in a thrilling race above the clouds halfway across the world, or at the drop of a hat volunteer for an almost certain death low-level bombing run on Japan's war industry. In between, it's a continuous battle for the affections of glamorous nurse Vera Ralston.

Movie-goers will share a million air miles with gunner Phil Harris and Walter Brennan, in the role of an force general. They'll get to know intimately the well etched crew member characterizations portrayed by Harry Carey, Jr., Richard Erdman, William Ching, Wally Cassell, Peter Koe and the rest of the bantering crew who fly to an unknown fate in the wild blue yonder.

Republic has dramatically presented the story of the big Superfortresses and how they aided in ringing down the curtain on a giant air war in the far east. Miss Ralston is outstanding as a nurse on the field of battle as is Ruth Donnelly portraying a stern, but soft-hearted veteran of many years in the service.

"The Wild Blue Yonder" has been skillfully directed by Allan Dwan, who has developed peak action, combined with poignant human drama and eyefilling spectacle from the gripping story by Richard Tregaskis, former INS correspondent and author of "Guadalcanal Diary."

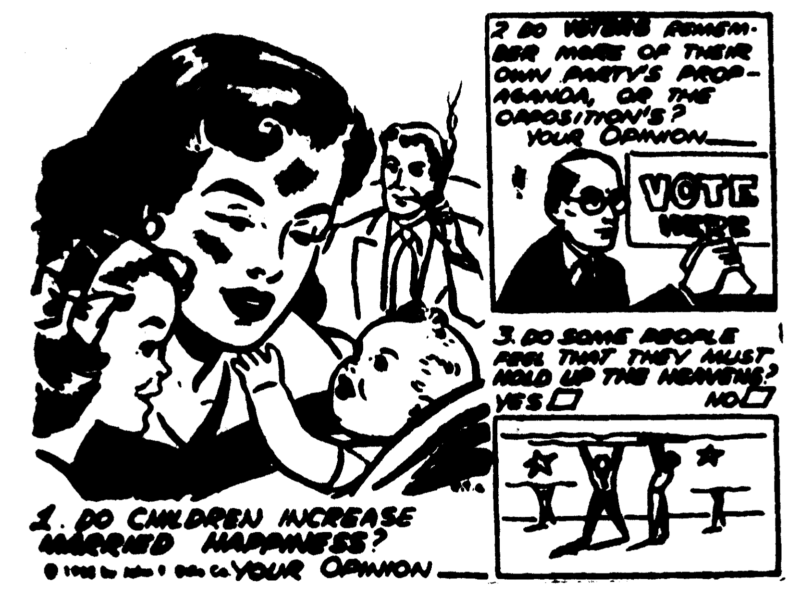
LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.



1. DO CHILDREN INCREASE MARRIED HAPPINESS?
YOUR OPINION
2. DO VOTERS REMEMBER MORE OF THEIR OWN PARTY'S PROPAGANDA, OR THE OPPOSITION'S? YOUR OPINION
VOTE HERE
3. DO SOME PEOPLE FEEL THAT THEY MUST HOLD UP THE HEAVENS? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Two large studies indicate that in about half the cases they increase happiness, in the other half they decrease it. However, two psychologists, in separate studies, found that the desire for children is the solution. Children greatly increase the happiness of couples who strongly want them and decrease the happiness of those who don't.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. More of their own, unless they possess the memory of a Macaulay, who said he remembered everything he ever saw, read or heard. (Gosh, wouldn't that be handy?) Experiments show that radicals remember more of their own literature than that of conservatives, and vice - versa. The arguments link up with your previous store of knowledge, specially your beliefs and prejudices. Psychologists call this "ego - involvement." Two Princeton University psychologists show that our egos thus interfere with clear thinking.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes. I've read that there's a bird in the South Seas that believes it must carry the heavens on its back all day. It sleeps on its back feet up, to keep the stars from falling down. Many worriers and neurotics have essentially the same psychology. They feel that if they let go of their worries they will fall out of the universe. My booklet, "How To Manage Your Feelings and Emotions," has helped some to loosen their grip a bit. Sent at cost, 15c, (coin only), plus self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Want To Learn Self-Control?

How To Manage Your Feelings and Emotions is Dr. Wiggam's new illustrated booklet.

It describes clearly what happens to both your mind and body when your feelings and emotions conquer you and it also fully explains what you can do about it — how you can master your feelings and gain self-confidence.

This remarkable booklet is yours for 15c (in coin only). Address Dr. A. E. Wiggam care of this newspaper. Include a stamped (3c) self-addressed return envelope.

LA. WELL KNOWN FOR YAMS RAISED

Not Largest Farm Industry But Ranks As One That Is Best Known

The sweet potato crop is far from being Louisiana's largest agricultural industry, but it is certainly its best known.

That is the result of a concentrated program of national advertising, publicity and merchandising which has been carried on for the past six years by the industry through the Louisiana sweet potato advertising and development commission and the commission's predecessor, the Louisiana sweet potato advertising agency.

Perhaps the most tangible effect of this program was the extraordinarily rapid movement of yams this year at a rate of return favorable to the growers. November just past marked the first time that more than a million bushels of yams were shipped out of Louisiana within a single month.

This record movement is just one more in a series of achievements the Louisiana sweet potato industry has scored as a result of its national promotional campaign.

Another is the record made in Chicago during the 1950-51 season when of 1287 cars of sweet potatoes shipped to Chicago, 1,068 originated in Louisiana.

When the New York Times carried a story about Louisiana yams in October, more than 5,000 people wrote in requesting recipe booklets.

R. V. Whitting, editor of the Packer, a nationally distributed newspaper devoted to the wholesale fresh produce and vegetable industry, knows the wholesale produce field probably better than any person in America. He has had occasion to observe the marketing methods of all produce industries and he feels that Louisiana's sweet potato set-up is the best. Speaking at the shippers and receivers dinner during the 1951 Yambilee, Mr. Whitting praised the Louisiana sweet potato advertising and development program in glowing terms.

"Your program is even more perfect than that of the Idaho Irish potato people," he said.

"You have developed your product to a high degree of perfection — and then you have told the world about it. I cannot see a single flaw in your method.

"Don't relax," he said. "Don't weaken the chain. If anything seek to strengthen it."

5TH GRADE HAS P.-T. A. PROGRAM

Square Dance, Piano Selections Feature Crosley Meeting

The January meeting of the Crosley Parent - Teacher Association was highlighted by a program by the fifth grade pupils of Mrs. P. L. Crowell and Mrs. Avis Armstrong. Sandy Lawn, talented piano student, delighted the group with two piano selections. Melba Jean Beasley recited "The Story of Orphan Annie." A colorful square dance, by pupils of Mrs. Armstrong's room, concluded the enjoyable program.

Mrs. Johnny Painich, president, presided during the business session at which time the beautiful baby grand piano purchased by the P.-T. A., was on the stage for all members to see and enjoy.

Mrs. Painich appointed a nominating committee composed of Mrs. Herbert Young, chairman, Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth, and Mrs. P. L. Crowell.

The welfare chairman, Mrs. Young, announced four children had been clothed in new clothing.

Founders Day will be observed at the February meeting, states Mrs. B. F. Jackson, chairman. The members were reminded to bring their Founders Day donations to this meeting. This money is used to strengthen and extend the Parent-Teachers movement.

An important date to remember is the Crosley P.-T. A. Mardi Gras parade and program to be in February, states Mrs. Painich.

Mrs. P. L. Crowell's room received the award for the most parents present. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Jack Beasley.

Inflammable Sweaters Will Be On Display

Fire Chief H. L. Hales said Saturday for anyone interested in seeing sweaters, which have been reported throughtout the nation as being inflammable, to come to the central fire station.

Recently police throughout the country confiscated many sweaters, which had been sold by traveling salesmen.

The sweaters are made from material which will ignite and burn in less than 45 seconds. Many persons wearing the sweaters were injured severely.

The box holding the clothing articles reads "Camel Sportswear." It further stated that they are town and country and hand tailored.

A SERGEANT'S RECOVERY

Long Beach, Calif. —(AP)— Army Sgt. Roger E. Haag, 21, believes he owes his life to a Bible, five pints of blood plasma and a tape recording.

Haag was wounded in the chest while attacking a Communist-held ridge in Korea. A Bible he had in his breast pocket turned much of the shrapnel from his heart and kept his severe wounds from being fatal.

1. DO CHILDREN INCREASE MARRIED HAPPINESS?

R.T.C.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Two large studies indicate that in about half the cases they increase happiness, in the other half they decrease it. However, two psychologists, in separate studies, found that the desire for children is the solution. Children greatly increase the happiness of couples who strongly want them and decrease the happiness of those who don't.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. More of their own, unless they possess the memory of a Macaulay, who said he remembered everything he ever saw, read or heard. (Gosh, wouldn't that be handy?) Experiments show that radicals remember more of their own literature than that of conservatives, and vice - versa. The arguments link up with your previous store of knowledge, specially your beliefs and prejudices. Psychologists call this "ego - involvement." Two Princeton University psychologists show that our egos thus interfere with clear thinking.

Ansewer To Question No. 3

3. Yes. I've read that there's a bird in the South Seas that believes it must carry the heavens on its back all day. It sleeps on its back feet up, to keep the stars from falling down. Many worriers and neurotics have essentially the same psychology. They feel that if they let go of their worries they will fall out of the universe. My booklet, "How To Manage Your Feelings and Emotions," has helped some to loosen their grip a bit. Sent at cost, 15c, (coin only), plus self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Want To Learn Self-Control?

How To Manage Your Feelings and Emotions is Dr. Wiggam's new illustrated booklet.

It describes clearly what happens to both your mind and body when your feelings and emotions conquer you and it also fully explains what you can do about it — how you can master your feelings and gain self-confidence.

LA. WELL KNOWN FOR YAMS RAISED

Not Largest Farm Industry But Ranks As One That Is Best Known

The sweet potato crop is far from being Louisiana's largest agricultural industry, but it is certainly its best known.

That is the result of a concentrated program of national advertising, publicity and merchandising which has been carried on for the past six years by the industry through the Louisiana sweet potato advertising and development commission and the commission's predecessor, the Louisiana sweet potato advertising agency.

Perhaps the most tangible effect of this program was the extraordinarily rapid movement of yams this year at a rate of return favorable to the growers. November just past marked the first time that more than a million bushels of yams were shipped out of Louisiana within a single month.

This record movement is just one more in a series of achievements the Louisiana sweet potato industry has scored as a result of its national promotional campaign.

Another is the record made in Chicago during the 1950-51 season when of 1337 cars of sweet potatoes shipped to Chicago, 1,068 originated in Louisiana.

When the New York Times carried a story about Louisiana yams in October, more than 5,000 people wrote in requesting recipe booklets.

R. V. Whiting, editor of the Packer, a nationally distributed newspaper devoted to the wholesale fresh produce and vegetable industry, knows the wholesale produce field probably better than any person in America. He has had occasion to observe the marketing methods of all produce industries and he feels that Louisiana's sweet potato set-up is the best. Speaking at the shippers and receivers dinner during the 1951 Yambilee, Mr. Whiting praised the Louisiana sweet potato advertising and development program in glowing terms.

"Your program is even more perfect than that of the Idaho Irish potato people," he said.

"You have developed your product to a high degree of perfection — and then you have told the world about it. I cannot see a single flaw in your method.

"Don't relax," he said. "Don't weaken the chain. If anything seek to strengthen it."

5TH GRADE HAS P.-T. A. PROGRAM

Square Dance, Piano Selections Feature Crosley Meeting

The January meeting of the Crosley Parent - Teacher Association was highlighted by a program by the fifth grade pupils of Mrs. P. L. Crowell and Mrs. Avis Armstrong. Sandy Lawn, talented piano student, delighted the group with two piano selections. Melba Jean Beasley recited "The Story of Orphan Annie." A colorful square dance, by pupils of Mrs. Armstrong's room, concluded the enjoyable program.

Mrs. Johnny Painich, president, presided during the business session at which time the beautiful baby grand piano purchased by the P.-T. A., was on the stage for all members to see and enjoy.

Mrs. Painich appointed a nominating committee composed of Mrs. Herbert Young, chairman, Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth, and Mrs. P. L. Crowell.

The welfare chairman, Mrs. Young, announced four children had been clothed in new clothing.

Founders Day will be observed at the February meeting, states Mrs. B. F. Jackson, chairman. The members were reminded to bring their Founders Day donations to this meeting. This money is used to strengthen and extend the Parent-Teachers movement.

An important date to remember is the Crosley P.-T. A. Mardi Gras parade and program to be in February, states Mrs. Painich.

Mrs. P. L. Crowell's room received the award for the most parents present. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Jack Beasley.

Inflammable Sweaters Will Be On Display

Fire Chief H. L. Hales said Saturday for anyone interested in seeing sweaters, which have been reported throughtout the nation as being inflammable, to come to the central fire station.

Recently police throughout the country confiscated many sweaters, which had been sold by traveling salesmen.

The sweaters are made from material which will ignite and burn in less than 45 seconds. Many persons wearing the sweaters were injured severly.

The box holding the clothing articles reads "Camel Sportswear." It further stated that they are town and country and hand tailored.

A SERGEANT'S RECOVERY

Long Beach, Calif. —(AP)— Army Sgt. Roger E. Haag, 21, believes he owes his life to a Bible, five pints of blood plasma and a tape recording.

Haag was wounded in the chest while attacking a Communist-held ridge in Korea. A Bible he had in his breast pocket turned much of the shrapnel from his heart and kept his severe wounds from being fatal.

Pascal, the great French philosopher of the seventeenth century, once wrote that men are afraid of silences because during them they are compelled to think of eternity. Yet that is one of the reasons God wants us to have our times of quietness, wants us to be alone with him. "Be still," He says, "and know that I am God." It is only as we learn to think of eternity, and of its meaning to the individual as well as to God and the universe, that we can live life aright.

The Gospel is eternal! As the gospel is a principle that emanates from God, like its author, it is "the same yesterday, today, and forever," — eternal and unchangeable. God ordained it before the morning stars sang together for joy, or ere this world rolled into existence, for the salvation of the human race. No matter how the individual or the organized religious group interprets the Scriptures, and defines and outlines for themselves the "plan of salvation"; God's original plan remains the same—unchanged and eternal.

Our Children

BASIC EDUCATION

Children in elementary schools must learn the fundamental subjects thoroughly. They must learn to read. That is basic to all education, to our way of life. They must learn the tables so that they can add, subtract, multiply and divide swiftly and accurately. These basic subjects are the child's tools with which he carves out whatever knowledge and skills he needs, wants, and is capable of mustering.

Any new aspect of school education must include this point of view. Children cannot be left to themselves to learn these lessons. They are not interested in them until a grown person stimulates teaching them and making learning them important to the happiness and success of the pupil.

In our desire to be modern to improve our schools, to free the minds and bodies of children so that they can learn sooner, with more enjoyment and with more power and iniative, we are in danger of losing sight of the fundamental facts of education. If we do, the result will be sad. Children will get to high schools unable to read textbooks. Only those who can read with intelligence can benefit by higher education. Boys and girls will be clamoring for admission to engineering schools, technical schools and discover that they cannot get in because they cannot do simple arithmetic much less the higher mathematical problems required.

Freedom is essential; individuality is imperative; initiative is indispensable in sound education. But so is learning; so in self - discipline, thoroughness and well - defined purpose. These must be set in the minds and the characters of the elementary school pupils so that when they go on to the higher schools they carry the essential tools with them. Otherwise they might better go on a trip through the fields and learn of the running brooks and the upstanding trees.

Before children can express themselves in action they must have a self worthy of expression and that requires instruction, application, and action. Children have to learn the basic facts, the fundamentals of learning upon which they can, later, build the fundamental facts of sound character and satisfying occupations.

Baby should learn how to play alone and later how to get on well with other children, how to share, how to cooperate, how to lead and how to follow. Marine Corps Can Take Only 5 Enlistments

The marine corps recruiting office announces that they can take only five (5) volunteer enlistments for the month of February 1952. Interested parties are urged to come by the marine corps recruiting office, Room 312, post office building, Monroe, La. These five vacancies will be given on a first come first served basis.

It is suggested that men who planned to leave for the marine corps in February 1952, contact the marine recruiting office, as soon as is possible, as these five (5) vacancies will not last long.

Bible Comment
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Jesus in the Gospel narratives appears in two characters, or aspects, that to the undiscerning eye might seem different. Nevertheless, both express His teaching concerning honesty and justice, sincerity, and love.

We see Him as the compassionate Savior and friend, dealing gently with sinful men and women (Luke 7:36-50), commending a good Samaritan, approving a humble, repentant publican, weeping with those who wept; blessing little children; and in manifold ways revealing the tender, sympathetic Savior looking upon the multitude as sheep without a shepherd.

Then, in another aspect we see Him as the implacable, indignant Christ, driving the money-changers from the Temple. His whip, actual or woven of rushes, a symbol of righteous force in action. And when we turn to Matthew 23: 13-39, we read in His words that most terrible indictment of evil men have ever spoken—and spoken even against those who considered themselves the officially religious of their day.

Surely sterner words have never been spoken than in that succession of "Woes!"

How can we reconcile them with the gentleness and compassion that the Master showed toward other sinners? The reconciliation is easy: for these were the sinners against the humanity and compassion of the Master's gospel of love. They sinned against their fellowmen, as well as against God by defrauding widows, using religion for their own profit, perverting their spiritual heritage with untruth and hypocrisy.

Here in these professedly strong and religious, despoiling the weak and misleading the people, was something very different from sinners erring through human weakness and a false sense of satisfaction.

It was out of His very gospel of love and compassion that Jesus denounced those who were so grossly perverting the true religion of Israel, the beauty of all that teaching that He had come not to destroy but to fulfill.

I have often thought that in the very intensity of His denunciation the Master's purpose may have been kindly. Could one have loved such evil - doers and hypocrites without denouncing their evil - doing and hypocrisy?

Moreover, if among that hypocritical crew there were any misled souls, with a spark of sincerity, nothing could have been more calculated to challenge them and rouse them, and turn them into purer paths.

It might be said that Jesus was compassionate toward sins of the flesh, but completely denunciatory of sins of the spirit. But in His compassion there was no soft sentimentalism, no excuse or blurring of values. To sinners, whom His very love drew to repentance, He said, "Your sins are forgiven; go, and sin no more." He taught them true values and the way to a better life.

Pascal, the great French philosopher of the seventeenth century, once wrote that men are afraid of silences because during them they are compelled to think of eternity. Yet that is one of the reasons God wants us to have our times of quietness, wants us to be alone with him. "Be still," He says, "and know that I am God." It is only as we learn to think of eternity, and of its meaning to the individual as well as to God and the universe, that we can live life aright.

"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 3, 1952.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God! Therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings." (Ps. 36:7)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine love is infinite. Therefore all that really exists is in and of God, and manifests His love." (p. 340.)

The Gospel is eternal! As the gospel is a principle that emanates from God, like its author, it is "the same yesterday, today, and forever," — eternal and unchangeable. God ordained it before the morning stars sang together for joy, or ere this world rolled into existence, for the salvation of the human race. No matter how the individual or the organized religious group interprets the Scriptures, and defines and outlines for themselves the "plan of salvation"; God's original plan remains the same—unchanged and eternal.

Our Children

BASIC EDUCATION

Children in elementary schools must learn the fundamental subjects thoroughly. They must learn to read. That is basic to all education, to our way of life. They must learn the tables so that they can add, subtract, multiply and divide swiftly and accurately. These basic subjects are the child's tools with which he carves out whatever knowledge and skills he needs, wants, and is capable of mustering.

Any new aspect of school education must include this point of view. Children cannot be left to themselves to learn these lessons. They are not interested in them until a grown person stimulates teaching them and making learning them important to the happiness and success of the pupil.

In our desire to be modern to improve our schools, to free the minds and bodies of children so that they can learn sooner, with more enjoyment and with more power and iniative, we are in danger of losing sight of the fundamental facts of education. If we do, the result will be sad. Children will get to high schools unable to read textbooks. Only those who can read with intelligence can benefit by higher education. Boys and girls will be clamoring for admission to engineering schools, technical schools and discover that they cannot get in because they cannot do simple arithmetic much less the higher mathematical problems required.

Freedom is essential; individuality is imperative; initiative is indispensable in sound education. But so is learning; so in self - discipline, thoroughness and well - defined purpose. These must be set in the minds and the characters of the elementary school pupils so that when they go on to the higher schools they carry the essential tools with them. Otherwise they might better go on a trip through the fields and learn of the running brooks and the upstanding trees.

Before children can express themselves in action they must have a self worthy of expression and that requires instruction, application, and action. Childreh have to learn the basic facts, the fundamentals of learning upon which they can, later, build the fundamental facts of sound character and satisfying occupations.

Baby should learn how to play alone and later how to get on well with other children, how to share, how to cooperate, how to leand and how to follow. Dr. Patri directs parents with this problem in leaflet P-16. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Marine Corps Can Take Only 5 Enlistments

The marine corps recruiting office announces that they can take only five (5) volunteer enlistments for the month of February 1952. Interested parties are urged to come by the marine corps recruiting office, Room 312, post office building, Monroe, La. These five vacancies will be given on a first come first served basis.

It is suggested that men who planned to leave for the marine corps in February 1952, contact the marine recruiting office, as soon as is possible, as these five (5) vacancies will not last long.

Bible Comment

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Jesus in the Gospel narratives appears in two characters, or aspects, that to the undiscerning eye might seem different. Nevertheless, both express His teaching concerning honesty and justice, sincerity, and love.

We see Him as the compassionate Savior and friend, dealing gently with sinful men and women (Luke 7:36-50), commending a good Samaritan, approving a humble, repentant publican, weeping with those who wept; blessing little children; and in manifold ways revealing the tender, sympathetic Savior looking upon the multitude as sheep without a shepherd.

Then, in another aspect we see Him as the implacable, indignant Christ, driving the money-changers from the Temple, His whip, actual or woven of rushes, a symbol of righteous force in action. And when we turn to Matthew 23: 13-39, we read in His words that most terrible indictment of evil men have ever spoken—and spoken even against those who considered themselves the officially religious of their day.

Surely sterner words have never been spoken than in that succession of "Woes!"

How can we reconcile them with the gentleness and compassion that the Master showed toward other sinners? The reconciliation is easy; for these were the sinners against the humanity and compassion of the Master's gospel of love. They sinned against their fellowmen, as well as against God by defrauding widows, using religion for their own profit, perverting their spiritual heritage with untruth and hypocrisy.

Here in these professedly strong and religious, despoiling the weak and misleading the people, was something very different from sinners erring through human weakness and a false sense of satisfaction.

It was out of His very gospel of love and compassion that Jesus denounced those who were so grossly perverting the true religion of Israel, the beauty of all that teaching that He had come not to destroy but to fulfill.

I have often thought that in the very intensity of His denunciation the Master's purpose may have been kindly. Could one have loved such evil - doers and hypocrites without denouncing their evil - doing and hypocrisy?

Moreover, if among that hypocritical crew there were any misled souls, with a spark of sincerity, nothing could have been more calculated to challenge them and rouse them, and turn them into purer paths.

It might be said that Jesus was compassionate toward sins of the flesh, but completely denunciatory of sins of the spirit. But in His compassion there was no soft sentimentalism, no excuse or blurring of values. To sinners, whom His very love drew to repentance, He said, "Your sins are forgiven; go, and sin no more." He taught them true values and the way to a better life.

Rearing Family Hard Task...
Make It Easier By Family Prayer

Rearing a family is quite a job. It always was and always will be. Even the perfect Family, the Holy Family of Nazareth, knew worry, difficulty and sorrow. And if things were difficult then, they are much worse now. Did we say it was hard "to rear a family?" That's just a bit ahead of the story. Parents today have to overcome an unbelievable number of obstacles just to have a family. People today seek their pleasure, diversion and recreation outside the family circle. This has made the home a combination filling station, bunk house and wailing wall where members of the family eat, sleep and complain. Obviously something has been left out, and that something is Family Prayer. In a word, what is needed now more than anything else is a return to Family Prayer and not just any kind of Family Prayer, as good as that might be, but the Family Rosary. The Family Rosary Prayer Crusade now under way aims to begin, or restore or strengthen this very practice in the Home.

Join the Family Rosary Crusade and help put God back in our Homes through Family Prayer. If interested call St. Matthew's Church, 121 Jackson St., Monroe, or Phone 3-8878.

Return To God By Prayer In Family Rosary Crusade

In the past 100 years the Blessed Mother of Our Saviour has appeared three times – and each time she has brought Heavenly Gifts – a Heavenly message and a Heavenly weapon against evil.

The gifts are the thousands of miracles which have attended her coming. The message was simple and realistic – Pray and do penance. The weapon is Family Prayer and the beautiful Family Rosary. Mary appeared in 1846 on the Mountain of LaSalette to two little shepherd children. Her Message was that men must return to prayer and do penance.

A few short years later, another little girl, Bernadette of Loudres, saw Mary and talked to her, not just once but 18 times. She asked this child to get the people to do penance and to kneel and say the rosary with her for the sins of the world.

Then in our own century while men were busy killing each other in the First World War Mary appeared again to three children, this time at Fatima. In six visits Mary brought six warnings: We must repent of our sins and say our Rosary. Who was she, the children asked. "Our Lady of the Rosary" was the reply.

In these three great appearances of Mary these facts stand out. When Mary came, she always appeared to little children, when asked how men could avert God's punishment her one answer was – penance – and when she told us to pray, she said to pray the Rosary.

TARZAN

SOON OTHER ARROWS DROPPED MORE OF THE BEWILDERED FOE. TARZAN, HIDDEN IN THE TREES, WAS FORCED INTO HASTY ACTION BY TUSKER'S BLUNDER. SUDDENLY HIS BOOMING VOICE RESOUNDED THROUGHOUT THE VILLAGE. "GET THE GIRL, WHITE MAN, AND FLEE TO THE FOREST--IF ANY OTHERS TRY TO STOP YOU, THEY DIE!"
PANIC-STRICKEN BY THIS DEMONIC VOICE, THE SUPERSTITIOUS PYGMIES FLED TO THEIR HUTS--WHILE TUSKER URGED LYNN TO TAKE THIS MIRACULOUS ADVANTAGE!
BUT THE CRAFTY SOBU RECOGNIZED THE APE-MAN'S VOICE. "IT'S A TRICK!" HE SCREAMED. "AFTER THEM!"

AFTER HEROICALLY SAVING THE FLOODED CAPITAL OF MARS BY BLASTING A CHANNEL FOR THE ONRUSHING WATER, FLASH IS ABANDONED BY QUEEN MENTA IN THE PATH OF THE TORRENT. THE THUNDERING FLOOD TOSSES HIS UNCONSCIOUS BODY LIKE A FRAGMENT OF DRIFTWOOD!

DALE SEEMS SO THOROUGHLY CRUSHED BY THE DISASTER TO FLASH, THAT MENTA DECIDES THE HEARTSICK GIRL IS NO LONGER A THREAT. "YOU CAN LET HER GO NOW," THE QUEEN TELLS HER PILOT "GET BACK TO THE CONTROLS!"

SUDDENLY, WITH STRENGTH BORN OF DESPERATION, DALE SNATCHES THE PARALYZING NEUTRO-BEAM GUN FROM MENTA'S HAND. "DIVE DOWN CLOSE TO THE CANAL... FAST!" DALE ORDERS THE FRIGHTENED PILOT. "WE'RE GOING TO RESCUE FLASH!"

BUT THE CHURNING TORRENT REFUSES TO GIVE UP ITS VICTIM. DALE'S MOMENTARY ELATION GIVES WAY TO PANICKY FEAR AS SHE SCANS THE FLOODED PLAIN AND SEES NO TRACE OF FLASH. "IT'S HOPELESS, GIRL," MENTA SAYS COLDLY. "YOU CAN'T FIGHT A WHOLE PLANET SINGLEHANDED!"

MEANWHILE, DEEP IN THE ICY WATERS, FLASH'S BATTERED AND UNCONSCIOUS FORM DRIFTS HELPLESSLY. HIS AIR-HELMET SAVES HIM FROM DROWNING, BUT IT OFFERS NO PROTECTION FROM ANOTHER IMMINENT PERIL... THE TALONS OF A HUNGRY WHIP-SHARK THAT IS CIRCLING WARILY AROUND ITS PREY!

DIAL SOAP removes the cause of perspiration odor!

DIAL with AT-7 (hexachlorophene) cleans away thousands of odor-causing bacteria that ordinary soaps leave on your skin.

No matter how often or how thoroughly you wash, ordinary soaps cannot effectively remove the skin bacteria that cause perspiration odor. But DIAL with AT-7 does. So odor never even has a chance to get started—any place on your body. You'll stay fresh all over—all day—with DIAL!

DIAL's creamy lather and gentle bacteria-removing action really protect your complexion, too. Get DIAL—both bath and complexion sizes, today!

Better than ordinary soap!

Doctors proved it! No ordinary soap can get you so clean as DIAL with AT-7. In Surgical Scrub-up tests, doctors found that AT-7 soap leaves skin 10 times freer of bacteria than even strong hospital soaps. Yet DIAL is mild and gentle as a soap can be!

Better than deodorants!

Not just underarm—but all-over protection! That's what DIAL gives you—without stopping normal healthful perspiration. Because bathing daily with DIAL removes up to 95% of the skin bacteria that cause odor. Gives you all-over freshness no deodorant can equal!

Change to DIAL for a clearer, cleaner complexion, too!

Depend on DIAL, the soap that stops odor before it starts!
